Senators Get U.N. Briefing From Goldberg

U. S. May Seek World Body's Help
In Viet Nam Voting

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unit ed Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg briefed senators to- day amid indications the United States may bid for General As- sembly action to supervise South Viet Nam's proposed elec- tions.

Goldberg, who has encour- aged stiff opposition within Se- curity Council circles to Sai- gon's request for U.N. observ- ers, scheduled a luncheon with about 15 senators. Most of the 15 are considered liberals and some have criticized President Johnson's course in Viet Nam.

Goldberg called Sunday for a "mutual cessation of all types of hostilities" in Viet Nam and urged that a new Geneva con- ference be held to reaffirm 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements for peace in Southeast Asia.

Commencement Talk
In a commencement address at the Catholic University of America here, Goldberg also prepared to abide by the result's of reunification elections con- templated by the 1954 Geneva agreement "whatever these re- sults might be."

Today's informal exchange of views between Goldberg and the group of senators was arranged by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D- Utah, who expected most of the discussion to center on the role the United Nations might play—

Big Increase Reported in Jobless Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unem- ployment last month took its biggest jump in a year, the Labor Department reported to- day, and a spokesman said it indicated a slowdown in the rate of the nation's economic growth.

But, as Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said, "There is every reason to believe that the over- all (economic) movement is still upward," despite the rise in May from 3.7 to 4 per cent in the jobless rate.

The total number of unem- ployed rose 140,000 to 2.9 mil- lion.

Ross said the biggest part of the increase was among high school and college students put- ting in bids for summer jobs, although they were still in school in May and not ready to work until June.

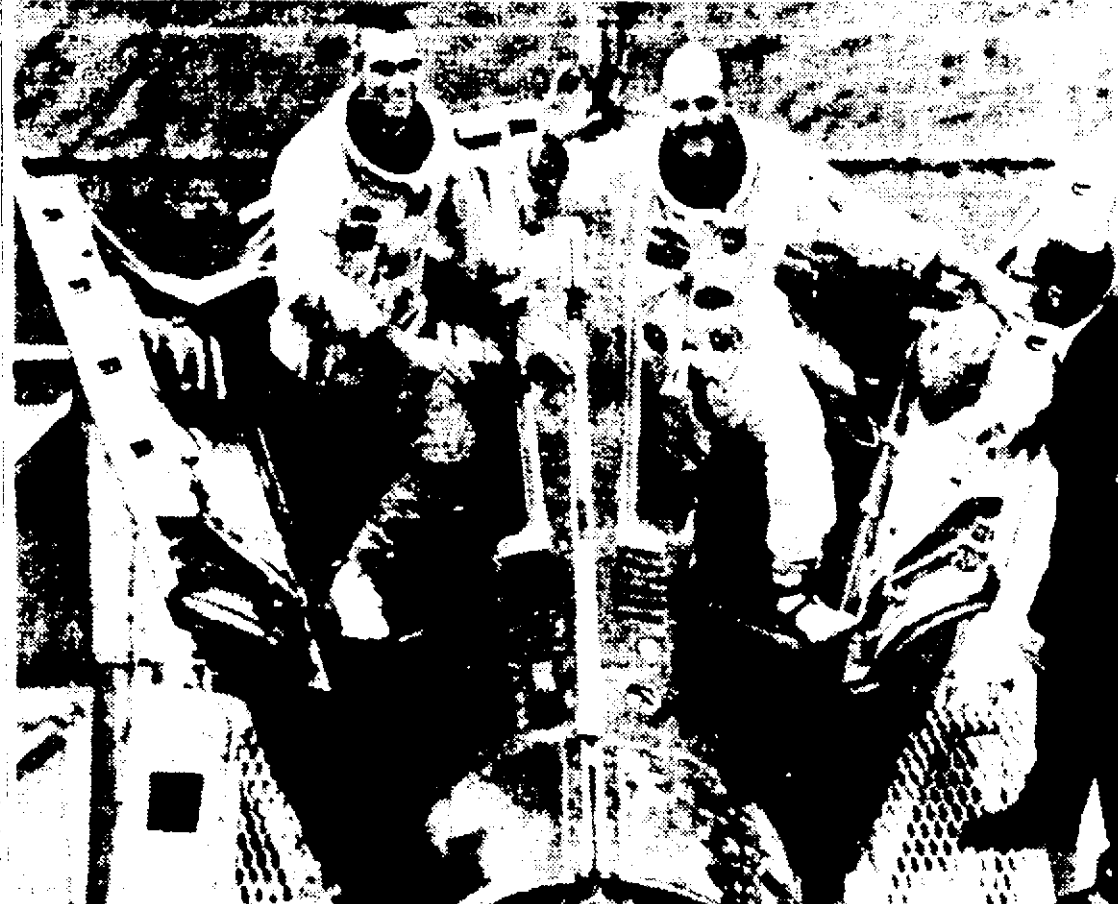

"It doesn't prove that they are not going to get work," Ross said.

He called for a "Democratic Unity Committee to monitor the Democratic primary for govern- ment to insure decorous conduct during the pre-primary period, and to make long-range plans for the general election cam- paign."

Carley promised Democrats who will be in Madison next weekend to expect "a lively convention."

"And," he said, "for the first time in many years this state will witness a primary contest for governor in which the candidates start out with relatively equal chances of winning and in which the party or incumbency has not given one candidate a great advantage over others."

The third Democratic guber- natorial candidate to appear spoke briefly and said he is running on "a people's program ... a program of money. Money," Swed said, "for old people in the form of property tax relief and money for clean water to fight pollution."

Sun Prairie Collision

Neenah Youth Dies in Crash; 18 Killed During Weekend

Robert Kuttig, Jr., 19, 676 S. Park Ave., Neenah, was one of three persons killed in a head-on collision at 6:56 a.m. today in Sun Prairie, one-half mile east of Bird St. on U.S. 151.

Kuttig and a passenger in the car he was driving, Jeffrey W. Harper, 19, Madison, were pronounced dead at the scene by Dane County authorities. Walter P. Foulk, 49, Madison, driver of the second car, was pronounced dead at the Methodist Hospital in Madison.

The Dane County Traffic Department said Kuttig was traveling west on U.S. 151 and Foulk was headed east when the accident occurred. Authorities were investigating the accident.

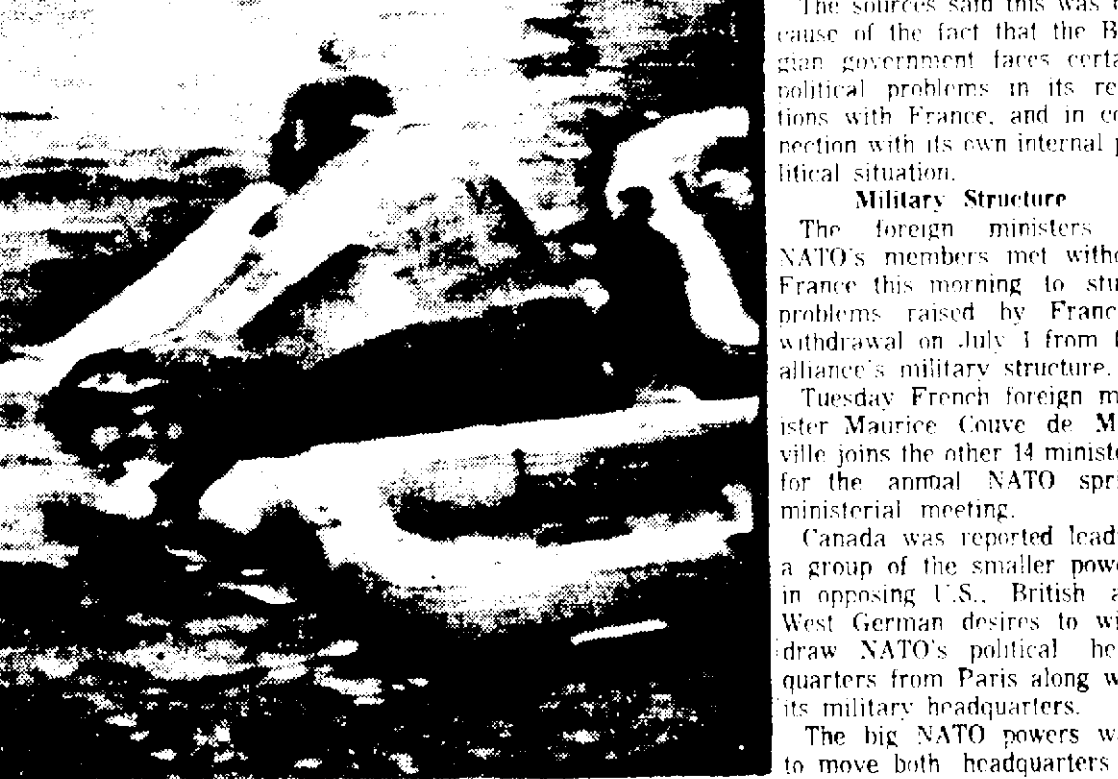

The three early morning fatalities raised the state toll to 333. The toll last year stood at 359.

University Student
Kuttig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Kuttig, Sr., was born Nov. 4, 1946 in Neenah. He attended Neenah High School, was graduated from St. John Military Academy at Delafield consistent with the due process and was a student at the clause of the 14th Amendment.

He was affiliated with the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity and a member of the First Presby- terian Church, Neenah.

Survivors include the parents, one sister, two grandmothers and one great-grandmother.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in First Pres- byterian Chapel with the Rev. John E. Bouquet officiating. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery. Friends may call at the Westgro Funeral Home, Neenah, from 4 p.m. Tuesday until 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Millions View Landing On Television as Pair Descends From 3-Day Trip

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 9 astronauts rode their tiny spaceship to a near- perfect safe landing in the At- lantic Ocean today, climaxing a sensational, often-trouble- some flight highlighted by Eu- gene A. Cernan's record space walk.

Astronauts Thomas P. Staf- ford and Cernan made the most accurate landing in the U.S. man-in-space program. They parked Gemini 9 less than two miles from the aiming point and only about three miles from the main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp, and in the view of millions of tele- vision watchers.

"On the Money"
"On the money" splashdown came at 10 a.m. EDT after a flight of 3 days, 21 minutes, during which Gemini 9 circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 12 million miles.

While thousands of sailors, wearing their Sunday best, cheered, the Wasp maneuvered alongside and retrieved the as- tronauts and space craft from the sea 50 minutes after splash- down.

Stafford and Cernan acknow- ledged the cheers with waves and thumbs-up signals. Both appeared relaxed and in excellent physical condition.

Within Sight
Command pilot Stafford, whose cool, on-the-spot de- cisions played a key role in the mission, steered the space ship to a touchdown within sight of the carrier and on-deck televi- sion cameras, which relayed the dramatic picture via the Early Bird satellite to millions of U.S. homes.

On deck, the spacecraft's hatches were re-opened and the smiling astronauts stood up, waved at the sailors and the TV cameras and shook hands with Navy and space agency officials.

They then shook hands with one another and Stafford rubbed his three-day-old beard and laughed.

Star Found By Surveyor

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's lunar peeping tom, Surveyor 1, its delicate footpads resting firmly on the moon's lumpy surface, has taken a long, long look at a star.

The spacecraft's accurate tel- evision eye, sought and found Sirius, the brightest star in the sky, providing scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory with a good fix on Surveyor's exact location.

The scientists said pictures of the bright star were received Sunday among 451 new photos of the lunar surface, some show- ing a range of hills in the dis- tance.

The hills, or small mountains, had been noticed in earlier pic- tures, but only as small lumps in the distance. Far more de- tail was obtained, the scientists said, by switching to a narrow- angle, long-range lens.

Sun's Heat
Scientists planned to keep a close eye on Surveyor's reac- tion today to the sun's heat.

As the moon goes into its pe- riod of high moon, the surface temperature where Surveyor is was expected to go as high as 260 degrees Fahrenheit. The camera would not be turned on in this period because, accord- ing to one scientist, it might "blow up or melt."

After the period of high moon, the experiments will resume through the morning of June 14 when the lunar day — two weeks in earth time — ends.

After that, the scientists said, Surveyor's usefulness will end. The craft's delicate instruments would be destroyed in the lu- nar night's temperature of 260 degrees below zero. The night, like the lunar day, is two weeks long.

Golden Agers On the Town

"Old" is a word not in their vocabulary. And watching the Golden Age Club at a party makes it clear there really is "gold" in one's later years.

Wednesday evening members of Golden Age Clubs from throughout the area gathered at the Cinderella Ballroom, to dance, to play cards, to have a good time with new and old friends.

Greetings were gay and spontaneous. Warm hand-clasps. Hugs. A kiss on the cheek. And then the music began. An old time band came up with schottisches, two steps, polkas, waltzes and fox trots. A bar was set up at one end of the ballroom, and, in a back room, there were several games of sheephead going strong.

Ample Amount

Fun seems to be the ingredient Golden Age Clubs provide in abundance.

"We aren't any different from when we were younger," one gray haired lady twinkled. "It's just that nobody needs us any more." Their "jobs" may be finished, but obviously golden agers aren't ready to quit being people. They like to laugh and dance, to joke, to feel that someone has an interest in them as individuals. A touch on the arm, a spin around the floor, a sincere question, an honest smile — all are important communications.

The party at the Cinderella was the fifth time the area golden agers have met there. Everything is free. The use of the hall is donated for the evening and the musicians' union supplies the music. If a fella wants to buy a girl a beer, that could be his only expense for the evening.

'As You Feel'

Being an "older" citizen is all a state of mind, anyhow, they assert. No one could tell by looking at some that they were near or beyond 60. Their legs are slim; their hair dark, their eyes bright and their laughter genuine.

They step as neatly around the floor as a teen-ager, and some who suffer the infirmities of arthritis when walking seem to lose their stiffness when the music takes over and sets the beat.

He Waited

They make friends from other cities at such parties, and Wednesday evening one man kept asking if a certain lady from Fond du Lac had arrived yet. When she did, he was ready to dance.

The club has several marriages to its credit. People who had lost mates and thought life was about over suddenly found someone who cared and needed them. But romance is not the reason. What the golden agers seek and find is conversation with someone who can understand them — someone who's been there and knows.

There aren't many who can't talk about heartbreak, though few do. What they do share is the joy of growing grandchildren and the effort to find a place in the hearts of the young. They talk about the success of their children, their own interests, things they like to do.

And those who listen provide the kind of friendship no one else can give.

Everyone is asked to dance at Golden Age parties. Whether one comes with an escort or not, the music is king and there's always someone to pay it homage. Above: H. G. Baum, Sheboygan, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ehlert, Fond du Lac, were interrupted by a dance request from Guy Bird, Fond du Lac. Mrs. Ehlert complied. Below, dancers also like the slower steps. They are Mrs. Floyd Locke and Roy Bastian, both of Appleton. (Post-Crescent Photos by Jack Barla)

It's Her Trick, and Mrs. Charles Bolter, Fond du Lac, knows a thing or two about sheephead. Golden Age Club members who chose not to dance at the Wednesday evening made up card groups and played for all they were worth.

Ninth Grade Bids Farewell at Madison Party

"Rising Sun" was the theme of the ninth grade farewell party at Madison Junior High School Friday evening. The party, held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., featured two fire-eating dragons and a large Shinto shrine as decorations.

Rudolph Richter and Mrs. Forrest Sprawl had charge of refreshments. Mrs. C. R. McBain supervised decorations.

Promises Exchanged

WITTENBERG — Miss Miriam Larson and Gary Gandrud exchanged marriage promises of the ninth grade farewell in a double ring ceremony at 3 p.m. Saturday. The Rev. M. J. Hale officiated at the rite at the Redemer Lutheran Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Larson, and bridegroom, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Gandrud, of Minneapolis, Minn., will honeymoon in Europe this summer.

Miss Janice Johnson, Mason City, Iowa, attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William Schurr, Miss Susan Larson and Miss Cleone Rue.

James Wigg, Minneapolis, served his cousin as best man. Groomsmen were John Jensen, Harold Peterson and Paul Larsen.

The bride and groom were seated by Thomas Rime and Paul T. Applen.

A reception was held at the church after the ceremony. When the newlyweds return home, they will live in Minneapolis, where the bridegroom will attend law school at the University of Minnesota. He and the bride are any care instructions that come graduates of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

Ceremony Performed

LITTLE CHUTE—Mrs. Dorothy Rhodes, 1005 E. Lincoln St., was married to Donald Nooker, Two Rivers, in a double ring ceremony at 9 p.m. Saturday at St. John Catholic Church. The Rev. Charles Brooks officiated.

Mrs. Rhodes' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Baeten, Combined Locks, attended as honor aides.

A reception was held at Hammen's Bar.

After a wedding trip, the couple will live in Two Rivers.

Choose Fabric Carefully When Switching Drapes

To make a major decorating effect you want in the room, change, like getting new drapes. Large, bold prints may give life to a room, but they can be too much for a small one. In a small room, try out many samples, to a large room, but they can be too much for a small one. In a small room, try out many samples, to a large room, but they can be too much for a small one.

Remember Weight

A sheer, light weight fabric like Dacron and Fortrel, or saran and glass fibers are particularly resistant.

You can protect draperies from the sun with a lining. Use either one that's sewn to the drapery or one that's hung on a separate rod. If the drapery is sheer the separate lining draws behind it.

Consider the care the draperies will need. Even though some fabrics are washable, finished draperies may be too large to handle easily at home. Your dry cleaner may wash them for you. Give the cleaner school of the kind of drapery fabric or grade of the kind of drapery fabric or grade of the kind of drapery fabric.

Medical Assistants' Convention

Medicare Bill Termed 'Most Significant Legislation'

"Some say this is the most significant piece of legislation enacted in this country," Leo E. Suycott told 150 medical assistants and guests Saturday at the Terrace Motor Inn. Speaking on "Medicare and Its Impact," he added that it would have "far-reaching effects, regardless of age."

Mr. Suycott, chief executive officer of the Wisconsin Blue Cross Plan was one of seven speakers at the 11th annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Medical Assistants' Society convention Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The speaker summarized the three parts of Public Law 897, referred to as 'Medicare' and explored a few of the social possibilities of the law, including immediate effects upon the medical assistants who would interpret the provisions and make out bills differently after July 1, because of the law.

Mr. Suycott pointed out that the most important part of the act, Title 19, is the least publicized. Medicare is only a portion of the bill.

Among effects this law will have upon our lives will be increased payroll costs, re-examination of health programs to prevent duplication, broader pressure for increased coverage in insurance and re-examination of retirement programs.

Similarly, the effects on health facilities will be equally great, he predicted. This will include a "substantial increase in the use of physicians' services," he said.

The rise in hospital admissions due to Medicare has been estimated to be from five to twenty per cent, he reported. There also may be a shift in the use of hospitals.

Need Changes

He produced other startling facts to indicate changes that will be necessitated under Medicare. Only 40 per cent of the needed nursing home facilities exist, he quoted. In the area of home health services, "only one of 12 hospitals have home care programs." By 1975 the country will need 70,000 more doctors. The need for nurses by 1970 will be 300,000 more than presently engaged in that field.

"We will continue to need more of everything," he stated. The best solution to this situation will be to "encourage more young people to enter health care fields," he said.

In presenting a visual overview of Medicare benefits, Mr. Suycott employed an overhead projector to summarize the points on a screen and the three-layer cake analogy to discuss the areas covered by the bill.

For Over 65

The first section — Part A — is the basic hospitalization plan for those over 65 years of age.

The second section — Part B — is a voluntary medical plan. It primarily concerns physicians' services.

The last section — Title 19 — deals with expansion of state federal welfare plans, meaning increased aid in providing medical services for indigents. It's the "big sleeper" in the total act, he said, indicating that its effects would be most far-reaching of all if all states enact legislation supporting it.

He briefly listed specific provisions of the first two parts of the bill: the medical assistants would shortly be dealing with them in detail.

"The final layer of the cake we're baking this morning involves a totally new concept," he stated, discussing Title 19. It proposes a single medical assistance program to replace other existing ones.

It would include the medically needy who don't qualify now for previously established assistance programs. These include the aged, blind, disabled persons, children under 21 and the parents of needy and persons in mental institutions.

"There would be approximately 35 million eligible for assistance if all the states adopt this by 1975," said Mr. Suycott, pointing out that a far greater number of persons directly affected by this provision than Baltimore, Md., to which data by the strictly Medicare aspects from all over the country will be wired, thus insuring promptness and accuracy in handling the administrative aspects of putting Medicare into effect and individual cases.

Insurance companies also then maintaining its effectiveness are "immense," he said, having worked out policies to supplement Medicare payments in the state of Wisconsin alone.

Advised Assistants

He urged the use of "tolerance" on our part with patients and relatives unfamiliar with all the details of the act who would work with this country's most precious possession — the finest medical protection in the world.

The entire act comes under the jurisdiction of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. This makes it a prime function of the Social Security Administration. Further along the ladder of administration, intermediaries are appointed.

In Wisconsin Blue Cross has been chosen to handle Part A.

Don't Waste A Trump For Finesse

The easiest way to take a diamond finesse is to lead a diamond. A more devious way, possible only if diamonds are trumps, is to lead a side suit.

when you are ready to over ruff the opponent. This devious way may help you keep one trump for other purposes.

South ruffs the second round of hearts and leads the ace of diamonds expecting an easy time. West discards a heart and South must revise his expectations.

South must finesse to draw East's trumps, but he will wind up in the garbage can if he uses one of dummy's trumps for the finesse.

Suppose South leads a club to dummy's king and returns a trump. Declarer can win a finesse with the ten of diamonds and can then draw the rest of the trumps. But then dummy is out of trumps and neither the spades nor the clubs can be run. South must give up at least one trick.

Cash Spades
South makes the contract easily by cashing the king and queen of spades before leading a club to dummy's king. Then he leads the ace of spades from dummy.

East cannot stay out of trouble by failing to ruff. Declarer can then lead three good spades from dummy and discard three low clubs from his hand. He will still be in dummy, so can lead a trump for the finesse. South draws all of the trumps and takes the last trick with the ace of clubs.

If East ruffs a spade, South over-ruffs. This is a sort of finesse and South draws the rest of the trumps. The vital difference is that one trump is still left in dummy. South cashes the ace of clubs and ruffs a club after which dummy wins the rest of the tricks with any spades that are still left.

Daily Question
As dealer you hold: S A 1 6 5 2 H K 4 D 8 7 5 3 C K 6. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You have 11 points in high cards and 2 points for the doubletons, enough for an optional opening bid. In this case you decide against the bid because your spot-cards are worthless. Put a sprinkling of tens and nines in the hand and you would open the bidding with one spade.

UW Coed Graduates as Nuclear Engineer Today

MADISON (AP) — Valerie Petersen, 22, of Evansville, Wis., will receive a B.A. degree in nuclear engineering from the University of Wisconsin on Monday, the first awarded a woman in the school's history.

Her career shows near perfect grade averages for four years at UW. She received many engineering honors. Next year she plans graduate work at the University of California. Valerie said she's asked many times what inspired her to become a nuclear engineer.

It just happened that way, she said. I went to grade school in a one-room school house near my parents' farm in Evansville and that's where I developed an interest in general science.

Physics and math fascinated her in high school. At the university, her interest narrowed to nuclear engineering.

All her family is interested in science, she noted.

My father has a natural aptitude in math and science, and he used to help me with calculus and physics problems in high school, she recalled.

But I would have to wait until he came in from plowing the fields, she added.

How does your garden grow? With a bit of imagination and a minimum of work, you can make a full circle skirt with a sash type waistband. Then applique your own garden by using contrasting patches of fabric for pots and flowers and baby rickrack for stems and leaves. Of, if you wish, create your own design using any theme you wish.

To complete your costume make a matching triangular head scarf for breezy days.

You'll Need: 3 1/2 yards of cotton fabric, 36 inches wide; about 4 packages of jumbo rickrack (yardage depends on measurement around bottom edge of skirt); To Cut:

1. Fold fabric in half crosswise, raw edges meeting. Find for center point on one selvage edge and mark.

2. Tie a string around a pencil. Place string on center point mark and hold firmly with your finger. Draw a semi-circle for your waistline. To determine the radius of the semi-circle, 4 inch radius for 22-24 waist.

Applique Full Skirt

1 inch radius for 24-26 waist; 5 inch radius for 26-28 waist.

3. Draw another semi-circle for body of skirt using same center point. The radius is determined by your skirt length.

4. Attach rickrack to all three sides of head scarf as you did on hem edge and sash ends.

Your Problems

Husband Squanders Money on Drunken, Long-Distance Calls

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a working man and has always made a modest salary. We have managed to raise and educate our four children by following my mother's rule: "Eat it all. Wear it out. Sew it up. Do without."

Now that the children are on their own things could be a lot easier financially, except for one thing: My husband goes on a drinking spree every two or three weeks and places long-distance telephone calls to friends all over North America. He calls people he hasn't seen in years like his old Marine buddies. I can tell by his end of the conversation that some of these people don't even remember him.

Furthermore, I can't get it through his head about the different time zones. We live in Santa Barbara. Last night he called a buddy in Buffalo at 11 p.m. and wondered why he didn't get a big hello. He got mad and yelled: How do you like that jerk — asleep at 11 o'clock?

I tried to explain that while it is 11 o'clock in California it is 2 a.m. in New York. He said I was crazy.

It burns me up that I have to hunt for bargains to save a few pennies on canned goods while my husband squanders hundreds of dollars on drunken nonsense of dollars on drunken nonsense that he can't even remember the next day. Please tell me what to do. — Very Annoyed

DEAR VERY: Ask around and determine if any of your local friends have husbands who are similarly afflicted. The boys could form a group known as Telephone Drunks Anonymous. When they get stiff they can call each other up and talk their heads off. This would be a heckula lot cheaper than calling Buffalo.

If you can't turn up anyone, try waving last month's phone bill before his bloodshot eyes when he begins to go off the deep end? It might help—depending on how smashed he is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had use a 4 inch radius. If skirt length is 26 inches, add 4 inches to this giving you a radius of 30 inches for the large semi-circle. Cut out skirt. You now have two half circles or semi-circles.

4. Cut a strip of fabric 5 inches wide and 3 1/2 yards long along the other selvage edge for sash band. Cut a triangle for scarf 24 x 24 x 34 from remaining fabric.

To Make:
1. Using a 5/8 inch seam, sew two semi-circles together forming a full circle skirt. Leave 6 inches open on one side for placket. Press seams open.

3. Sash band. Pin raw edges of sash strip to waistline of skirt, right sides together, with center of strip on side seam. Stitch sash to skirt with 1 inch seam. Press seam allowances up towards sash. Turn selvage edge of sash under 1/4 inch and top-stitch a narrow hem. Finish sash ends with rickrack, as you did hem edge. Now sew snaps on side placket.

4. Attach rickrack to all three sides of head scarf as you did on hem edge and sash ends.

an appointment with my doctor today and something happened that upset me terribly.

When the nurse left the room I picked up the doctor's chart. I had read only a few sentences common practice of if my doctor is just plain mean — Eau Claire, Wis.

Dear Eau Claire: I know of no physician who allows his patients to see the charts — and for very good reason.

A chart contains the doctor's impressions and suspicions. A patient might interpret these notations as a final diagnosis and be unduly concerned.

If you described the nurse's behavior accurately she was unnecessarily rough with you. I think she owes you an apology — and you owe the doctor one.

Repairing Broken Handles

By Roger C. Whitman
Q: Please help me. I have a one - and - half - quart saucepan. The handle came off. How can I fix it? Shall I solder it or get a welder to do the job?
A: It depends on your skill at soldering stainless; not for the inexperienced. However, you might easily make a perfect repair with plastic steel, available in most hardware stores. Well worth a try, and if the break is such that there's not enough "tooth" even for plastic steel, you can always fall back on the welder - or simply getting another pan.

Q: Since we converted to gas heat, we have had a damp chimney problem. Where it goes up through the second floor bedrooms, the plaster is wet all summer. We have been told this is condensation, from the warm, damp air striking the cooler masonry - and the only way we can stop the wet walls over the chimney is to build a false wall around it. This is to provide a space of dead air, to insulate. Is this true? If so, how do you build this false wall?

A: The principle is completely true. A dead-air space will block all the problems caused by condensation. To make the false wall, secure vertical furring strips of one-by-one strips to the chimney. Over these you can fasten panels of plywood, dry wall, etc., which you can either paint, plaster or paper.

Q: Please advise if it would be possible to stain existing birch cabinets in the kitchen to a darker shade such as walnut. If so, how do I do this?

A: First remove the present finish so you can get at the bare wood underneath. For paint or varnish, use paint remover. For shellac, use alcohol. Since the birch is a lighter shade than the desired walnut, all you need do is wipe on the walnut, and stop the action when the stain reaches the shade you want. If it were the reverse, then you'd first have to bleach out the darker stain with commercial wood bleach. After that you'd apply the stain desired.

Q: If a new concrete base-

MEN GO FOR HELPLESS FEMALES!

TRUE OR FALSE?

False. Most men want a girl to be able to "give," but at the same time, to come back. We would like to hear from you "poor-little-me" appeal, especially if the girl is cute and makes them feel important. In such cases there's usually trouble. A man who would "fall" for this line enough to marry would have to be over-eager to dominate. Secondly, in the long pull of marriage, such "helplessness" is "glue in the honey pot." Fortunately many girls who appear this way are only putting on an act, and after marriage come through very well.

Who are most flexible? Youth - Other People - We think older people. In discussing this we should not confuse flexibility with stability. Older people are more stable. Having had more experience, they are less gullible and less ready to run off after the latest policies and ideas. Flexibility means essentially the ability to adjust to circumstances without losing one's integrity and direction.

Body Acid Does Not Determine Hair Color

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes hair to turn gray? Mine was always very dark and I assumed that when it began to turn, it would be very white. Instead it has a yellowish tinge. Several beauticians tell me this is caused by an acid condition. How can it be remedied? — Mrs. M.

Except for treating severe malnutrition, thyroid deficiency and various skin diseases attacking the scalp, there isn't much we can do about controlling the amount, quality and natural color of the hair. Diseases with high fever sometimes cause loss of hair, but all we can do is treat the disease and hope the hair will regrow, which it usually does.

Babies don't grown on trees! But when Junior wants to know where they do come from, how do you answer? This age-old problem is a thing of the past when you send for "How To Tell Your Child About Sex." This ing ZIP Code) sent to: "Let's as they fade, the yellow tinge can be yours for 25 cents and the Post-Crescent.

Likewise the tight "pony-tail" hair-dos cause some loss. Other than that, heredity appears to be the most important governing factor. The original color is due to pigments. As a person grows older, the amount of pigments decline, principally because of diminished blood supply to the hair follicles, or to enzyme changes which govern the conversion of nutrients into pigments.

In general, these are natural processes. When a person becomes gray very early, it is more likely due to some hereditary defect in the chemistry of pigment formation. People in the best of health become prematurely gray because of this.

Whether the hair then is white or yellowish, depends on the original color, because there can be a mixture of pigments, yellow among others. Darker pigments cover up the yellow; as they fade, the yellow tinge becomes visible.

It is not caused by "an acid condition," and beauticians would do their clients a favor by discarding that old wheeze. In fact, acid condition has been used as an explanation for everything from hiccups to hangnails, and used so often that people take it for granted that it means something. Well, it doesn't. Reasonably healthy people maintain an average in acidity or lack of it in various parts of the body. The only time (electrocardiographic) readings return to normal in a relatively short time.

Dr. Molner

So, if hair, instead of being chestnut brown, has a yellowish tinge, it is natural. The color doesn't mean you are acid, or need vitamins or anything of that sort.

The yellow may remain, or it may, like the darker color, gradually fade out and leave the hair white or gray. Meantime there's nothing to do about it except to use a rinse or "touch-up." It's a cosmetic matter, not a diagnostic sign.

Note to G.A.S.: These special stockings which your doctor recommended for varicose veins are a brand fitted to your measurements. Thus they give better support. They are rather widely used in such cases.

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper requesting the booklet, "How To Deal With Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Annual Awards Announced at Lawrence

Prizes Recognizing General Excellence
Honor Students

The traditional prizes recognizing general excellence on the Lawrence University campus were announced today.

The Mrs. H. K. Babcock award, given to an adult in the Lawrence community for cooperation in student affairs, went to Dr. Margaret Shea Gilbert, who holds the Alice J. Hunt professorship in life sciences. Mrs. Gilbert will leave the Lawrence faculty this spring when her husband, Dr. W. Paul Gilbert, returns from the Philippines. Dr. Gilbert was the first time they could see the Sawyer chair in physics, recall seeing deer that close to Bith Gilberts will join the faculty of Hawaii Loa College; they were the first teachers to be appointed by President Chandler Rowe, former dean at Lawrence.

The Spector Cup, for "that member of the senior class who best exemplifies those qualities—physical, mental and moral—which go to make up the well-rounded student" was awarded to Robert Pepper, Milwaukee, who served this year as head resident of Brookway Hall.

John E. Seidmore Award

Delmar Karlen, Garrison-on-Hudson, N.Y., was given the John E. Seidmore award, as the senior man who best exemplifies academic diligence, service to groups with which he has been associated, and genuine interest in and loyalty to classmates.

Four top junior awards were: The Warren Hurst Stevens prize scholarship, to a man distinguished for high scholarship and useful activity in college affairs; to Carter Eckert, Wisconsin; the Otho Pearce Fairfield prize scholarship, to a junior showing great promise of distinguished service in the promotion of human progress; to Daniel LeMahieu, West Bend; the Junior Spade and Junior Spoon, to the outstanding man and woman of that class; to Nora Bailey, Chicago, Ill., and Hugh Nellans, Westchester, Ill., respectively.

The Judith Anne Gustafson memorial recognizing an outstanding sophomore woman track trophy was replaced this year by the A. C. Denney award, which will honor the highest-scoring track resident of Russell Sage Hall, was given to Judith Halgren, Downers Grove, Ill.

Top Sport Awards

Deer Destroyed After Collision With Steel Fence

A small deer had to be shot about 3 p.m. Saturday after it received a broken and torn leg when it ran into a tall, steel fence surrounding the Badger School yard on W. Spencer Street in the Town of Grand Chute.

A second deer also ran into the fence, but did not appear to be seriously injured according to witnesses.

The two deer crossed several lawns along the south side of W. Spencer Street before they struck the fence which separates the schoolyard and the Donald Van Handel property, 3403 W. Spencer St.

The smaller of the two deer, front leg shattered in several places, could not get off the ground following the collision. Persons living in the area said it was the first time they could recall seeing deer that close to their homes.

Woman Complains of Whiplash to Neck

KAUKAUNA — Mrs. Agnes Kilgas, 59, 611 Crooks Ave., complained of a whiplash injury to her neck when the car in which she was riding, driven by her son Donald Kilgas, 29, 101 Henry St., was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by William Madison, 17, route 3, Kaukauna.

Kilgas had stopped for a red light at Wisconsin Avenue and Lawe Street about 10:25 p.m. and Madison told police he was unable to stop in time to avoid the stopped car.

awards, when he was named for the Iden Charles Champion cup. The traditional DeGoy Ellis changing scenic landscape, its standing sophomore woman track trophy was replaced this year by the A. C. Denney award, which will honor the highest-scoring track resident of Russell Sage Hall, was given to Judith Halgren, Downers Grove, Ill.

The prime question was how to develop increased tourist interest in the area, generate income without spoiling what the tourists come to enjoy.

A Class Farewell. Roman-style, was held recently for the ninth graders who had taken Latin at Einstein Junior High School. A play about the murder of Julius Caesar was presented and Roman food was served. Enjoying the feast are Kenneth Ferron, Sue Hanstedt, Carol Penno, Gary Erickson and Donna Lecker. Miss Shirley Wonke, Latin instructor, was in charge of the affair. (Post-Crescent Photo)

In the North Country

No Lack of Ideas or Concern; Short on Plans for Future

ASHLAND — They don't lack for good ideas and aspirations in the north country.

Nor is there a lack of concern for the area's native beauty and other natural assets.

Commission, made a point: "This is like a WCTU meeting — we're all converts. But how do we convert the people who need converting?"

It was an excellent point, and a crucial one, commented Donald R. McNeil, the University of Wisconsin's chancellor of extension.

"Ideas aren't enough. Ideas produce results only when they receive the necessary popular support," McNeil declared.

Several speakers stressed education.

"We must make a determined effort to start the education of the people on the tremendous values of our resources," was the advice of Tony Wise of Hayward. Owner of the Telemark Ski Resort at Cable, Wise is a member of the Upper Great Lakes Development Council.

McNeil reminded the conference the University of Wisconsin is able and eager to participate in the enlightenment of the people on conservation and natural resources.

As for getting things done, a federal government official told how the federal government can help.

Jordahl complained that some people are suspicious of federal bureaucracy, that they harp too much on state's rights.

"I sat through a tedious four hour meeting last week that was supposed to consider the pollution of the Great Lakes, but states rights was all they talked about. There was nothing on how to solve the pollution, and no discussion on state's responsibilities," Jordahl declared.

"Meanwhile," he added, "the lakes continue to be polluted."

Police in Appleton Continue Studying Cash Thefts of $535

Police investigation is continuing today into the theft of $535 from two Appleton business places Friday.

Rolls of pennies, dimes, nickels and quarters, totaling $385 were stolen during a burglary at Doering's Super Valu, 231 Walter Ave.

The money was taken from a locked desk drawer after entry into the building was gained by forcing a rear door.

About $150 was reported taken from Dag's Drive-In, 1309 E. Wisconsin Ave. The theft was discovered by the manager of the drive-in when he reported to work Friday, and it was reported to police Friday afternoon.

Police were told the money, consisting mostly of change, was taken from a cash register.

Cyclist Hospitalized After Striking Side Of Parked Vehicle

Peter L. Mislinski, 13, 712 W. Harris St., was injured about 3 p.m. Saturday when the bicycle he was riding ran into the side of a parked car on W. Wisconsin Avenue near N. Douglas Street.

The boy, who was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Larry's Ambulance, received a deep laceration over his right eye, and a cut nose. Arthur School, a state traffic patrolman who was in the area, administered first aid before the ambulance arrived.

Appleton police were told the boy was riding west on Wisconsin. He struck the parked car, owned by Jack C. Peterson, 141 Casalama Drive, when he turned to watch another car.

Kentucky Hill Nurses Give Birth Control Pills

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Frontier Nursing Service, which has been providing nurses to act as midwives for mountain women in isolated areas of eastern Kentucky, now is conducting a family planning program.

Miss Helen E. Browne, head of the service, told its annual meeting that the service also distributes birth control pills to mothers who ask for them.

Soviet Papers Give Little Heed to Gemini

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet newspapers today carried brief reports, without comment, on the flight of the U.S. Gemini 9 satellite.

Mayor's Protest Overridden, Director to Welfare Parleys

The City of Appleton will be represented at monthly meetings of the City Welfare Directors Association of Wisconsin — ending a disagreement between the mayor and council.

Welfare Director Merton Ehncke, association president, was given final authorization Wednesday night to attend the workshop meetings of welfare directors in the Fox Valley.

Mayor George Buckley had and Harold Jerke, municipal clerk, claiming the director would be missing 12 days work during the Arthur Mueller (18th), Clifford year. However, the council took Radder (16th), George Schwarz (10th), Al Stoegebauer (4th) and Roland Voss (3rd), the conference where mutual board of review.

Commander of Attack Squadron Gets Gold Stars

Navy Cmdr. Robert R. Worchesek, Appleton, who recently assumed command of Attack Squadron 52 aboard the attack carrier USS Ticonderoga off the coast of Viet Nam, was presented with three gold stars for exceptional performance of duty.

Worchesek

The son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Worchesek, 117 W. Brewster St., Worchesek was presented the three stars in lieu of his second through fourth Air Medals by Capt. R. N. Muler, commanding officer of the ship.

The USS Ticonderoga is stationed in the South China Sea.

Supervisor of Assessment Office Reports Increase of 6 Per Cent

KAUKAUNA — Representatives of the supervisor of property valued at $31,974,300; assessment office at Fond du Lac, a division of the State Tax Department, informed city officials Friday, the 1965 adjusted value of the city is $66,305,900, an increase of about 6 per cent over last year's base of approximately $62,000,000.

The district office is currently making a complete re-evaluation of Outagamie County, the first time in eight or nine years such a survey has been undertaken, according to the representatives. They reported, equalized valuation study is not complete, but preliminary indications show Kaukauna's increase will be below that of other communities in the county.

The equalized valuation figure is used to determine proportionate shares of state, county and school district taxes to be paid. It also has a bearing on the amount of school aid derived from the state as the state has set a guaranteed valuation behind each student.

Present assessed valuation of the city by local assessor's figure is 38 per cent of the equalized value, according to the spokesmen. Broken down, the new figure shows residential property valued at $31,974,300; mercantile property at $4,671,150; manufacturing at $29,432,700 and agricultural value at $227,750.

The representatives indicated, land values increased tremendously in the past few years and construction costs have gone up 10 per cent in the past year. To determine the equalized value, sales statistics for 1962, 63 and 64 were used together with reports from Lother Kemp, assessor, to determine residential property value.

The equalized value for mercantile property was set after a random sampling of businesses in the city with assessment office representatives doing their own appraisal work. To get the manufacturing value, detailed appraisals were made of more than 90 per cent of city industrial properties, the men doing the appraisals considered experts in the field. All land and machinery included in the manufacturing appraisals.

A slight change in the equalized value may be made for improvements made since May, 1965, were not included in the re-evaluation study.

Appleton Plans 1967 Program

Automobile Safety Days a Success

Agencies and individuals responsible for Appleton Automobile Safety Days still are reflecting on the 10-day city-wide driver and vehicle safety campaign that ended late last month.

Two things appear certain. The program was a success considering it was a first attempt on such a massive scale. Second, the program will be broadened next year, according to Carl Ray, general chairman for the sponsoring Appleton New Car Dealers Association.

Most successful of the multi-phase program appeared to be the driver safety schools held at Appleton High School several evenings during the 10-days. Motorists were "sentenced" by County Judge Gustave J. Keller to attend a safety school session when they were brought to his court following their arrests for minor traffic violations, usually speeding less than 35 miles an hour in the city.

Truck Drivers Attend

Li Vernal Remter of the Appleton Police Department said that some companies employing large numbers of truck drivers requested that their drivers be allowed to sit in on the safety schools sessions that were supervised by the State Motor Vehicle Department.

Judge Keller said he was "pleased with the cooperation of the people" who were brought before him for sentencing. Those sent to safety school did not have to pay fines or court costs.

Remter also considered the initial program a success. He said there has been a "noticeable slowdown of traffic in Appleton in the short time since the campaign ended." He said this is the opinion of not only traffic police but also of citizens who have contacted the police department.

Plans For 1967

Ray explained that more groups will be involved in putting on the 1967 program.

Ben W. Heineman

Behind Civil Rights Scene

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Ben W. Heineman, Wausau native and leader in the Civil Rights movement, is a man of few words but plenty of action, Heineman, president of the Chicago and North Western Railway Co., is widely known through the Fox Valley.

As chairman of the executive council of the White House Conference on Civil Rights which met here Wednesday and Thursday, Heineman assiduously avoided personal publicity. But at the same time, he was the "man behind the scenes" to whom the more vocal delegates turned for advice on the many sensitive issues arising out of the meeting.

One of these issues involved convention votes.

"Those of us who believed that the convention should not vote out resolutions were accused in some quarters of attempting to rob the delegates of their freedom of speech,"

Two rainy days during the vehicle safety check schedule held the number of autos checked to 2,754. Police and volunteers manned the check lanes that were set up on some of the city's busier streets.

A total of 753 defects was found in 537 vehicles, Remter said. Most common among the defects were headlights, directional lights, stop lights, horn, mufflers, windshield wipers and tail lights.

Remter, in issuing the figures, said that 255 motorists attended the traffic safety schools. As many as 90 persons attended a single session, Remter pointed out.

Heineman said during an interview. "This was not the case, however. We simply believed that the technicalities and complexities of bringing up issues and voting on them would be unmanageable."

Accepted Compromise

He said he accepted as a "compromise" the proposition that the 12 panels into which the delegates were divided could vote out resolutions individually. But these resolutions would not be considered on the floor by the convention as a whole.

As a result, the resolutions which approved by a majority of the panels were regarded as representing the "sense" of the convention.

These included home-rule for the District of Columbia and passage of a Civil Rights bill which is endorsed by President Johnson but which in addition contained "strengthening" amendments.

To Heineman, the conference was a success. The slender, sandy-complexioned man who also is chairman of the Board of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad worked through the night until the early hours of the morning in closed-door sessions with the delegates, but showed no signs of fatigue or of the impatience that fatigue often begets.

Liked LBJ's Speech

He liked Mr. Johnson's speech and the tone of moderation he struck when he reminded the convention that it could not expect conditions which had taken "centuries" to build up to change in either one, or four years.

Heineman gave few, if any, of his personal views on civil rights legislation, at least not for publication.

Insiders at the conference, however, credit him with preventing the issue of the war in

Law Enforcement Agencies

Governor Calls Parley On Motorcycle Outlaws

Outagamie County Sheriff

Calvin Spice said this morning he intends to be in Madison Tuesday morning for a meeting called late last week by Gov. Knowles to deal with law enforcement problems created by the Outlaws, a motorcycle group from Milwaukee.

It was not immediately learned if the sheriffs of surrounding counties planned to be at the meeting.

Knowles called the conference following a disturbance Memorial Day weekend in which the Milwaukee cyclists invaded service station, defied police and took gasoline without paying for it.

Braced for Invasion

Spice, on several occasions in past months, has been braced for an invasion by the roving cyclists. The latest false alarm was Sunday when members of the Outlaws reportedly were to attend a motorcycle rally near sa, Neenah, president; Dr. E. T. Combined Locks. A few members of another Milwaukee cycle elect: Dr. T. G. Barrett, Green organization attended the after-Bay, vice president, and Dr. R. noon event, but the Outlaws O. The meeting Tuesday will be Gerth and R. E. Herman, held in the governor's conference room and will include Oshkosh; J. S. Pfeifer and E. Q. representatives of the govern-Cousineau, Hortonville; F. ## Appleton Gets Tax Check for $593,359

State Sends 1st of 3 Income Apportionment Payments

The first of three state income tax apportionment checks — this one for $593,359 — has been received by the City of Appleton.

Treas. Ray Feuerstein and Finance Director Henry Schreve were pleased with the first installment which exceeded last year's by $41,500.

There was additional significance in the boost — an indication that personal income continued to rise in Appleton during the past year.

2 More Payments

The second and third income tax allocation payments will be made by the state between now and August. It has nothing to do with the state sales tax reapportionment which represents separate refunds to Wisconsin communities.

Appleton's income tax apportionment comes from Outagamie County and the second precinct in the 9th Ward which is in Calumet County.

Income tax allocation from the Calumet County sector was $8,051 compared with $5,759 a year ago.

The sharpest gain was registered in the Outagamie portion of the city with the allocation totaling $593,359, a boost of $42,000 over the initial payment in 1965.

No Predictions

Feuerstein said he was not making any predictions on the city's final total. He did not rule out the possibility of the second and third checks being either smaller or larger than anticipated.

Turning attention to City of Appleton personal and real estate property tax collections — the third and final installment which is due July 31 — Feuerstein said his office had taken in $6,525,075 to date.

Broken down, the collections have been for personal property, $470,631; special assessments $384,989; real estate,

North Central Shows Increase At Winnebago

OSHKOSH — May brought an increase in passenger and express traffic at Winnebago County Airport, according to a report from North Central Airlines released this morning.

A total of 4,422 passengers boarded North Central planes here last month as compared to 3,973 in April. There were 4,632 passengers arriving, an increase of 378 over April totals.

The line carried 30,079 pounds of air express out of Oshkosh in May as compared with the 26,936 pounds the previous month. Incoming express totaled 27,008 pounds as compared with 17,993 pounds in April. Air freight to Oshkosh weighed 81,680 pounds for the month, up 14,020 from April. Outgoing freight dropped slightly from 97,981 pounds in April to 94,847 in May.

Both incoming and outgoing air mail lagged a little for May. The airline carried 29,566 pounds of mail out of the port in May as compared with 32,768 in April. Incoming mail amounted to 12,798 pounds as compared to 12,902.

There were 437 North Central flights in and out of the his car, but the boy, not seeing Winnebago County Airport for the vehicle, kept coming. The month, an increase of 25 boy did not require hospitalization.

State Legislators Recognize Bear Creek Sauerkraut Fest

MADISON — State legislators recognized the Bear Creek Sauerkraut Festival in a joint resolution Friday.

Co-sponsors of the measure were State Senator Gerald Lorge, R. Bear Creek and Assemblymen Ervin Conradt, R. Shiocton; Harold Froehlich, R. Appleton, and William Rogers, D. Kaukauna.

The resolution recognized the second annual Sauerkraut Festival of St. Mary Catholic Church as a statewide event, and congratulated the congregation and its pastor, the Most Rev. John Grellinger, auxiliary bishop of the Green Bay Diocese.

This year's festival will start at 11 a.m. Aug. 7. Games, an auction, and door prizes will be additional features of the festival, which will offer several styles of family servings in addition to meats and other side dishes.

Democrats Warned Steiger Will be Strong Candidate

Race Labels His GOP Opponent A 'Do Nothing, Fence Straddler'

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

FOND DU LAC — Democrats meeting here Sunday afternoon for their annual Sixth District convention, heard several speakers warn about the strength of the 1966 Republican congressional candidate, Assemblyman William Steiger of Oshkosh.

Reflecting the concern that Wisconsin Democrats have for Steiger's candidacy, national committeeman David Carley, a candidate in the September Democratic gubernatorial primary, said, "This will not be an easy race. They (the Republicans) have nominated their strongest possible candidate."

Carley said Steiger "is a man who can bring together all elements of the party."

Similar sentiment was repeated by two other gubernatorial primary candidates — Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey and Milwaukee businessman Abe Swed, and by State Sen. Martin Schreiber Jr., Milwaukee, a candidate for lieutenant governor.

John Race, Fond du Lac, the Democratic incumbent who will face Steiger in November, lashed into his opponent for being a "fence-straddler" and for refusing to denounce John Birch Society elements in the Sixth District.

"Steiger," Race charged, "has convinced conservative Republicans in his district that he is a Republican, and he has convinced liberal Republicans that he is a liberal."

"He is a fence-straddler," Race said, "and a perfect example of do-nothingness. The blond-haired boy from Oshkosh is trying to serve two masters."

Steiger also was criticized by Race for not speaking out against Peter Wheeler Reiss of Sheboygan who, until he formally withdrew last Friday, was a Republican candidate for the Sixth District congressional nomination.

"Reiss," the Democratic congressman said, "is a cell leader in the John Birch Society and the boy from Oshkosh failed to denounce him even though, until Friday, he was opposing him in the primary election."

Race told the group of about 100 that 1964 was "a great year" for Democrats in the Sixth District.

"During that year," he said, "we reached a crossroad and threw out the deadwood that has been in power in this district for a decade and a half. And since 1964, prosperity has become greater than anyone of us had anticipated."

"But now," Race charged, "we're faced with a group of reactionary radicals who want to eliminate every progressive program enacted by the Democratic Party in the last 20 years and set us back where we were 50 years ago."

Says Steiger "Hiding" — Accusing Steiger of failing into same mold, Race stated he is facing "a reactionary radical" who is hiding behind the false cloak of moderation. He calls himself a middle-of-the-roader, but his record speaks for itself.

Race said the "challenge" faced by Sixth District Democrats "is to expose these people. We must remind the people of the record of the Republicans — their record of reaction and stagnancy and do-nothingness."

"We must remind the people of the record of the Democratic Party for progress through deliberative well-grounded and well thought-out programs that are based on sound principles."

Citing examples of "accomplishment" by the Democratic Party-controlled 89th Congress, Race pointed to Medicare, increases in Social Security benefits, the Omnibus Housing Act, the new rent supplement program of 1967, "liberalized" immigration laws, the manpower training program, military pay increases, the creation of a Commission on Aging in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and "high standards" in the new federal minimum wage bill.

"Examples of Action" — "These," Race claimed, "are all examples of action, not reaction. They are examples of positive, forward-looking programs which are cognizant of the problems of today and the needs of tomorrow."

"But on the other side," he said, "we are faced by Republicans who have decried these programs ... and we are confronted by both extremes of subversives and traitors, and it is time that someone said so in plain language.

"These Birchers," Race charged, "have committed themselves to the undermining of public confidence in the President ... and they have unashamedly adopted the Führer concept of Adolf Hitler."

Greatest Challenge — "Our greatest challenge in this election year," he concluded, "will be to demonstrate that an aroused and loyal citizenry can silence and render powerless these brown-shirted advocates of totalitarianism."

Early Activity Drops Market

Some Key Issues Feel Sharp Losses Especially Color TV

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sagged in moderate trading early this afternoon. Losses of some key stocks were sharp, depressing the averages, but declines of most of these issues represented in market indicators ranged from fractions to a point or so.

Wide declines were posted for some of the glamor stocks which were such big gainers earlier this year. The drops were particularly sharp among the color televisions, office equipments and aerospace stocks.

On the surface, the background to the market seemed more encouraging than otherwise, but the tight money situation was still plaguing Wall Street, analysts said, and reports of increasing competition in the office copying field and of lower prices for color TV sets brought some weakness.

Noon Decline — The Associated Press Average of 60 stocks at noon declined 12 to 319.1 with industrials off 2.6, rails off .6 and utilities up 3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 6.07 at 881.79.

A slide of 3½ by Kennecott and losses of well over a point by Du Pont and Westinghouse Electric helped drag down the averages.

Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Firemen Told Someone Was Inside Home

NEENAH — A fire which started in an overstuffed chair in the upstairs apartment at 219 First St. resulted in extensive smoke damage to the building and caused firemen to operate under emergency procedures late Saturday evening.

Neighbors reported the residents of the apartment building were trapped in the structure. The firemen broke in the front door and placed a ladder alongside the building and also entered through an upstairs window. However, no one was found in the structure.

The blaze started in an overstuffed chair in the upstairs apartment occupied by William Paukstat. The fire spread to a nearby davenport, burned the floor of the living room and charred the walls.

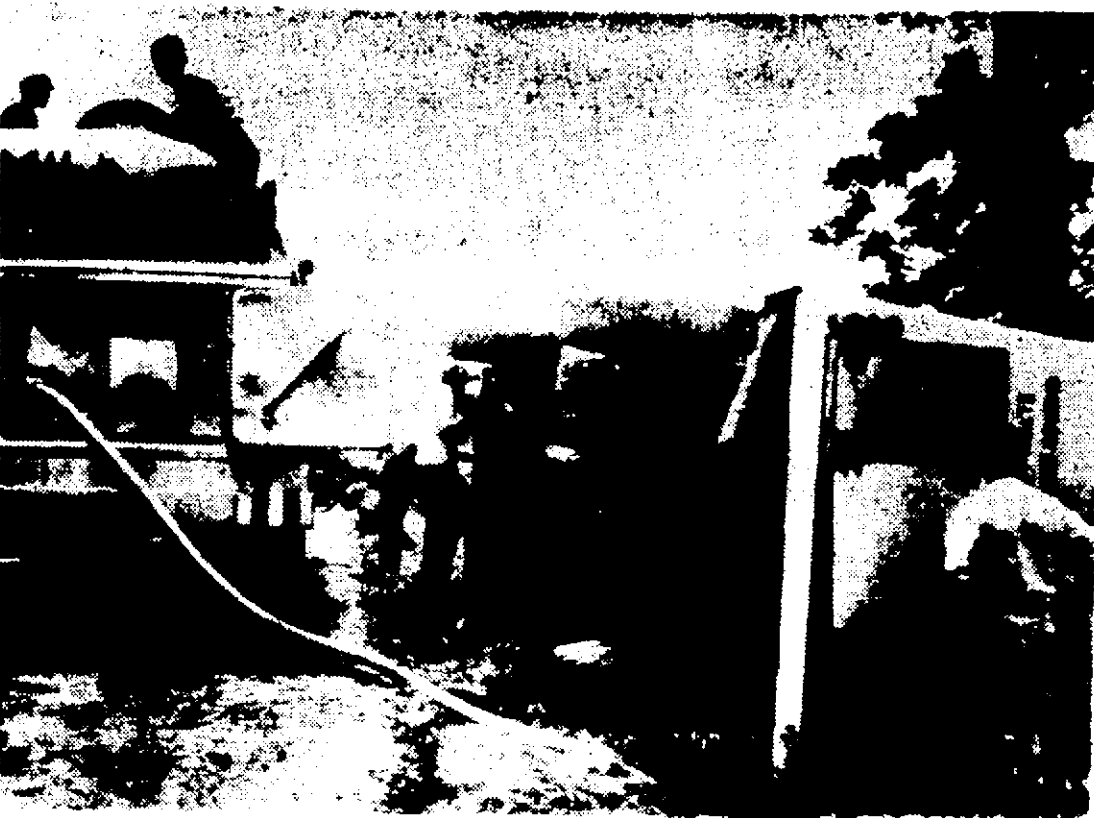

Chief Ferd Diesterhaupt said the fire could be blamed on a short in a floor lamp wire which ran under the upholstered chair although, he did not discount the possibility of a discarded lighted cigaret in the cushion.

When firemen arrived at the scene, the entire building was filled with smoke. They attempted to alert the residents, reportedly still in the building, and when this failed they smashed in the front door.

Three trucks were called to the scene to put out the fire. The smoke ejector was used to clear the building after the blaze was extinguished.

Firemen were at the scene until 11:46 p.m., about an hour after the fire was reported by a neighbor.

The two-story frame building is owned by Robert Buchholz, who occupies the lower apartment.

More Than 21,000 Pounds of milk had to be pumped from a tank truck that overturned about 10:45 a.m. Sunday on the State Road near Black Creek. The truck, owned and driven by Elton Lorenz, route 1, Shiocton, tipped onto its side when Lorenz attempted to miss holes in

Marine Brother at Bedside

Menasha Leatherneck Loses Arm, Legs Near Da Nang

MENASHA — A Viet Cong land mine exploded near Da Nang, S. Viet Nam, Saturday and seriously wounded Marine Sgt. Norbert J. Olbrantz, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Miller, 517 Fifth St., the family has learned.

The mother and step-father were told of the casualty early Sunday morning by the wife of the sergeant's brother, Mr. Sgt. Julius Olbrantz, 24, who was at his brother's bedside in the station hospital at Da Nang. The older brother notified his wife in California, who in turn telephoned the family here.

Mrs. Miller was in De Pere for a family funeral when a telegram from the Department of Defense in Washington confirmed the report. The telegram said the marine sustained "fragmentary wounds to the body with traumatic amputation of both legs, the left arm and right hand." The wounds were caused by "an unknown explosive device," according to the telegram.

The youthful leatherneck, who relatives said quit school at the age of 17 to join the Marine Corps, was taking part in "an operation against hostile forces."

After treatment at the Da Nang station hospital, he was to be flown as soon as his condition permitted to Clark

Air Force Base in the Philippines for further treatment at the large military hospital there.

The telegram, signed by Gen. Walker H. Green, Marine commander, stated, "his condition was serious, with his prognosis guarded."

The general assured the family he is receiving the best of care.

Relatives in De Pere said Sgt. Olbrantz had been a Marine about seven years, and had been serving in Viet Nam since February.

His older brother, one of three others with Marine backgrounds, was at the Da Nang hospital when the wounded sergeant was flown there by helicopter from the scene of the mine explosion. The older brother has been in Viet Nam since September, relatives said.

Two Marines from the Appleton recruiting station and a priest from De Pere delivered the telegram to the Miller home Saturday afternoon.

Red Owls in Twin Cities Are Picketed

NEENAH — MENASHA — Members of the Green Bay local 1652 Retail Clerks, AFL-CIO began picketing Red Owl food stores in Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh this morning.

The strike involves 7 stores in Green Bay and De Pere and was extended to the Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh stores in an effort to gain support from the stores' employees in the Green Bay local's disagreement with Red Owl Company officials.

The Neenah-Menasha and Oshkosh stores represented by Local 214 of the Retail Clerks Association, are not on strike. The group met with company officials in Oshkosh recently and agreed on a three year contract. A ratification meeting was to be held tonight, but was cancelled because of the strike in Green Bay, according to union representatives.

The Green Bay strike was called at midnight June 1 when Local 1652 and company officials could not agree on a contract.

The union wants part-time employees to be given fringe benefits such as part-time health and welfare programs, instead of hourly wage increases over the three year contract period, a Red Owl spokesman stated.

Butte des Morts U. S. 41 Bridge To Close 5 Hours

OSHKOSH — Highway 41 bridge across Lake Butte des Morts here will be closed to both north and south bound traffic at 1 a.m., Tuesday to allow maintenance work on the draw span of the structure.

Leon Morrissey, Winnebago County Highway Commissioner, announced this morning.

Northbound traffic will detour over Hwy. 21 and southbound vehicles will leave Hwy. 41 at Hwy. 110. Traffic both ways will use the Oshkosh Avenue Bridge.

Morrissey said he hoped to reopen the bridge about 6 a.m., Tuesday after five hours of work on the span. Hwy. 41 will be barricaded north and south of the bridge with a traffic officer stationed at each barricade.

Police Are Forced to Shoot 2 Deer Running in Neenah

NEENAH — A new migration to the cities is taking place as police departments are being faced with a four-legged problem — deer frolicking through the streets.

Neenah policemen tracked down and shot two injured deer Saturday afternoon after they ran into a backstop on the Little League field at Neenah High School. One deer apparently broke his back after charging into the screen but the other ran to Wilson School before he was killed by a policeman.

Warner Sorensen, 700 S. Park Ave., was among some 20 persons who complained to police Saturday that deer were running through their yards.

As police closed in on the animals, the pair ran into the screen at the school as youthful spectators looked on. Officers Carl Peters and Eugene Brisco contacted Warden Frank Derringer who advised them to shoot the deer if they were injured.

The policemen cleared the area of children and killed one deer. The other was shot by Officer Leorman Konitzer at Wilson School shortly before 3 p.m.

The carcasses were removed to the city garage where Derringer inspected and disposed of the animals.

Last week, Menasha policemen chased a pair of deer through the city streets and Oshkosh police have been busy with reports of deer running in the city, especially at the Wisconsin State University - Oshkosh campus.

Recently, a deer smashed through the glass entrance of the new classroom building on the WSU-O grounds. Another battered himself to death when he charged a statue in front of the Polk Library.

Kaukauna Solon Working on Bill To Aid Elderly

KAUKAUNA — Robert Huber, speaker of the Assembly, has appointed William Rogers, Second District assemblyman from Kaukauna, to the conference committee working on a solution to basic differences between the Senate and Assembly versions of a bill to expand property tax relief to senior citizens over 65.

Huber said, "Rogers is a sponsor of the Assembly bill and has shown continued interest in the problems of the elderly." The Assembly bill calls for an expansion of the current property tax relief program by removing restrictions that prevent many senior citizens in need of relief from participating in the program.

Rogers said, "The primary difference at stake is a matter of emphasis. We feel that the Senate bill just will not meet the need of many senior citizens desperately trying to save their homes. I am confident that we can reach some sort of compromise with the Senate that will result in an expansion of the property tax relief program to include elderly people in legitimate need of assistance."

Our Savior's Lutheran Has New Minister

NEENAH — The Rev. C. Richard Johnson, Eau Claire, has accepted a call to be pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran Church. He will assume his ministerial duties, July 1.

The Rev. Melvin Ranheim, Minneapolis, Minn., will serve as vacancy pastor from June 6 until June 30, as Rev. Donald T. Hansen has left to serve his new pastorage, First English Lutheran Church, Faribault, Minn.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson attended Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill.; Lutheran Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill.; Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, and Luther Theological Seminary St. Paul, Minn. He was ordained in 1959 and served as minister of a parish at Spring Grove, Minn., from 1959 to 1961. In 1961, he became an associate pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Eau Claire, which has about 4,500 confirmed members.

He has served as member and chairman of the Kiwanis Music Committee, member of Junior Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the education committee of the County Mental Health board, a member of the Clergy Association, and secretary and treasurer of Pastor Conference, all of Eau Claire.

Pastor's Hobbies
He is interested in music, woodworking, camping and hiking. While in college, he and his wife were members of the Luther College choir.

While Rev. Hansen was in Neenah, he served as president of the Twin City Ministerial Association. At the time of the formation of the new American Lutheran Church, he was appointed to the Commission on Evangelism of the ALC and was elected chairman. He still serves as chairman of the commission.

He served the Neenah congregation for seven years.

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County Treasurer Frank Luedeke has received a $281,722 check, representing the county's share of state income tax collected through March 31.

The amount received from the state for the corresponding time last year was $248,901. About $600,000 is expected from the state during 1966, Luedeke said.

Heineman Behind Civil Rights Scene

Viet Nam from erupting into an inflammatory fight during the two days the conference was in session.

This was done by the agreement of leaders to stick to the theme of passage of Civil Rights legislation and leave discussions of foreign policy out of the meeting.

Sensible Course
From a public relations point of view, this was the most sensible course the conference could have taken. Ruling out discussions of Viet Nam prevented an open fight among the delegates over whether the U.S. should or should not continue military operations in Southeast Asia. It left in the issues of education, open housing, and other anti-segregation programs, an area in which all delegates could agree and present a united front.

It also prevented the delegates from antagonizing President Johnson, one of their greatest supporters, in the Civil Rights field. Mr. Johnson is extremely sensitive about criticism of the administration's foreign policy and any suggestion that the White House Conference on Civil Rights was indulging in such criticism might have had a far-reaching adverse affect on the immediate future of fulfilling these rights. Heineman's part in steering the conference clear of any proclamation of anti-Viet Nam feeling cannot be overestimated, according to most observers at the meeting.

Tipsy Driver Fined $175, Loses License Wife Fined $100 After Disturbance At Police Station

A 43-year-old route 1, West DePere woman who caused a disturbance at the county jail following her husband's arrest on a traffic charge, this morning joined her husband in county court.

Outagamie County traffic police said Mrs. Lucien F. Majeski had to be restrained after she caused a disturbance when her husband was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

She pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct and was fined $100 and costs or 48 days in jail.

Her husband also pleaded guilty and was fined $175 and costs or 80 days in jail. In addition, County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered Majeski's driver's license revoked for one year.

Majeski was arrested about 1:30 a.m. today on County Trunk, OO in the Town of Vandenberg.

Design of Public Buildings Present Obstacle to Handicapped

The beauty and grace of most public buildings is greatly enhanced by impressive staircases and heavy, gleaming doors. In recent years, however, societies dedicated to aiding crippled persons using leg braces, crutches or wheelchairs have pointed out that those same imposing structures present an obstacle completely lacking in aesthetic appeal to a handicapped person.

Sumner G. Whittier, Chicago, former head of the U.S. Veterans Administration, said in an address to the 1964 Wisconsin Easter Seal Society's meeting: "With the advances in science, and in medicine this past half-century, combined with the population explosion, there are more crippled than ever before in history."

Consequently the Outagamie County Easter Seal Society of Appleton is urging that advances be made benefitting handicapped persons who find it necessary to use public buildings.

Arthur H. Blankenburg, a board member of the county Easter Seal Society, recently took it upon himself to have a ramp built at the Sheltered Activity Center, 522 W. Seventh St.

Jerry Jahnke, business representative, and Neil Jahnke of the Carpenters Labor Union Local No. 955 donated their time.

Irate Uncle, Nephew Fined A Total $175
Roy Jesse, 51, 1823 N. Ullman St., who police said pointed a loaded shotgun at his nephew and then drew a hunting knife from a sheath when police approached, this morning was fined $100 and costs or 48 days in jail after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct.

The nephew, Allen Jesse, 21, route 2, Black Creek, was fined $75 and costs or 36 days in jail for disorderly conduct. Appleton police said he twice went to the home of his uncle Sunday night, and argued and scuffled with him. The nephew pleaded guilty 1:30 p.m. Friday at Callahan Police said they were called to the Roy Jesse home at 9:50 p.m. and again at 10:30 p.m. Memorial park there. Friends said the uncle was sitting on his porch with the loaded shotgun.

Joint Application Filed by C&NW and 'Milwaukee Road'

Two of the four rail carriers that serve the Fox Valley area — the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. and the Chicago, Milwaukee St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Co. today filed a joint application with Interstate Commerce Commission for approval of consolidation of the two Midwestern carriers.

The filing of the application marks the beginning of the final step in procedures to consolidate two railroads which have been regarded as "ideal merger partners."

Ben W. Heineman, chairman, and president of the North Western, and William J. Quinn, president of the Milwaukee Road, said that "we know of no other two railroads in the United States that, in combination, could offer greater benefits to the regions and communities they serve, to their shippers, investors, employees and the general public."

Same General Territory

The application states that because the 10,246-mile North Western and the 10,512-mile Milwaukee Road serve the same general territory in the Midwest, including numerous points in common, and operate a large number of duplicate lines and facilities, the two roads are "logical components of a single railroad more capable of sustaining existing marginal services, of achieving improved utilization of the nation's car fleet and of generating more adequate resources for the maintenance and replacement of its plant and equipment. The consolidated operation of the two carriers will help create a healthy rail system out of two marginal carriers."

Mr. Whittier, in his address to the Easter Seal Society, called upon the public for assistance by saying: "It is upon our conscience to find answers for those who are handicapped." The Easter Seal Society urges thoughtfulness to remove barriers which might prevent the handicapped from entering buildings, conducting business or even gaining employment.

The operations of the two railroads are described as "characterized by short hauls, cyclical agricultural movements, intense intermodal competition, protrusion of light-duty branch lines and higher terminal costs, conditions which have historically existed and still obtain."

The two railroads state that if

OSHKOSH — Plans for the second annual meeting of the Wisconsin Federation of Councils for Exceptional Children were announced today, following a planning session at La Crosse.

Area people involved in arrangements for the June 28 and 29 sessions include Miss Gladys Ihde, Oshkosh area public school psychologist and federation director at large; Mrs. Garwood Ferris, Menasha, president of the Winnebago Chapter of the Winnebago Chapter of the Wisconsin State University in Manitowoc.

Dr. Stowe's award will allow him to continue his study of French authors at the libraries of Duke University and the University of North Carolina.

Miss Taniguchi will study with Miss Taniguchi will study with voice teachers in Chicago and New York.

Dr. Tank will investigate the clay mineralogy of the Green River Formation in southwestern Wyoming. Dr. Turrentine plans three weeks in Washington, D. C., at the bureau of ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution and at the library of the National Geographic Society, where he will study lip-vibrated aerophones, (musical wind instruments), in contemporary primitive societies. This material relates to his research on similar instruments in the pre-Christian era.

Miss Webb will participate in a flute seminar in Pittsburgh conducted by Aurelle Nicolet Washington to Seattle, Tacoma and other northwest Pacific states. It also operates in Indiana and Missouri, touching Kansas and Nebraska.

Each has lines in Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, North Dakota and South Dakota. The Milwaukee Road operates a main line through Montana, Idaho and Washington to Seattle, Tacoma and other northwest Pacific states. It also operates in Indiana and Missouri, touching Kansas and Nebraska.

Potential GOP Candidates Show Reluctance to Run

Political 'No' Frequently Has Meant 'Maybe,' Turned to 'Yes'

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
WASHINGTON (AP) — In Republican party history, 1966 may go down as the year of the reluctant dragons.

First, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and now Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania have declared themselves uninterested in running for president in 1968.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan says he is only running for governor. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon says he is not a candidate for anything.

You may take them at their word but don't bet that the politicians will.

Often in politics, "no" has meant "maybe" and politicians don't give up easily on a potential nominee if they think he might be a winner.

Ike in '48

In 1948 when boosters were booming Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a presidential possibility, he issued a statement saying, "I am not available for and cannot accept nomination for high political office." He said his decision was "definite and positive."

Early in 1952 he said he was a Republican and indicated he would run for president if he received a "clear cut call to political duty." The call came, he answered it and spent eight years in the White House.

Adlai E. Stevenson, who was to be the Democratic presidential nominee twice, once took exactly the same attitude as Romney's present one.

Evangelist, Athiest Debate God's Existence

Billy Graham Takes Affirmative in TV Crusade in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Billy Graham debated the existence of God with a British atheist Sunday night.

The American evangelist said his faith was "not only grounded in tremendous evidence" but proved by the "laboratory of personal experience."

The panel discussion took place on the British Broadcasting Corp before an audience estimated at four million.

The atheist, Ian Tipton, a university instructor, asked Graham, "How do you know you are not wrong about the existence of God?"

"Because I have had a personal experience with God," Graham replied.

Another panelist, satirist David Frost, son of a Methodist parson, asked Graham what proof he could offer for others.

Can't Explain

Graham answered: "When Jesus touched the blind man, and he was healed, the blind man couldn't explain what happened. When a person comes to Jesus Christ, he can't explain what happens. But enough people have experienced it for me to know it happens."

If there existed a personal, benevolent God, Graham was asked, how could he explain war, disease and natural calamities.

"The Bible has the complete answer for all that," Graham replied. "Man is struggling against God. He is spiritually diseased. War is just the lust from his heart. Jesus said that out of the heart flows all these evil things."

Man's Sin

"When man sinned and rebelled, all nature was affected. It is part of God's judgment."

"But what happens when a deformed baby is born?" Frost asked. "How can you say which events God is responsible for and which ones He is not?"

"There are many mysteries I can't pretend to answer," Graham said. "The Bible uses the word mysteries."

Other participants in the discussion were John Lewis, a London businessman converted during Graham's 1954 British crusade, and the Rev. David MacLagan, a Church of Scotland parson. Graham is conducting his second crusade in Britain.

Congress Pushes For Long Vacation

Heavy Schedule Includes House Vote on Increased Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress faces a heavy schedule this week, with the promise of a long Fourth of July vacation in the offing.

If everything comes off according to plan, House Democratic Leader Carl Albert told the House last week, "it is 99 per cent certain" there will be a 10-day vacation over the Independence Day period.

House leaders plan votes this week on an assortment of legislation including an increase in the national debt ceiling, a $17.8-billion military procurement measure, the administration's Food for Freedom proposal, the annual legislative appropriation bill and a bill to change bail bond practices.

Although the administration wants the debt ceiling boosted to $332 billion, the House bill would raise the limit to only $330 billion from the present $328 billion.

The military procurement bill is $931 million more than sought by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. The legislative appropriations bill calls for $187 million to pay congressional costs in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The less-crowded Senate docket is highlighted by voting scheduled for Wednesday on a bill to require more specific labeling and packaging of consumer commodities.

Committee Sets Dodd Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee will start hearings June 20 into charges about the relationship of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd to Julius Klein, a Chicago public relations man.

Sens. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., and Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, chairman and vice chairman of the bipartisan committee, said in a statement late Thursday that "the initial hearings will be conducted in executive session, to be followed by open hearings."

The committee is investigating misconduct charges against Dodd, a Connecticut Democrat, by columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson. Dodd, denying the charges, has filed a $2 million libel and conspiracy suit against the columnists.

Hope Findings Will Cancel Air Strike Threat

34,000 Workers Ready for Airline Walkout on July 5

By FRANK CORMIER
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has received findings of a three-man panel that might help erase the threat of a July 5 strike by 34,000 workers against five major airlines.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said the report of a fact-finding board headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., was flown to the LBJ Ranch from Washington Sunday.

The board looked into issues underlying a dispute between the AFL-CIO Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers and five carriers: Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United.

If the dispute is not settled by July 5, the union will be free to strike. One aim of the Morse panel, however, was to try to come up with findings that might contribute to a settlement.

Report to Be Revealed

Moyers said the text of the report would be made public in Washington early this week.

Johnson, who flew to his Texas ranch with his wife last Friday, was expected to return to the White House Tuesday. The principal purpose of their week-end trip was to see 22-year-old daughter Lynda graduate with honors Saturday night from the University of Texas in Austin.

Lynda's actor friend, George Hamilton, also was on hand.

The President, who apparently has spent much of his time relaxing, made two announcements Sunday:

—Dr. Robert Alan Frosch, 38, will be nominated to replace Dr. Robert W. Morse as assistant secretary of the Navy for research and development.

Frosch, a physicist, now is deputy director of the Pentagon's Advanced Projects Research Agency.

—Dr. Myron R. Blee, 49, will be nominated as deputy director of the Office of Emergency Planning, succeeding Franklin B. Dryden, resigned. Blee is an associate dean of Florida Atlantic University, Boca Raton.

Proxmire Asks Funds For Rural Electrification Research Lab Planning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Introduction of an amendment to the Agriculture Appropriations Bill to provide $150,000 for planning of a rural electrification research laboratory near Madison, Wis., was announced today by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

The location of such a center at the University of Wisconsin, Proxmire said, would fit ideally with the operations of the university's college of agriculture.

Proxmire said the university has indicated a willingness to provide a five-acre site for the proposed center for related university departments to cooperate in research with the center staff.

Primary Tuesday Republican Hopetuls Ending California Tour

By BILL BOYARSKY
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Actor Ronald Reagan and his opponent, George Christopher, speed across California today, appealing to the uncommitted as they wind up their campaigns for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

At stake was the job of leading the Republican party — a minority in the nation's most populous state — back to the control of the state Capitol.

Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and a Democratic legislature have run the state since 1959.

Brown, facing primary opposition from Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty in his try for a third term, called it "one of the most important elections this state has ever held."

Legislative Posts

Besides picking nominees for statewide office, the 7,855,102 registered voters will be confronted Tuesday with candidates for legislative offices.

Of the 601 candidates, many will be seeking New State Senate seats in populous Southern California. A court-ordered reapportionment will transfer control of that House from the rural areas of the north.

Reagan chose the office seeking the air tour dropped down to the blazing hot Southern California community of El Centro Sunday. A small crowd heard him say: "This is the dirtiest campaign I've ever seen."

Asked if he would support Reagan, Christopher replied: "I've made no promises to anybody now. I'm a free agent. I have no obligations except to my wife and family."

There was nothing but good cheer on Reagan's tour Sunday. He aimed at Democrats in the

Andretti Easily Wins Rex Mays 100-Mile Race

McClusky Passes Leonard on 100th Lap to Place Second

By RUDI SCHIFFER

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Mario Andretti, diminutive Italian-born racing driver with a taste for speedy, dangerous living, easily drove his way to victory in the Rex Mays 100-mile race Sunday while the defending champion watched from the sidelines.

Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., who set a one-mile lap record here last year of 111 miles per hour, turned down a crack at the $11,577 purse won by Andretti to let rookie teammate Dick Atkins drive his Agajanian Rev 500 Offy.

"We blew up Atkins' car and we worked so long on mine at the Indianapolis 500 that I thought we owned him a ride," said Jones.

Crashed Into Wall

It was a short ride. Atkins crashed into the wall on the 14th lap when he was running fourth. He escaped unhurt.

A tip-off that Andretti, of Nazareth, Pa., would practically have the track to himself came when he pushed his special rear engine Ford to a record qualifying mark of 111.9 m.p.h.

Andretti took the green flag from his pole position and breezed through without trouble.

Andretti said it was his easiest major victory.

"I could have run faster, but there was no use burning up the car," he said. "The caution flag allows them to close in on you, but I was always able to pull away easily. No one came up to seriously challenge me."

Foxt Sidelined

An accident Saturday during a warm-up removed A. J. Foxt of Houston from the race. Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., was injured in a plane crash Saturday. Their absence, plus Jones' reluctance to race, gave Andretti a comparatively clear field.

"Usually, with those great stars on the track, you'll hear from them sooner or later. I missed them," said the 1963 U. S. Auto Club champion.

Andretti held a short lead over third-place finisher Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., through the first 60 laps. He upped his margin to about eight seconds by the 75th lap and then coasted home. He averaged 85.65 miles per hour.

In addition to $9,627 from the race itself, the 26-year-old Andretti picked up $1,950 in accessory money.

Running Third

Roger McClusky, Tucson, Ariz., who finished second and won $6,811, was running third behind Leonard when he zoomed ahead on the 100th lap.

Jim Hurtubise, who flirted with death here in a fiery 1964 crash, caused some minor excitement when he banged into the wall after spinning out on the fourth lap. One of his tires went sailing down the track but the fire-scarred North Tonawanda, N.Y., veteran escaped injury.

Hadley Fires Closing 70 to Win Fourth 'Adler' Crown

O'Brien Second; Chuck Bayer, Galvin Third

By TERRY GALVIN

NEENAH — "The birdie on 14 won it," commented Ridgeway Country Club's Tom Hadley, after successfully pocketing his fourth title in the 12-year history of the Adler Brau golf tournament over the Bridgewood course here Sunday afternoon.

First-round leader and defending champion Chuck Bayer, of Appleton, summed it up in yet another way, referring to his eagle chip-in from 50 feet on the third hole and subsequent 4-putt green on the fourth — "That really shook me up."

But the ageless, links-wise veteran, Rich O'Brien, of Bridgewood, simply admitted, "I played defensive golf all day and one doesn't win too many tournaments playing that way."

As for the sharer of third place with Bayer, Terry Galvin (yes, this writer) — well, we'll just call him pretty lucky.

Second Straight 70

Hadley fashioned his second consecutive 1-under par 70 for the winning 140 aggregate over the 36-hole trek. O'Brien needed 72 shots Sunday, after opening with 70 on Saturday, and finished alone in the runnerup spot with 142.

Stargell Keeps Streak Intact

Cardenas' 4 Home Runs Help Cincinnati to Split Twin Bill With Cubs

By MIKE RATHET

Leo Cardenas fell one homer shy of a record. He won't get another chance — without starting over.

Willie Stargell fell one hit shy of a record. But he will get another chance — without starting over.

Cardenas, Cincinnati's 160-pound shortstop, slammed four homers and drove in eight runs as the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago Sunday, winning the opener 8-3 before the Cubs took the nightcap 9-5.

By hitting four homers in a twinbill, Cardenas accomplished a feat that hadn't been done since the 1963 season. But he still fell one shy of the five Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals hit in a 1954 doubleheader. Cardenas won't get another chance, unless he starts another muscle-flexing streak, but Stargell still has a chance to match the National League and major league records for most consecutive hits.

Nine Straight Hits

The Pittsburgh slugger was interrupted by the end of the Pirates' 10-5 victory over Houston after collecting five straight hits, including two homers. And he still had a streak of nine consecutive hits intact.

When the Pirates meet St. Louis Tuesday night he'll get a shot at the NL record of 10 — last achieved by Cincinnati's Woodie Williams in 1943 — and the major league record of 12 — last reached by Walt Dropo of Detroit in 1952.

Elsewhere, Atlanta crushed St. Louis 14-4. San Francisco edged Philadelphia 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles and New York split, the Dodgers cruising to a 16-3 victory before the Mets won the nightcap 3-2.

Cardenas provided all the runs the Reds needed in the opener, driving five runs with two homers and a single. Ron Santo and Randy Hundley homered for the Cubs.

Cardenas also hit two homers in the nightcap and added a double while driving in three runs, but the Cubs came from behind and won it with a five-run ninth. Billy Williams drove in the tying and lead runs with a two-out single.

Drove In 4 Runs

Stargell drove in four runs against the Astros with his two homers, two singles and a double leading a 16-hit attack that boosted the Macs into a tie for the league lead with Little Chute Kimberly. Both teams have 2.0 records. Fond du Lac now has a 0-2 mark.

The Macs scored three runs in the sixth to overcome a 1-0 Fond du Lac lead. Menasha added an insurance run in the eighth.

In the third, Bud Koehnke reached base on an error and Tom Konetzke and John Glysch drew walks. Meyer then came through with his first of two singles for two runs and Dick Sorenson followed with another single to plate the other run. In the eighth, Koehnke walked.

Rath Stifles Commodores As Foxes Score 8-0 Win

Fred Records Seventh Triumph; Cottrell Hits Inside-the-Park Homer; Melton Continues Streak

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The Fox Cities Foxes' Fred Rath Sunday night caught the shutout fever that has infected the Chicago White Sox puching staff.

Rath, who hopes some day to be promoted through the farm system to the parent Chisox, logged his second shutout of the season as he stifled Decatur, 8-0, on a 4-hitter, at Goodland Field.

The 6-foot-3 Rath, winningest pitcher on the Foxes' high-powered staff, threw only 98 pitches and allowed no one to reach third base as he ran his record to 7-1.

Tonight, Manager Stan Waslak will end Andy Rubilotta to the mound for the Foxes, whose Midwest League lead now stands at two games over runnerup Wisconsin Rapids and 1½ games over Burlington, who trails the Twins by 6 points in the percentage column. Rubilotta fired a 3-hit shutout in his latest start.

Rath, last night, was backed up by a 9-hit attack that included a 2-run, inside-the-park

Gary Peters Blanks Senators; Minnesota Stops Cleveland

By MURRAY CHASS

Of the Associated Press

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it. Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the opener 4-1.

The start for Peters was his first in two weeks, since he strained the bicep in his left arm in the first inning of a game against Cleveland.

"It was the best game I've thrown in two years," said Peters, who didn't allow the Senators a hit until the seventh inning. The performance brought his record to 3-2 and his earned run average to 2.18.

It also gave him two complete games, one more than he had all of last year, and one shutout, also one more than he had last year when he dipped from 20-game season in 1964 to a 10-12 record and a 3.63 ERA.

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

Sixth in 10 Games

The shutout was the sixth in the last 10 games for Chicago, a period which has seen the pitching staff post an amazing ERA of 0.80. In that time, too, homer by Tom Cottrell and a trio of doubles.

Extends Streak

Bill Melton extended his hitting streak to 13 games, Jim Maness accounted for three hits, and Al Kristowski played the part of an ideal leadoffman — getting on base four times and scoring on each occasion.

The 22-year-old Rath, who features a "live" fast ball among his classy assortment, struck out seven and walked only one as he reduced his skinny earned-run average to 1.34. Rath who has hurled three 1-run wins in addition to his two whitewash chores, has allowed only 10 earned runs and 21

Oilers Reported Set To Offer John Brodie $750,000 Contract

HOUSTON (AP)—Rumors of say the figure mentioned is in $750,000 popped up beside the name of quarterback John Brodie of the National Football League San Francisco 49ers added, Brodie is "standing by Sunday, and there were indications the rival league's Houston Oilers have offered this much to sign him after his option is played out.

K. S. (Bud) Adams, owner of the American Football League Oilers, said of reports from the West Coast that his team had offered Brodie three-quarters of a million dollars: "We did discuss terms with Brodie, and I'd Early last week, Oilers' General Manager Don Klosterman confirmed that Brodie had met with the Oilers here. Adams said Sunday the club has been in contact with the star passer since then.

Discuss Salaries

"We discussed salaries and everything but some things have taken place since then," Adams continued. "If they hadn't taken place we would have signed him to a contract."

Adams revealed no definite sum or terms discussed with Brodie. To sign with Houston, Brodie would have to play out his option next year with San Francisco. The AFL-NFL feud began after the New York Giants of the NFL signed Pete Gogolak when he played out his option with Buffalo of the AFL.

At present, Adams said, "We're in a recess period to try to figure out what's going to happen in deciding whether there will be an all-out 'war or peace' with the NFL."

"We're not going to wait very long," Adams said. "A settlement will have to come pretty quickly or we're going to retaliate."

"Now it's up to the NFL to decide what is going to happen -- whether it's going to be peace or all-out war. If it's war, we're ready to put on any size glove they're ready to fight with. If it's peace, we'll be really willing to sit down and talk with them on a reasonable basis."

Adams' comments — echoed those Klosterman made last week, when he said after announcing the talks with Brodie, "We're ready to battle them (the NFL) with any ounce glove they want . . . they struck the first blow."

Four-Under-Par 66

Yancey, trailing Gene Littler by one stroke going into the final round, fired a four-under-par 66 for a 265 total, one stroke lower than Cary Middlecoff shot in winning the 1961 title.

"I was putting really well," the 27-year-old Yancey said. He birdied five holes and had only one bogey.

Yancey slept late and then watched television coverage of the Gemini 9 space adventure until 20 minutes before time to tee off. The starting time had the Mexican League Saturday night coverage of the tournament.

"At 11:10, Roy called me and said I was due off at 11:20," he said. "I was never so frightened. I just knew I had blown the whole works."

He reached the tee eight minutes before he would have been disqualified. Klapperich struck out three and walked two and was the loser.

Gene Klapperich started for Fond du Lac and went 5-2-3 innings. He was relieved by Dave Reamer. Klapperich struck out three and walked two and was the loser.

walks in 67 frames. He has fanned 48.

The Foxes broke in front in the first inning and were never headed. Kristowski, who touched off the offensive in four of the six scoring frames, opened the game with a walk off Tom Zink, a 1964 Foxes pitcher.

Maness grounded out, Kristowski taking second and "Deacon" Jones walked. Melton whacked a single to center, scoring a run.

Kristowski was at it again in the third, lashing a 1-out double to left center. He took third on a wild pitch and scored on Maness' single to right.

In the fourth, Ron Lohich walked with two out, and Cottrell lined one to the right center field wall. The fleet Foxes outfielder turned on the speed to turn the blow into a circuit clout. Cottrell slid head-first into the plate to beat the relay throw for his second homer of the season.

Steals Second

Kristowski walked with one out in the fifth and stole second. Back-to-back doubles to left field by Maness and Jones built up the score to 6-0.

The busy Kristowski drew a 1 out walk in the seventh, advanced one base on Maness' single and another on Jones' deep fly-out and scored on Melton's right-field single.

A 2-base error by first baseman Gary Bowman on Lohich blossomed into the final run -- in the eighth. Rath, himself, chased in the run with a single to center.

The Commodores, meanwhile, got a runner to second base only twice -- in the second and the seventh. All the Decatur 'is' were singles, and in one stretch, Rath retired 11 straight batters.

FOX TALKS: Former Philadelphia Phil pitcher Hugh Mulcahy, now the White Sox' minor league pitching supervisor, saw Sunday's game and was impressed by the progress Rath is making. Mickey Abarbanel, star Foxes southpaw, may get back into action Tuesday night. He lost one mound turn because of an ear infection. The attendance of nearly 600 on a night which carried a storm threat brought the season's home gate to 12,088.

The Foxes' "Pot of Gold" is up to $80 for tonight's game, which rates for feminine fans and family groups. No one whose name has been called in the "gold" contest has been at the ball park.

LC-K Scores 3-0 Victory Over Racine

LITTLE CHUTE -- Larry Huebner fired a 6-hitter as Little Chute-Kimberly, of the Fox River Valley League, scored a 3-0 victory over the Racine Redbirds in an exhibition game at Racine Saturday night.

Backed by a bus-load of fans, the Papermakers scored a pair of runs in the third inning and added one in the seventh and performed flawlessly behind Huebner.

Huebner struck out four and scattered the hits well.

Floyd Hammen and Lee Neumeier each had a pair of safeties for the Papermakers, who have a 2-0 FRVL mark and are 4-0 for the season.

Hadley Takes Tourney Title

Hadley and O'Brien, spent 75 strokes yesterday. Galvin, who, after a 74 Saturday, authored Sunday's low card of 68 with the help of a 3-under par 32 on the front side.

Earl Schuler, former Fox Valley member, captured the A Flight laurels with a 147 total. Schuler marked nines of 33 and 39 Sunday to go with his initial effort of 75, defeating runnerup Larry Lancaster, Neenah, by two strokes.

Kimberly Junior High School teacher Jim Haas, playing his best golf of the year, raced away with B Flight honors with rounds of 77 and 74. Haas posted nines of 38 and 36 yesterday to win over runnerup Bill Dowling by seven shots.

Neenah's Wayne Holmes, better known for his hockey ability, garnered the C Flight trophy with scores of 87 and 85, defeating runnerup Ed Hoffman, the Wisconsin Public Links Association president, by three.

Bayer opened Sunday's round with a roar, notching a birdie on the first, par on the second and eagle duce on the 200-yard third hole. But after needing four putts from just 10 feet on the par 5 fourth for a double bogey seven, the confidence on the carpets was gone and the personable Reid Municipal representative finished with nines of 36 and 39 on the par 35-36 layout.

Cites Tee Shots

Hadley also cited his booming tee shots as a major factor en route to his fourth championship. The extremely talented RCC better matched the card through the fourth hole, but made bogey on No. 5. A 3-foot birdie putt on the 4-par eighth temporarily brought him back to even, but a bogey on the ninth left Tom 1-over on the outgoing side.

A 10-foot birdie putt on the 12th and the 3-footer for another bird on the 14th wrapped it up. For insurance, Hadley found the cup with a 10-foot birdie putt on the 15th. With just a single 3-putt green (No. 4), Hadley needed 31 putts, while Bayer required 35.

Cost Title Chance

O'Brien needed three to get down from just off the green on the 5-par 12th and this, he said, cost him his title chance. The 56-year-old, grey-haired shotmaker dropped a 6-footer for a bird on 13 but bogeyed at 17 to finish with a pair of 36s for the day.

With the help of a red hot wedge and a couple of lucky bounces, Galvin found four birdies (1, 4, 6 and 8) on the front side and two more (14 and 18) on the incoming side en route to the 69.

Deadlocked in fifth place at 144 were Ridgeway veteran Herb Stinski Sr., Milwaukeean Bob Damuth Jr. and Oshkosh's "Giant", 250-pound Dale Egnoski. Green Bay Shorewood representatives Jon Pasley and Mel Skaleski were next in line at 145, while Butte des Morts' youthful Jeff Martin and Ridgeway's Dick Spangenberg tied with 146.

Three former Adler Brantists -- Reid Munz's Syl Bayer, BDM's Don Strutz and Ridgeway's Elmer Selig -- were tied with 149s.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

140 -- Tom Hadley 70-70, 142 -- Dick O'Brien 70-72, 143 -- Chuck Bayer 68-75, Terry Galvin 74-69.

144 -- Bob Damuth Jr. 73-71, Herb Stinski Sr. 71-73, Dale Egnoski 72-72.

145 -- Jon Pasley 71-74, Mel Skaleski 73-72.

146 -- Dick Spangenberg 72-74, Jeff Martin 72-74.

147 -- Roger Eberhardt 71-76, 149 -- John Lundberg 73-76, Dennis Raab 74-75, Don Strutz 75-74.

Stankey's Staff Continues Hot Pace

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) -- The Chicago White Sox pitching staff, playing one of the hottest hands in baseball, can't keep it up and the first to admit it is Manager Eddie Stankey.

Sox pitching has been of such an unbelievable nature the past week that Stankey said, "I couldn't expect such performances if I had Lefty Grove, Bob Feller and Rube Waddell in their prime."

The Sox concluded a sweep of their four-game series with Washington Sunday with a double victory, 4-1 and 12-0, as Gary Peters hurled a two-hitter in the nightcap after holding the Senators hitless until the seventh.

That one run in the first game was the only one the Senators scored in their 36 innings at bat. It came off Joel Horlen in the first game in the seventh-inning triple by Ed Brinkman and a single by Fred Valentine.

At that point the Sox staff had string of 29 scoreless innings but the week of spectacular pitching dates back to May 29, when Tommy John tossed a three-hit shutout against the New York Yankees.

Suffers 1-0 Loss

The following day the Sox returned home for a doubleheader against Boston. John Ruzhardt blanked the Red Sox on five hits and Jack Lamabe came back in the nightcap with a one-hit shutout.

On May 31 Horlen hurled a 7-2-77; Elmer Selig 7-2-73, Jim White 73-76; Syl Bayer 77-72.

151 -- Tom Wiese 71-80; Mike Boyd 75-76.

153 -- Tom Floberg 77-76; Gary Krieger 73-80.

159 -- Jim Hulsizer 79-80, 160 -- Tom Bauer 78-82.

147 -- Earl Schuler 75-72, 149 -- Larry Lancaster 76-73.

152 -- Bob Wainwright 73-79, 153 -- Russ Laake 76-77.

155 -- Jack Herb 80-75; Ed Verbrick 74-81.

160 -- Don Becker 81-79, Bob Karasny 82-78.

160 -- Don Anderson 79-81, 162 -- Jack Snyder 79-83, Tim Wainwright 80-82, Ray Q. Fischer 80-82; Tom Koepke 83-79.

172 -- Wayne Holmes 87-85, 175 -- Ed Hoffman 89-86, 176 -- Cliff Lee 88-88, 180 -- Emery Parker 91-89.

Neenah's Foe in State Baseball Test Rests on Result of Marion Game

EAU CLAIRE (AP) -- One berth was still up for grabs today in the 1966 Wisconsin high school baseball championships starting Friday.

Marion, led by pitching sensation Ken Frailing, faced Oconto Falls this evening in the delayed Marion sectional finale to fill out the eight-team field for the WIAA meet.

The three-day championships will pair EauClaire Memorial against Wilmot in the opener and Fond du Lac against Superior in the other afternoon game Friday.

Returning Finalist

Sun Prairie will play the first night game and Wisconsin Rapids is listed for the other one, but their opponents in the alphabetically arranged pairings will depend on the Marion winner. Neenah, completing the field, will play the leftover team Friday night.

Superior is the only finalist returning from the 1965 tournament. Wilmot ousted defending champion Beloit in a 11-0 romp last week and didn't allow a single run in its two sectional games.

Memorial reached the finals with a perfect pitching performance by two hurlers, Bob Hall and Gene Hoepner, in a 5-0 no-hit victory over Hudson Friday.

Wisconsin Rapids won the only Saturday sectional finale by beating Wisconsin Dells 8-0 at Adams-Friendship.

Jack Fiegel pitched a four-hit shutout and slammed a bases-loaded triple to lead the Red Raiders, who bring the best won-lost record to the finals at 12-1.

Frailing, a senior scouted by 17 major league clubs, was expected to pitch for Marion again today. He struck out 19 in a seven-inning no-hitter in his last appearance Friday.

It was the fourth no-hitter of the year for Frailing, who has a 10-0 record with only two earned runs allowed in 67 innings. He also has thrown three one-hitters and a pair of two-hitters.

"I figured he couldn't go very far and asked him to give me five or six innings. Well, you know the rest."

"It's the best I've pitched in two years," said Peters. "I had a one-hitter against Baltimore two or three years ago but I sure was thinking of a no-hitter about the sixth inning."

Ken McMullen spoiled it with a single past third in the seventh and Frank Howard collected the other hit with a single to center with two out in the ninth.

"I know it's not going to keep up," said Stankey "but I'll take it as long as it's there."

When he was warming up I told him not to try to pace himself," said Stankey. "I figured he couldn't go very far and asked him to give me five or six innings. Well, you know the rest."

Graduate Programs To Help State Schools

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The institutions in the state university system explaining the demand for have taken the most important step in their goal of attaining full-fledged "university" status by winning approval of a general graduate studies program at each of the nine schools.

A plan for the development of graduate study programs leading to graduate degrees outside the field of education has been ratified by the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

Confirming action by the legislature, in the form of an enabling law, is expected to follow without difficulty, so that the expanded graduate program can be inaugurated in the fall of 1967.

UW Welcomes More

At some periods in the history of the Wisconsin higher education program, such a plan might have been viewed as a step by the University of Wisconsin, traditionally the center of graduate studies in the tax-supported higher education system.

But the University of Wisconsin warmly endorsed the plan of the smaller graduate schools, explaining that the demand for graduate studies has become so strong that it can no longer accommodate all the students who desire to enter its large graduate school at Madison.

The incident is regarded as an example of the warmer understanding between the two segments of the state higher education system which are now jointly ruled, with respect to program development, by the Coordinating Committee.

Demand for Education

It is also a reflection of the increasing problem of school administrators to meet the enormous demand for higher education from the young people of Wisconsin as well as from others already employed.

In the early stages, the state university graduate program will probably concentrate upon the general graduate study needs of local school teachers. But the discussions made it clear that the programs will evolve more broadly, as the years go on and the higher education programs continue to expand under the pressure of larger enrollments.

The broader graduate school authorization for the universities comes only six years after the first graduate instruction was approved in the field of professional education. That experimental program was arranged with the cooperation of the graduate school of the University of Wisconsin.

Fatal Crash Injured on Critical List

OSHKOSH — Two persons injured in the five-fatality accident Friday night in Winnebago County remain "very critical," according to Art C. Miller, county coroner.

Miller also indicated no further information has been received on blood tests taken of the drivers of the two cars, both of whom were killed. Results of the tests are expected in a couple days from the State Crime Laboratory in Madison, Miller said, today.

An inquest is planned into the accident as soon as the survivors can be talked to. There were no other witnesses.

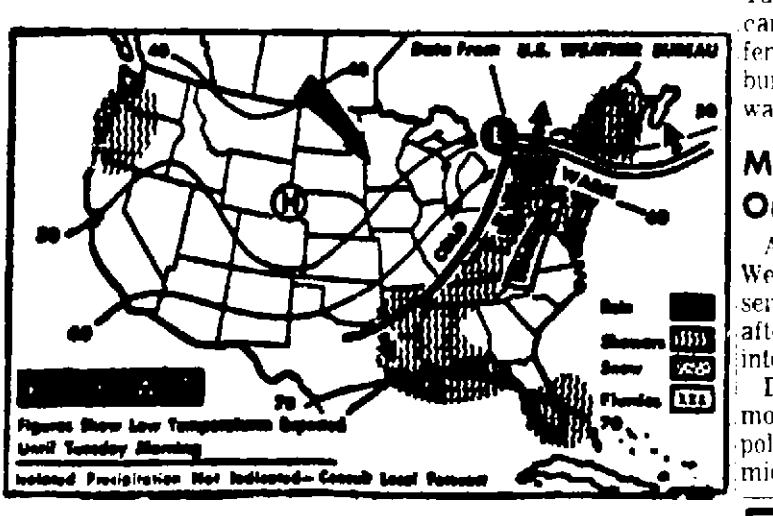

In critical condition at Mercy Hospital are Mrs. Anthony Ehm, 21, and Anthony Manicke, 16, both of Oshkosh. The condition of Darlene Block, 16, and Robert Vall, 16, both of Oshkosh, remains fair, the hospital said this morning.

All the survivors are suffering head injuries and lacerations. In addition, Manicke sustained a severe chest injury.

Bunche Sure Of Future at Graduation
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ralph J. Bunche said Sunday he has confidence in the world's future because he has faith in the "ultimate reason, good sense and goodness of man."

The United Nations Undersecretary spoke to the graduating class at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

"Why, then, can men not be persuaded to rally around the cause of peace when human survival itself is the issue?" Bunche asked.

"I believe they can," he continued, "but it will require much more determined effort than has thus far been exerted by any international body or by governments."

Bunche, who was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree, pointed out what he called the irony between the $128 million allotted for UN peace keeping missions and the estimated annual world armament budget of $120 billion.

Rural Kaukauna Man Jailed on 2 Traffic Counts
KAUKAUNA — Kenneth Cooper, 23, route 1, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle without a Wisconsin driver's license when arraigned before Clarence O'Connor, Municipal Justice, Friday.

Cooper was fined $150 or three months in jail on the reckless driving charge and $10 or 10 days for the second violation. He was unable to pay the fine and taken to Outagamie County Jail. Cooper was involved in a June 1 accident.

Glenn Frank, 26, 720 High St., Kaukauna, was fined $35 after pleading guilty of failing to have a vehicle under control. He was arrested after a May 28 accident.

Injuries Minor in 3 Vehicle Accident West of Oshkosh
OSHKOSH — Injuries were minor in an accident Saturday night west of here involving two cars and a semi-trailer.

According to the Winnebago County Sheriff Department, a vehicle driven by Robert J. Andrashko, 23, Waupaca, on State 110 in the Town of Winchester allegedly was sideswiped by one driven in the same direction by Arthur C. Vogt, 56, Okauchee. The Vogt vehicle, proceeding east on State 110, then rammed into the semi-trailer's side. The semi was driven by Eugene R. Roehl, 31, St. Cloud. Andrashko and Vogt sustained minor injuries.

Damage to the two cars was estimated at $1,000 each. Damage to the semi was about $100.

Electrical Storm Hits New London; Portion Of City Without Power

Lightning Strikes Transformer; Amherst Area Lashed by Wind

New London Utility Co. re-knocked out the 35,000 volt line ports fuses in a substation which serves the area. A burned out by a severe lightning storm which struck here around midnight.

Also damaged by the storm were an overhead cable at State 54 and U.S. 45, a transformer on Woodlane Drive and a number of home transformer fuses throughout the city.

L. K. Thomas, utility company manager, said the portion of the city lying east of Division Street was without electricity for about 1½ hours. Some isolated homes were without electricity for a longer period, he added.

Wisconsin Telephone Co. reports no major interruption of service to the area. A few calls had been received from isolated spots, however, he said.

The Amherst, Amherst Junction and Nelsonville area was hit both Saturday and Sunday nights by electrical storms.

Fire Damages Milk Truck

Tires Burned Off Vehicle Saturday South of Waupaca

WAUPACA — Four tires were destroyed by fire and a semi-trailer truck loaded with powdered milk was damaged at 12:32 p.m. Saturday six miles south of here on State 22.

Waupaca and King fire departments were called to the scene to extinguish the flames which were ignited by the heat generated by a flat tire on the tractor of the vehicle.

The truck is owned by A. Sturm and Sons, Janawa, and was driven by Leonard Hahn, route 1, Manawa. Hahn was returning from Cashton with the load of powdered milk which was scheduled to be processed at the Manawa plant.

Hear from the flaming tires started the trailer portion of the truck on fire and firemen had to move several barrels of powdered milk to reach the flames. The milk was being hauled in 50-pound barrels.

No estimate of damage was set.

Bible School Starts Today At Bear Creek

BEAR CREEK — "My Saviour and I" is the theme for the daily vacation Bible school which began today at Grace Lutheran Church and will run for two weeks.

Sessions will be held from 9 to 11:15 a.m.

Lois Probst and Katherine Wege will teach kindergarten classes. Primary department pupils will study under Bonnie Brauers and Theodore Reinke Jr.

Betty Zimmerman and Sharon Johnson will supervise the junior department. The Rev. Carl Enfrunth will teach junior high students.

Closing day June 17 will feature a program and display of articles made by the children. Parents, friends and relatives are invited to the program.

Teacher Grant At Chilton Given To Fred Mueller

CHILTON — Fred Mueller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mueller Jr., route 4, was awarded the Chilton Education Association Scholarship at Sunday's commencement exercises.

Mueller was chosen by the high school faculty from 15 applicants, according to Norman Partz, C.E.A. president.

The $500 scholarship was awarded on the basis of scholastic achievement, need and the student's contribution in extra-curricular activities.

Mueller will receive $200 his first year at college and $100 each of the remaining three years.

Jeanne Oehlke Wins Scholarship At Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — Miss Jeanne Oehlke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Oehlke, Weyauwega, has been awarded a $50 scholarship by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Jeanne is a 1964 graduate of Fox Valley Lutheran High School. She will begin her third year of nursing training at Milwaukee County General Hospital.

The scholarship is available to girls from the Weyauwega area who have completed one year of college with at least a 2.0 average.

More Than 21,000 Pounds of milk had to be pumped from a tank truck that overturned about 10:45 a.m. Sunday on the State Road near Black Creek. The truck, owned and driven by Elton Lorenz, route 1, Shiocton, tipped onto its side when Lorenz attempted to miss holes in the road. Lorenz, 37, and his son, Dennis, 13, were uninjured. A large wrecker from Appleton was used to set the truck back on its wheels. It received damage to the entire right side. Outagamie County Police investigated. (Post-Crescent Photo)

New London Jaycees Plan Water Festival Activities

July Civic Celebration Replaces Former Homecoming Observance

NEW LONDON — A schedule of events for the July 3 water festival has been planned by a committee of Jaycee members.

The first annual water festival will be during the two-day Jaycee celebration July 3 and 4.

The new festivities will replace the former annual homecoming which was part of a five-day observance.

Joe Quance, water festival chairman, said activities would begin at noon July 3 and continue until dark when two street dances are scheduled.

Water skiing contests will be featured during the water festival. Allen Stern and Quance will be co-chairmen of the skiing events.

Quance said boy and girl classes for those under 12, 12 to 15 and more than 16-years-old to the city of Waupaca amount to $1,167.

Water show is planned about 6 p.m. featuring top skiers.

James Sheahan is chairman of the water parade scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Sheahan said area organizations and businesses would be asked to enter floats.

Awards will be made to the organization and business entering the top float.

Terry McPeak will act as master of ceremonies for the two-day event.

A rock and roll band will perform for the teens and a polka band for the adults following the water festival.

Fourth of July activities will begin about 2 p.m. in Hatten Park. An antique car parade will start off activities at that time.

Cars will be displayed in a roped off area during the afternoon. Car registrations may be made with Roger Pitt prior to July 4 or at the food stand that day. Awards will be made to the oldest car, the car coming the longest distance and the car selected as the top attraction.

Contests will be conducted during the afternoon. Rope pulling and other contests for various age classes are planned.

Live entertainment will be provided throughout the afternoon. A folk singing group from Marion, a pop organist from New London and a singing group will perform.

The New London Jaycee "Sweetheart" will be crowned about 8:30 p.m. July 4 prior to the fireworks display. Winners of the color television, outboard motor and movie camera will be drawn at that time.

Melvin Borchardt, fireworks chairman, said this year's display would include 20 ground type and the usual aerial variety. This will be the largest ground display ever presented by the club. Borchardt said.

Food and refreshment chairman for the two-day event are

Ed Bergman and William Koptzke. Jim Sheahan is prize chairman and Jim Sodolski, "Sweetheart" chairman.

77 Brillion Graduates Hear Editor

Grants Totaling $1,550 Given 10 Honor Students

BRILLION — Education is a lifetime process so don't stop learning — be a thinker — keep your youthful ideas and energy and above all learn and practice flexibility and tolerance. These and other thoughts on "What I Have Learned" were conveyed to the 77 graduates by Harvey Schwandner, editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel, at the Brillion High School commencement exercises Friday night.

"Your generation by sheer numbers alone — one half of the U.S. population is said to be persons under 25 — can not help but excel, and by so doing will bring back quality in our lives," he said.

Schwandner, a native of Brillion and a 1927 graduate of the high school here, compared Brillion, then and now. He added that prosperity leads to much unhappiness and more mental illness — the prevalent mood today is anxiety and the good old days of leisurely living are gone.

$1,550 Scholarship Scholarships totaling $1,550 were awarded at this 82nd commencement. Recipients were judged on scholastic accomplishments, other achievements in high school activities and the need for financial assistance.

Connie Benschawel received the Brillion Iron Works and Woman's Club scholarships for $250 and $100, respectively.

The Lions Club's $100 scholarship went to Barbara Brockman and Arlene Paul received a $200 scholarship from Ariens Co. A $100 scholarship from Rent-A-Truck was given to Jim Denor and Gloria Brehmer was recipient of the Calumet-Dutch-Packaging Co.'s $100.

Lee Wittmann and Ronald Kuckenbeck were recipients of $275 scholarships to attend the agriculture short course at the University of Wisconsin.

These were awarded by the Wisconsin Public Service Corp. and the Calumet County Bank.

Brillion Athletic Les Bandt received a $50 scholarship from the Brillion Athletic Association awarded to a graduate who plans to enter the field of physical education.

The Brillion Teacher Education Association awarded a $50 scholarship to Marion Paul and the American Legion post's $50 award went to John Frisby.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Theophilus Hileman, pastor of Peace United Church of Christ.

Mary Lewis presented the valedictory address and John Haun, the salutatory address.

School Band The high school band directed by Bruce Messner played during the professional and recession.

Several vocal selections were presented by the high school chorus directed by Sherman Warner.

Principal Allan Coenen presented the graduating class to the board of education. Presentation of diplomas was by school board president John Haun, whose son was the salutatory.

Faculty advisers for the class were David Wohe, Harry Drier and Richard Sheahan.

Democrats Warned Steiger Will be Strong Candidate

Race Labels His GOP Opponent A 'Do Nothing, Fence Straddler'

FOND DU LAC — Democrats

meeting here Sunday afternoon for their annual Sixth District convention, heard several speakers warn about the strength of the 1966 Republican congressional candidate, Assemblyman William Steiger of Oshkosh.

Reflecting the concern that Wisconsin Democrats have for Steiger's candidacy, national committeeman David Carley, a candidate in the September Democratic gubernatorial primary, said, "This will not be an easy race. They (the Republicans) have nominated their strongest possible candidate."

Carley said Steiger "is a man who can bring together all elements of the party."

Similar sentiment was repeated by two other gubernatorial primary candidates — Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey and Milwaukee businessman Abe Swed, and by State Sen. Martin Schreiber Jr., Milwaukee, a candidate for lieutenant governor.

John Race, Fond du Lac, the Democratic incumbent who will face Steiger in November, lashed into his opponent for being a "fence-straddler" and for refusing to denounce John Birch Society elements in the Sixth District.

"Steiger," Race charged, "has convinced conservative Republicans in his district that he is a Republican, and he has convinced liberal Republicans that he is a liberal."

"He is a fence-straddler," Race said, "and a perfect example of do-nothingness. The blond-haired boy from Oshkosh is trying to serve two masters."

Steiger also was criticized by Race for not speaking out against Peter Wheeler Reiss of Sheboygan who, until he formally withdrew last Friday, was a Republican candidate for the Sixth District congressional nomination.

"Reiss," the Democratic congressman said, "is a cell leader in the John Birch Society and the boy from Oshkosh failed to denounce him even though, until Friday, he was opposing him in the primary election."

Race told the group of about 100 that 1964 was "a great year" for Democrats in the Sixth District.

"During that year," he said, "we reached a crossroad and threw out the deadwood that has been in power in this district for a decade and a half. And since 1964, prosperity has become greater than anyone of us had anticipated.

"But now," Race charged, "we're faced with a group of reactionary radicals who want to eliminate every progressive program enacted by the Democratic Party in the last 20 years, and set us back where we were 30 years ago."

Says Steiger "Hiding" Accusing Steiger of falling into same mold, Race stated he is facing "a reactionary radical" who is hiding behind the false cloak of moderation. He calls himself a middle-of-the-roader, but his record speaks for itself.

Race said the "challenge" faced by Sixth District Democrats "is to expose these people. We must remind the people of the record of the Republicans — their record of reaction and stagnancy and do-nothingness."

"We must remind the people of the record of the Democratic Party for progress through eras of devils — well-grounded and well-thought-out programs that are based on sound principles."

Citing examples of "accomplishment" by the Democratic Party-controlled 89th Congress, silence and render powerless Race pointed to Medicare, increases in Social Security benefits, the Omnibus Housing Act, the new rent supplement program of 1967, "liberalized" immigration laws, the manpower training program, military pay increases, the creation of a Commission on Aging in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and "high standards" in the new federal minimum wage bill.

"Examples of Action" "These," Race claimed, "are all examples of action, not reaction. They are examples of positive, forward-looking programs which are cognizant of the problems of today and the needs of tomorrow."

"But on the other side," he said, "we are faced by Republicans who have decied these programs ... and we are confronted by both extremes of subversives and traitors, and it is time that someone said so in plain language."

"These Birchers," Race charged, "have committed themselves to the undermining of public confidence in the President ... and they have unashamedly adopted the Fuhrer concept of Adolf Hitler."

Greatest Challenge "Our greatest challenge in this election year," he concluded, "will be to demonstrate that an aroused and loyal citizenry can silence and render powerless these brown-shirted advocates of totalitarianism."

New London's Police Department added its second full-time radio operator June 1. Captain Ray Oberstadt, left, goes over a radio log with James Edminister, the new operator. Edminister will work a day shift allowing for more efficient police protection in the city. Duties in addition to radio operator will include paper work, filing and acting as desk clerk. ## New London Club Offers Golf Classes to Youngsters

NEW LONDON — Area youngsters can take part in the annual New London Golf Club, which will be on Monday and Tuesday, beginning June 13.

Parents will determine if classes for girls are held Mondays and boy's classes Tuesday, or whether mixed classes will be conducted, Wells said. He explained this was for the convenience of parents who live a distance from the club and have more than one child taking part in the program.

Pupils must have clubs and several golf balls for practice.

Booster Club Sponsors Dinner at Greenville BEAR CREEK — Twenty-four persons attended the annual Booster Club dinner at the Silver Dome dining hall at Greenville last week.

Vivian Brisco and Mrs. John Probst received prizes in sheephead. Mrs. William Klegler and Mrs. John Weber, schmeat, and Mrs. George Mallet and Mrs. Edward Flanagan, special prizes.

Rae Elandt Received the Bob Krull Memorial Award as the best all-around senior in citizenship, scholarship, music and athletics at Awards Night at Clintonville Senior High School. Her name will be engraved on the plaque shown which is kept in the trophy case at school. Paul Glass, president of the student council, and Miss Elandt admire the trophy. (Laib Photo)

Clash at Kiel

Chilton Tigers Open Baseball Season Today

CHILTON — The high school baseball team will open Eastern Wisconsin Conference play this evening at Kiel. Five lettermen from last year's squad that finished the schedule tied for third place with an eight and five mark make up the nucleus.

Coach John Freidel, returning for his 10th season, figures this to be a rebuilding year as six letter winners from last year's team haven't reported.

Leading the list of five returnees is Jim Daun, senior fireballing right-handed pitcher who compiled a 7-5 record last year with an earned run average of 2.40. Daun won the Tiger batting title with 21 hits in 50 times at bat for an average of .420.

Other returning lettermen are Loren Wagner, first baseman who hit .263 last season; John Hauser, shortstop this year while earning his letter as a catcher last season; Bill Forstner, who played at second last season moved to third base; and outfielder Terry Fluhr.

Remaining positions will be manned by newcomers with Fred Gebhart catching, Jerry Sturtz, second base; Dan Holst, Leroy Meyer and John Brenner fighting for the outfield posts with Fluhr.

The Eastern Wisconsin Conference league games will be played on Mondays and Thursdays with all home games starting at 8 p.m. Some road games will start at 6 p.m.

City Hall Parking Gets Consideration

Proposed Paving of Lawn Area Referred Back to Committee

A proposal to pave the west side of the city hall property for additional municipal parking ran into trouble this week but was referred back to the board of public works for another look.

Originally the board recommended denial of the project advocated by Ald. John Avers (12th).

Avers said the back of city hall (fronting on Appleton Street) could be paved and landscaped providing an additional 20 parking spaces. A city hall lot to the south has 32 spaces.

Avers told his colleagues the property represents the best commercial site in downtown Appleton and felt valuable land was going to waste. It has been estimated it will cost $2,000 to blacktop and landscape the 60 by 100 foot area.

If anything, Avers said, I think if the project is handled right it will improve the looks of the city hall area.

The council indicated it would take another look at the parking lot proposal.

In office matters, the council received a letter from the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce which has contact with a local industry interested in acquiring the old municipal garage at 920 W. Spencer St. this fall when the new facility is completed on the northeast side.

Approved rezonings, which would permit the construction of service stations on Wisconsin Avenue at Douglas and Gallett street, and scheduled public hearings.

Received a petition from the city plan commission instituting action to have property on the south side of Oneida Street from Fremont to Seymour rezoned from residential to local business.

Instructed the public works director to prepare specifications for installation of a new public address system in the city hall council chambers.

Air Force Names New Recruiter

T. Sgt. Merrill H. Knutson Waupaca has been named an Air Force recruiter for the Appleton area.

Knutson

Sgt. Knutson graduated from Manawa High School in 1949 and enlisted in the Air Force the same year. Most of his service time has been spent in the U.S. with one tour of duty in the Far East.

Until 1960 when he became the Milwaukee recruiter, Knutson served as an aircraft and Atlas missile mechanic. Sgt. and Mrs. Knutson and their three children presently reside at 1206 E. Clark St., Waupaca.

Plan Farewell For Principal At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Members of the St. Rose congregation will have a farewell open house for Sister St. Thomas from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school dining hall.

Sister St. Thomas has served as principal of St. Rose school for the past six years. She has been transferred to the English department at Catholic Memorial High School in Waukegan.

ICC Asked to Okay Merger

Joint Application Filed by C&NW and 'Milwaukee Road'

Two of the four rail carriers that serve the Fox Valley area — the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. and the Chicago Milwaukee St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Co. — today filed a joint application with Interstate Commerce Commission for approval of consolidation of the two Midwestern carriers.

The filing of the application marks the beginning of the final step in procedures to consolidate two railroad which for more than a quarter of a century have been regarded as ideal merger partners.

Ben W. Hemmen, chairman and president of the North Western and William J. Quinn, president of the Milwaukee Road, said that we know of no other two railroads in the United States that an combination could offer greater benefits to the regions and communities they serve to their shippers, investors, employees, and the general public.

Same General Territory.

The application states that the 10,246 mile North Western and the 10,312 mile Milwaukee Road serve the same general territory in the Midwest, including numerous points in common and operate a large number of duplicate lines and facilities. The two roads are logical components of a single railroad more capable of sustaining existing marginal services, of achieving improved operating efficiency, of maintaining the nation's railroads, and of generating more adequate resources for the of missions in Mexico for 20 maintenance and replacement years where he also was chief plant and equipment. The principal of several school children laid operation of the The Rev. Mr. Parfitt was in two carriers will help create a healthy rail system out of two unhealthy ones.

The operation of the two brothers, three sisters and 11 children are considered as grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Seventh Day Adventist Church. Pastor's petition petition of light death conditions which have historically existed and will be in effect.

Economic Efficient.

The two roads state that it is essential for the North Western and Milwaukee Road to provide more economical and efficient service to the shipping, public, and to achieve savings in the unified roads more competitive through Montana, Idaho, and over the long term with other Washington to Seattle Tacoma forms of transportation in the and other northwest Pacific Midwest.

Each has lines in Wisconsin, Indiana, and Missouri touching Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Upper Kansas and Nebraska.

Sewage to Bypass Treatment Plant

NEENAH-MENASHA — One unavoidable phase of putting the new Twin Cities secondary sewage treatment plant into effect will be the passing of raw sewage into the Fox River for a period of five to seven days starting Monday.

The contractors for the $2.1 million project have tried to limit the days as much as possible, but the inlets to the treatment plant will have to be closed while underground piping work and pump installation is underway.

Work will be conducted in four areas simultaneously with crews working 12 hour days. Vernon Zingsheim, sewerage commission superintendent said. Longer days would be worked, Zingsheim said, but there are no more men available during this heavy construction season.

High Efficiency.

When the entire secondary treatment is in effect this fall, city and key punch vocational school facilities and instructors will reach the limited efficiencies of over 90 per cent. Efficiencies in the present plant are generally less than 50 per cent.

During the period that raw sewage is bypassing the plant, Zingsheim said, a heavy chlorine dose will be added to the nation dose will be added to the certification requirements for a sewage to kill all pathogenic bacteria. Organic matter will go into the waterway system but have been approved by the it will not be a health hazard, he explained.

Zingsheim said the lack of treatment for the five to seven days is regrettable but added it's all we can do.

Services Set For Rev. Parfitt

7th Day Adventist Minister, 73, Dies At New London

NEW LONDON — The Rev. Archie G. Parfitt, 73, died Saturday morning after a long illness.

He was born June 1, 1893 in Waupaca County, a veteran of World War I and a member of the DAV. He was superintendent of the missions in Mexico for 20 years where he also was principal of several schools. The Rev. Mr. Parfitt was in the clergy for 42 years.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, two sons, five grandchildren, three sisters and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Seventh Day Adventist Church. Pastor's petition petition of light death conditions which have historically existed and will be in effect.

Economic Efficient.

Federal Aid Approved for Kaukauna Vocational Plans

School Must Match $20,682 Funds for Equipment, Materials

KAUKAUNA — The high technology and key punch vocational school has received favorable federal approval for seven vocational courses for next school year. The school must match $20,682 in funds for equipment, materials, and instructional aids.

The courses will offer related technical information including mathematics, physics, and vocational school director. The course and practical work experience. Objective of the courses is to provide student information to enable them to seek job entry into the broad clusters of representative occupations.

Some students may find the courses a means of motivation for further study at an advanced technical school and a few might decide to try beyond the technician level and attend college. In all cases, students must meet prerequisites before entering the courses.

Since several of these courses were just completed, there appears that the students are striving for greater achievement and have a greater stimulation and interest in the courses and their content. With our present arrangement we are able to accommodate the entire abilities spectrum from the student with low abilities to the very high, according to Hornum who will coordinate and direct the industrial arts vocational education program.

Ky Regime Drafts Slate to Join Ruling Junta in Viet Nam

Buddhist Extremists Excluded
From List of 10 Civilians Named

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — Buddhist extremists printed the names of 10 civilians nominated to join the ruling junta in Viet Nam. Premier Nguyen Cao Dai of the Buddhist military regime nominated a slate of 10 civilians today to join the unified Buddhist junta in the 16-man ruling junta but church excluded Buddhist extremists. Even before the government opposing the government published the list the Buddhist extremists said. This committee included some moderate Buddhists, Roman Catholics and representatives of the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao sects. But the Buddhist wouldn't join the government if asked.

Meredith Continues Hike

Marcher Hopes to Encourage Negroes To be Registered

MEMPHIS (UPI) — Meredith's Mississippi march continues today after the first day's hike. He led just short of the state line.

Meredith started on his 225-mile trek to the Mississippi state Capitol at Jackson Sunday afternoon but as he came within sight of the state line he moved back to Memphis to spend the night in the home of a Memphis NAACP leader. He is depending entirely on local hospitality.

There are a million Negroes in Mississippi, Meredith said as he started off. I think that if I take care of me.

At the start the only official fellow hikers were the Rev. Robert Weeks, 40, a white Protestant Episcopal priest from Monroe, N.Y., and Sherwood E. R. of Washington D.C. letting the assembly turn it off into a governing legislature after it drafts a constitution.

The group may grow as the march progresses but Meredith said anyone who comes will be on his own and I will round up voting for a legislature also no women or children. Meredith estimates the trip to Jackson will take about two weeks. He doesn't anticipate until the middle of next year trouble although northern Mississippi was seething in 1962 when he became the first known Negro to enter the University of Mississippi.

There are two purposes for the trip, Meredith said. First we want to tear down the fear that grips Negroes in Mississippi and we want to encourage the 400,000 Negroes remaining unregistered in Mississippi.

Police and sheriff's officers watched over Meredith while he was in Tennessee. Meredith said he had written to Gov. Paul Johnson of Mississippi and sheriffs of the 10 Mississippi counties he will pass through but said only one sheriff had replied.

Near Deadline
The ruling generals drafted the list of civilians several hours before a deadline agreed on last week in negotiations between moderate Buddhist extremists and the Ky regime to end the political crisis.

The list submitted by the junta was received this afternoon by the 16-man Armed Forces Council part of the governing military apparatus, then sent back to the junta for approval.

The Buddhist Institute in a communiqué repeated demands for the resignation of Ky and the chief of state, Nguyen Van Thieu.

If the two generals still remain in power with only superficial changes in the junta, it cannot solve anything, but only to increase the opposition from the people, the communiqué said.

While the Ky regime attempted to live up to its political part with the Buddhists, it appeared in for a surprise from the Electoral Commission it named to prepare the ground for the Sept. 11 elections for a Constitutional Assembly.

During a long debate Sunday night 27 of the 32 commissioners were reported in favor of letting the assembly turn it off into a governing legislature after it drafts a constitution.

This would shorten the life of the military regime considerably and preclude the second round of voting for a legislature which Ky plans. The junta would not be able to step down until the middle of next year. However, the junta could reject the commission's recommendations when he became the first known Negro to enter the University of Mississippi.

While the politicking went on in Saigon, there were these developments in the war.

War Developments
The U.S. 1st Cavalry Airborne Division, together with Vietnamese and South Korean units, ended Operation Gladio after almost 21 days of off and on fighting against the communists in the rugged central highlands. 200 North Vietnamese were reported killed, 31 captured, 119 suspects detained and 15 crew-sized and 88 individual weapons captured.

6th District Democrats

'Hopefuls' Preview State Convention

BY DICK LYNFIS

FOND DU LAC — If Gov. Patrick Lucey, national committee man David Carley and Milwaukee businessman Abe Swed Sunday afternoon gave Sixth District Democrats a preview of next weekend's Democratic Party state convention.

Here for the district unit's annual convention the three candidates for the Democratic Party's nomination for governor made proposals on how the primary election campaign should be conducted.

A fourth announced candidate for the nomination, attorney Dominic Frizzi of Milwaukee did not attend.

Lucey, who doesn't know whether he will have an opportunity to address the convention said he was using the district convention as a sounding board for a new proposal.

He called for a Democratic Unity Committee to monitor the Democratic primary for governor to insure decorous conduct during the preprimary period and to make long-range plans for the general election campaign.

Carley promised Democrats who will be in Madison next weekend to expect a lively convention.

And he said for the first time in many years this state will witness a primary contest for governor in which the candidates start out with relatively equal chances of winning and in which the party or incumbency has not given one candidate a great advantage over others.

The third Democratic gubernatorial candidate to appear spoke briefly and said he is running on a people's program of money for old people in the form of property tax relief and money for clean water to fight pollution.

Turning to the convention next weekend, he promised I'm going to tell everyone that my platform is one of cutting the property tax and

Senators Get U.N. Briefing From Goldberg

U. S. May Seek World Body's Help In Viet Nam Voting

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg briefed senators today amid indications the United States may bid for General Assembly action to supervise South Viet Nam's proposed elections.

Goldberg, who has encountered stiff opposition within Senate circles to Saigon's request for U.N. observers, scheduled a luncheon with about 15 senators. Most of the 15 are considered liberals and some have criticized President Johnson's course in Viet Nam.

Goldberg called Sunday for a "mutual cessation of all types of hostilities" in Viet Nam and urged that a new Geneva conference be held to reaffirm 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements for peace in Southeast Asia.

Commencement Talk

In a commencement address at the Catholic University of America here, Goldberg also prepared to abide by the results of ratification elections contemplated by the 1954 Geneva agreement "whatever these results might be."

Today's informal exchange of views between Goldberg and the group of senators was arranged by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, who expected most of the discussion to center on the role the United Nations might play.

Big Increase Reported in Jobless Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment last month took its biggest jump in a year, the Labor Department reported today, and a spokesman said it indicated a slowdown in the rate of the nation's economic growth.

But, as Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said, "There is every reason to believe that the overall economic movement is still upward," despite the rise in May from 3.7 to 4 per cent in the jobless rate.

The total number of unemployed rose 140,000 to 2.9 million.

Ross said the biggest part of the increase was among high school and college students putting in bids for summer jobs, although they were still in school in May and not ready to work until June.

"It doesn't prove that they are not going to get work," Ross said.

Neenah Youth Dies in Crash; 18 Killed During Weekend

Sun Prairie Collision

Robert Kutig, Jr., 19, 676 S. Park Ave., Neenah, was one of three persons killed in a head-on collision at 6:56 a.m. today in Sun Prairie, one-half mile east of Bird St. on U.S. 151.

Kutig and a passenger in the car he was driving, Jeffrey W. Harper, 19, Madison, were pronounced dead at the scene by Dane County authorities. Walter F. Foulk, 49, Madison, driver of the second car, was pronounced dead at the Methodist Hospital in Madison.

The Dane County Traffic Department said Kutig was traveling west on U.S. 151 and Foulk was headed east when the accident occurred. Authorities were investigating the accident.

The three early morning fatalities raised the state toll to 353. The toll last year stood at 359.

University Student

Kutig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Kutig, Sr., was born Nov. 4, 1946 in Neenah. He attended Neenah High School, was graduated from St. John Military Academy at Delaford and was a student at the University of Wisconsin.

He was affiliated with the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity and a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Neenah.

Survivors include the parents, one sister, two grandmothers and one great-grandmother.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. John E. Bouquet officiating. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery. Friends may call at the Westgor Funeral Home, Neenah, from 4 p.m. Tuesday until 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Millions View Splashdown On Television as Pair Descends From 3-Day Trip

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 9 astronauts rode their tiny spaceship to a near-perfect safe landing in the Atlantic Ocean today, climaxing a sensational, often-turbulent flight highlighted by Eugene A. Cernan's record space walk.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Cernan made the most accurate landing in the U.S. man-in-space program. They parked Gemini 9 less than two miles from the aiming point and only about three miles from the main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp, and in the view of millions of television watchers.

"On the Money"

"On the money" splashdown came at 10 a.m. EDT after a flight of 3 days, 21 minutes, during which Gemini 9 circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

While thousands of sailors, wearing their Sunday best, cheered, the Wasp maneuvered alongside and retrieved the astronauts and space craft from the sea 50 minutes after splashdown.

Stafford and Cernan acknowledged the cheers with waves and thumbs-up signals. Both appeared relaxed and in excellent physical condition.

Within Sight

Command pilot Stafford, whose cool, on-the-spot decisions played a key role in the mission, steered the space ship to a touchdown within sight of the carrier and on-deck television cameras, which relayed the dramatic picture via the Early Bird satellite to millions of U.S. homes.

On deck, the spacecraft's hatches were re-opened and the smiling astronauts stood up, waved at the sailors and the TV cameras and shook hands with Navy and space agency officials.

They then shook hands with one another and Stafford rubbed his three-day-old beard and laughed.

Star Found By Surveyor

Camera Craft's Exact Location Set by Photographs

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's lunar peeping tom, Surveyor I, its delicate footpads resting firmly on the moon's lumpy surface, has taken a long, long look at a star.

The spacecraft's accurate television eye sought and found Sirius, the brightest star in the sky, providing scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory with a good fix on Surveyor's exact location.

The scientists said pictures of the bright star were received Sunday among 651 new photos of the lunar surface, some showing a range of hills in the distance.

The hills, or small mountains, had been noticed in earlier pictures, but only as small lumps in the distance. Far more detail was obtained, the scientists said, by switching to a narrow-angle, long-range lens.

Sun's Heat

Scientists planned to keep a close eye on Surveyor's reaction today to the sun's heat.

As the moon goes into its period of high moon, the surface temperature where Surveyor is was expected to go as high as 260 degrees Fahrenheit. The camera would not be turned on in this period because, according to one scientist, it might "blow up or melt."

After the period of high moon, the experiments will resume through the morning of June 14, when the lunar day — two weeks in earth time — ends.

After that, the scientists said, Surveyor's usefulness will end. The craft's delicate instruments would be destroyed in the lunar night's temperature of 260 degrees below zero. The night, like the lunar day, is two weeks long.

Dairy Subsidy Need Predicted By Sen. Aiken

ENOSBERG, Vt. (AP) — U.S. Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., says the government soon will be forced to pay the nation's dairy producers a direct subsidy.

"There will be objections, but it is difficult to see any other course of action which will stop or slow up the rapid decline in dairy production and at the same time preserve the consumer market," Aiken said.

He predicted the subsidies would be similar to those paid to the nation's wool producers and cotton growers.

"Prompt action by Congress is necessary if the dairy industry is to stay anywhere near its present level," he told the Franklin County Dairy Festival Saturday.

Court Rules Dr. Sheppard Tried Unfairly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, Ohio physician, did not receive a fair trial in the bludgeoning slaying of his first wife, Marilyn.

Justice Tom C. Clark, announcing the decision, said the court had concluded "that Sheppard did not receive a fair trial consistent with the due process clause of the 14th Amendment."

The court, therefore, Clark said, reversed a 2-1 decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, which found no evidence that Sheppard had been deprived of federal rights.

Clark concluded his opinion by saying the Sheppard case must go back to the U.S. District court in Ohio and that court must order Sheppard retried from custody "unless the state puts him to its charges again within a reasonable time."

Justice Hugo L. Black noted a dissent.

Military Headquarters Belgium Agrees to House NATO Office

BRUSSELS (AP) — Belgium but wants the political council today agreed to house the military headquarters of the North Atlantic Alliance (SHAPE), but the future location of NATO's political council still was in doubt.

According to sources at the opening session of the NATO conference, Belgian foreign minister Pierre Harmel accepted the proposed transfer, but made it clear he was speaking on behalf of the Benelux countries — Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The sources said this was because of the fact that the Belgian government faces certain political problems in its relations with France, and in connection with its own internal political situation.

Military Structure

The foreign ministers of NATO's members met without France this morning to study problems raised by France's withdrawal on July 1 from the alliance's military structure.

Tuesday French foreign minister Maurice Couve de Murville joins the other 14 ministers for the annual NATO spring ministerial meeting.

Canada was reported leading a group of the smaller powers in opposing U.S., British and West German desires to withdraw NATO's political headquarters from Paris along with its military headquarters.

The big NATO powers want to move both headquarters to Brussels. Authoritative sources reported today that the Belgian government is prepared to accept the military headquarters,

Buddhist Militants Continue Defiance Of Viet Nam Junta

Ky Government Troops Arrive In Stronghold Northern City

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — Buddhist militants moved through the city Wednesday morning by temporarily removing Buddhist household altars they had placed in the military regime excluded its streets as a new form of anti-enlarged junta.

Three battalions of government troops arrived outside the northern Buddhist citadel of Hue, but their officers said they were en route to an operation in the day. Tri Quang's underground Communists and ground radio said Monday would make no attempt to seize the city.

A report from Hue said the militant Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang had instructed his troops pitched their tents six miles south of Hue tonight after moving out of Da Nang earlier in the day. Tri Quang's underground Communists and ground radio said Monday would make no attempt to seize the city.

In the war against the Communists, an attack by a company of North Vietnamese regulars on a U.S. artillery camp in the central highlands backfired badly. U.S. Air Force planes and troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division struck back at the 100 or so attackers and killed at least 77, an American spokesman said.

Supply Area

Just northwest of Saigon, elements of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division pounced on a Viet Cong supply area, killed perhaps two dozen Communist guards and captured 155 weapons buried in the swamp in plastic wrappers.

The two actions broke a lull of about a week in the ground fighting in South Viet Nam. Cloudy weather limited the air war against North Viet Nam to 35 multipass missions Monday, but American pilots flew 524 combat sorties in the south and U.S. B52s hit a suspected Viet Cong concentration northwest of Saigon.

73 Dead in Wake Of Hurricane Alma

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Alma, a freakish early season killer with 73 dead in its wake, forced evacuation of two cities today as the 90-mile wind crawled slowly toward the Isle of Pines and the Cuban coast.

Because the forces affecting the movement of the hurricane were in balance, forecasters were unwilling to plot a course beyond the next 24 hours, or to predict whether south Florida will be hit.

The Honduran Weather Service said that Sunday night, before Alma developed into a tropical storm, its torrential rains wiped out the town of San Rafael in western Honduras and left 73 dead in a sea of mud.

Toward Cuba

As the storm thrashed toward western Cuba at five miles an hour, Havana radio said 5,667 inhabitants were evacuated from the port city of Surgidero in Havana Province. Livestock also was moved to higher ground as heavy rain began to fall.

Before reaching Cuba, the hurricane would cross the Isle of Pines, where a big penitentiary is jammed with political prisoners of Fidel Castro's Communist regime.

Residents of Nueva Gerona, biggest town on the Isle of Pines, were being evacuated to safer places. Winds reached gale force there early today.

At 8 a.m. EST, Navy hurricane hunter aircraft located the storm center about 485 miles south-southwest of Miami and about 115 miles from the Isle of Pines.

Moving North

The storm was moving northward, sending gale winds out 275 miles to the north of the center and 175 miles to the south. It was forecast to continue on this course for 24 hours with little change in size or wind power.

The Cuban Weather Bureau declared a state of emergency.

Evans Takes Over American Motors' Top Job

Industrialist Has Record Success With Troubled Firms

C. CAIN, 54, compared with 171,000 in 1965, the comparable period last year. Evans, who has been in the auto business since 1928, said repeatedly that AMC had to overcome an image lag and that they felt too many people as a result of the firm's plan to produce compact cars.

AMC's recent advertising campaign has stressed the sportsman and engine options available but the sales slump has continued.

Cross said in an interview last week that there was no possibility of help from AMC.

Evans told reporters before that meeting that he would consider taking a seat on the firm's board of directors if it were offered to him. Chairman Cross said that there was no possibility of help from AMC.

Evans said at that time that AMC was a healthy corporation and could reverse its auto sales slump and get back into the sales race within eight months if things worked out.

More AMC Shares
He declined to say Monday how much his recently disclosed holdings of 200,000 shares of AMC stock have been increased but said he might buy more stock.

Evans said recently a group of his friends held another 200,000 shares.

Abernethy refused to say whether AMC is operating in the black. The firm passed its last three quarterly dividends and lost approximately $8 million in its last quarter.

Evans said after his elevation to the board chairmanship that no further changes on the board of directors or in management were planned. There was a general belief in the industry, however, that AMC will see some job reshuffling in the days ahead.

The whole purpose of this application to merge with the Rock Island is to give the Union Pacific the facilities east of Omaha and Kansas City to handle its own traffic.

The transportation expert William W. Weyer was on the witness stand Monday for the 12th consecutive day at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on the proposed merger.

Weyer headed a team of transportation consultants who made a three-year study of possible large holding benefits from such a union. The study was introduced by the attorneys for Union Pacific as the basis for trucking its merger proposal.

Opposing Railroads
Counsel for more than a dozen merger of railroads that oppose the Hudson merger. Cross examined Weyer in an effort to show that the study contains errors, particularly about the amount of freight traffic that would be diverted from competing carriers if the merger is carried out without delay.

The study estimated such diversion would total about $20 million. But merger opponents contend the actual total would be at least 10 times that amount during its sixth week.

Weyer summed up his testimony by saying the study was a "three-year study of possible large holding benefits from such a union."

Law Graduate Takes Case to Supreme Court

MADISON (AP)—Thomas A. Plein, 25, of Oshkosh pleaded a case before the State Supreme Court Monday about 24 hours after his graduation from law school.

Plein, who was graduated from Marquette Law School Sunday afternoon, was admitted to practice before the high court Monday morning.

The young lawyer returned in the afternoon to present oral arguments in an appeal involving a property dispute.

Plein, one of 54 Marquette graduates admitted to the bar, remained behind to argue the case while his classmates headed back to Milwaukee for a graduation party.

Buddhists Still Defy Viet Nam Military Rulers

movement to Hue, a general strike disrupted business in Hue 400 miles northeast of Saigon, while members of the Buddhist struggle movement in Da Nang, 50 miles to the south, also placed household altars in the streets and along the road to the strategic U.S. Vietnamese airbase outside the city.

Brief Flurry
A Vietnamese air force plane swept low over Hue and called for the removal of the altars while troops in Da Nang placed altars on the sidewalk after protecting some in the central market place with barbed wire to prevent them from being hit by vehicles.

Some residents later pushed a few altars back into the streets. A brief flurry occurred near the Da Nang market when troops used tear gas to scatter 10 monks and a group of followers attempting to start a demonstration.

Arrest Youths
In Saigon, police quickly throttled a potential demonstration. They arrested some 40 youths who tried to join a funeral procession for a Buddhist nun who burned herself to death last Saturday—one of nine fiery suicides in the last 10 days to protest U.S. support of the military regime.

Militant Buddhists vowed to continue their fight against the Ky government despite the junta's efforts to placate Buddhist criticism by adding 10 civilians to its membership. None of the 10 civilians named to join the 10 generals on the junta represented the Buddhist Institute, although some moderate Buddhists were included. The remainder of the slate was made of veteran politicians, two Roman Catholics and members of the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religious sects.

Seven thousand Buddhists roared their disapproval at an antigovernment rally on the muddy grounds of the Buddhist Institute on the outskirts of Saigon. Monks finally calmed their agitated followers by instructing them to dig in for a long, long fight.

The junta was doubled under an agreement negotiated by the government and a team of Buddhists led by Thich Tam Chau, chairman of the Buddhist Institute and the leading moderate among Buddhist political activists.

The Buddhists seemed likely to direct their supporters in new demonstrations against the regime. They might also call for a boycott of the Sept. 11 election or a Constituent Assembly to give the nation a constitution.

Primaries Today Across United States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

California Republicans choose today between Ronald Reagan, the movie actor, and former Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco as their nominee for governor. In the Democratic primary, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown was favored to defeat Mayor Samuel W. Yorty of Los Angeles.

Meanwhile congressional primaries were held in Mississippi and South Dakota.

Reagan and Christopher wound up long, expensive campaigns Monday, both insisting they could beat off Brown's bid for a third consecutive statehouse term if nominated. Two other candidates in the Republican primary—Warren Dorn, a Los Angeles county supervisor, and William Penn Patrick, a businessman—were not expected to win many votes.

Mississippi's congressional primaries were the first since a recent 300 per cent increase in registration of Negro voters. Sen. James O. Eastland expected to win Democratic re-nomination easily, along with five Democratic incumbents in the U.S. House of Representatives. A feature of the voting was the first-ever state Republican party primary to nominate a candidate for U.S. representative.

gro man being a coward is over.

Meredith said in the statement that he is sure he will be asked what he was thinking when he saw the gunman rise from a gully.

I was thinking that I had not made a mistake not to carry a gun," he said. "I could have knocked (him) off with one shot had I been prepared. My father, who lived in Mississippi, would have been prepared."

Meredith said he had debated about carrying a gun and decided Sunday night to carry a Bible instead.

Willis said Meredith is in a pretty good, if mind jolly and cheerful.

Willis said he did not know Meredith's plans, but Meredith concluded the statement with these words:

"Finally, if all goes well, I shall return and we shall arrive in Jackson."

Meredith Shot, Vows To Complete March

would be assault and battery with intent to murder.

The splash of blood Meredith left on the dusty delta roadside threatened to become the symbolic staging area for bigger marches than his own demonstration.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory vowed to fly in from Chicago and take up the march today at the point where Meredith fell on the sun-baked highway.

CORE March
Floyd B. McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said CORE will continue the march started by Meredith.

I will call upon 1,000 volunteers to join CORE in this march," he said. It will commence from the point where James Meredith fell and end at his announced destination.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, arranged to fly from Atlanta to Memphis to see Meredith.

Dr. King said he and other SCLC leaders, after the hospital visit, would move on into Mississippi to urge Negroes to get out and vote in today's primary.

The shooting, he said, shows that "a reign of terror still exists in the south." Whitney M. Young, Jr., director of the National Urban League, said he was calling an emergency meeting of the leading civil rights organizations in the country to discuss immediate steps that ought to be taken in the wake of the shooting.

Dominican Elections

It has often appeared that something close to chaos or anarchy rather than respect for democratic principles has been developing in many of the less settled nations of the world. In both Africa and Asia governments have been regularly overturned with little concern for lives of either opponents or the innocent. Latin America has had an almost constant history of turmoil and revolt.

And so it is that the elections held in the Dominican Republic last week were in welcome -- and surprising -- contrast.

Altogether more than a half Dominican voted in an election that outside observers from 21 western hemisphere countries said was generally fair and honest. Dr. Joaquin Balaguer collected well over 700,000 votes to some 500,000 for his closest rival, Dr. Juan Bosch. Dr. Balaguer was particularly successful in rural areas of the island republic but his strength in the cities apparently unexpected, gave him the election.

All had not been peace and quiet before the election nor is it expected that it will remain so afterwards. Both Dr. Bosch and Dr. Balaguer at one time announced they would withdraw from the race because of alleged pressures upon voters. There are still 30,000 outside troops in the Dominican and Dr. Balaguer has indicated that they must stay for some time to help keep order. Dr. Bosch has charged fraud and irregularities in the election and so far has not acknowledged Dr. Balaguer's victory although he has told his followers to stay calm something for which the Dominicans generally are not noted. But even Norman Thomas, one of the American observers of the election has said there has been no evidence of widespread fraud.

Dr. Balaguer apparently appealed to the majority of voters because he held out the greatest hope for some sort of stability in the nation. Dr. Bosch had his turn as president but his election was not as widespread as the recent one. He was turned out by a military coup and although the charges that he was a Communist or at least encouraged the assistance of Communists have not been documented, Dr. Bosch certainly was a poor administrator. Even Dr. Balaguer's part in the government of the late strong man Trujillo did not seem to affect adversely the enthusiasm of his followers.

Americans often fail to realize that traditions and temperaments in other countries differ considerably from our own. There probably were some pressures in the Dominican elections that would not exist in the United States (although we have our own history of voting irregularities). The important thing at this moment is that the elections were held, there was no bloodshed and it appears that they generally will be accepted.

The future will not be easy for Dr. Balaguer's government. Whatever the influence of Communists, either home grown or from Cuba, there will be opposition to the new government. There are foreign troops who invariably cause incidents and there certainly are opportunities for both the far right and far left to exploit any unrest or mistakes.

But as of today, the Dominican Republic has taken a giant step toward order and real democracy.

Who's Running Indonesia?

Student leaders in Indonesia have demanded that someone in authority in Jakarta decide who actually is running the government and let them know. The confusion over the extent of Sukarno's influence now is all tied up with foreign affairs.

The Foreign Minister of Thailand, Thanat Khoman, has suggested a four stage plan for ending the confrontation of Indonesia and Malaysia which Sukarno proclaimed a couple of years ago. The plan would involve the disengagement of forces on the frontier in Borneo, no more verbal clashes, preparatory talks and eventually formal negotiations at the ministerial level. This latter stage would presumably include the Indonesia Foreign Minister, Adam Malik, and Malik is willing. But he says Sukarno has forbidden him to leave the country.

Malik has made it quite clear that he thinks the time for a war with Malaysia is over if there were ever any reason for it. 'The confrontation of the people's stomachs is more important than any other confrontation. Indonesia is in a bad way economically and Malik is blaming the effort of Sukarno to crush Malaysia as a principle reason.

Actually this is not wholly true although Sukarno's buildup of military forces certainly contributed to the runaway inflation when it was combined with his vague and unrealistic economic policies in other areas. Ironically it was the army which he made so strong which has apparently taken over the country. At least it has reportedly killed off hundreds of thousands of Communists and their friends whom Sukarno was encouraging.

Malik has announced that direct contact has been made between the Indonesia and Malaysian governments and that talks probably will begin in Bangkok. But now it isn't quite clear whether his complaints about Sukarno are aimed at getting Malik to Bangkok or Sukarno completely out of office. If Sukarno's influence is fading as reports indicate, he shouldn't have much to say about the journey of his foreign minister. It just may be that Malik himself is looking ahead to future authority with a personal role.

Compulsory Treatment for Drug Addicts

The usually discouraging statistics on narcotic addicts' rehabilitation seem to be heading toward some revision in California. After five years of application of a compulsory treatment program for addicts, one out of five of the treated addicts has stayed off the drugs for at least two years.

Actually it is too soon to determine whether the former addicts are able or willing to stay away from drugs permanently. Also even the California statistics show that some 80 per cent of those treated go back to drugs. However, most other areas have shown about a 98 per cent fall back, especially when addicts return to their old neighborhoods.

The California law provides that when a crime is committed by an addict, the sentencing is suspended and the addict is sent to the rehabilitation center. Addicts may also be committed to the center after a Superior Court hearing initiated by relative or friends of an addict or upon the finding that addiction exists after orders for an examination by a police or health officer. A similar law will go into effect next month in New York where the overwhelming number of narcotics addicts live.

There has been reasonable concern that such strict laws governing compulsory treatment could be used to railroad innocent people into institutions for treatment. However, the matter of due process seems to have been covered. In both California and New York, the accused have counsel and may demand a jury trial.

Treatment averages fifteen months but is followed by close supervision in the out-patient program including clinical tests five times a month during the first six months of release. If a former addict stays off the drugs for three years, he is released from the program.

Although narcotics addiction is not physically contagious, it has some elements of a communicable disease. Addicts often seem compulsively motivated to encourage the use of drugs by others. In part this is to sell narcotics themselves and thus to finance the habit, but it also seems to be because of a defensive attitude and to justify one's own addiction. While the United States has not completely tried a policy of making narcotics available at a minimum cost to addicts and thus do away with the black market and the need to commit crimes to get funds to buy highly priced drugs, there is evidence in other countries that this does not completely solve the problem. The number of addicts in Great Britain, which does have such a policy, has grown in recent years. And while the typical addict may be an insecure, withdrawn, ineffective person and not at all like the popular, held conception of the ravaging drug fiend, the trend toward experimentation with drugs like the turning to alcohol by young people is disturbing.

The real problem is to prevent addiction rather than to try to cure it. But removing addicts from society by compulsory treatment may help to prevent the spread of the habit.

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 9, 1866

Mr. Editor, Crescent -- We did not speak in meeting as that is not the custom of the present age -- but we are allowed to think and with pen and language disseminate our thoughts.

As regards Temperance, woman is the greatest sufferer, all men admit. Now with all the talking that has passed there seems to be a scarcity of real temperance men. Call a man a temperance man that will vote for or even sanction "abstinent license." This is not temperance!

I take the ground boldly and firmly that a man that will vote for license is not even a Christian, it is impossible. Can you stand before your Maker and say, "I intend to do unto others as I would they should do by me," and say to that man now for so much money you may go and kill such a man's wife?

You may let that man kill his child, you may send that mother's only hope reeling to perdition, the last prop of her old age, and if you do not kill them with an axe or a club, you can crush their hearts, write upon the tender hearts, impressive minds of those children with a burning iron so deep that a long life cannot obliterate the mark of a drunkard's child.

We give you the power to do this, and much more, for thirty pieces of silver.

President Adopts Air of Calm, Quiet Confidence, but Can It be Justified?

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON -- In all of the President's recent actions -- in his weekend trip to Texas, his press conference, his widely publicized Cabinet meeting, there is evident a deliberate, almost aggressive effort to foster an atmosphere of calm, quiet confidence. But is normally the right mood at this juncture?

A plausible case can be made for the argument that it is. On the domestic side, employment is up and unemployment down. Profits are high, tax receipts are very strong and inflationary pressures are certainly less severe in this country than in most of the rest of the world. Despite uncertainty in the auto field and sure indication of heavy pressure for big wage increases next year, the economy is manifestly sound.

Economic well-being, a usual find of expression in an easing of social tensions. It is no accident that the Watts riots took place in Los Angeles where total unemployment is about 45 per cent, not in Chicago or Detroit where it is about 25 per cent.

The civil rights congress which met here last week showed just how much the heat had gone out of the mounting and passionate issue in the country. The conference avoided such tense issues as Viet Nam and discrimination in general and concentrated on such practical matters as housing, education, jobs. The report to the conference read like a civil service manual.

NEGATIVE ROLES
The picture abroad of course is far less reassuring. Yet it is by no means clear that even the most severe difficulties can be resolved by more American action. On the contrary, the indication is that a little less fretting and fiving by this country would probably be useful.

A very nice case, in point is the NATO crisis. The critical requirement there is the emergence of a European entity that can serve to contain a united Germany and thus create the right conditions for slow dissolving of the Eastern bloc and a progressive détente in relations between

Debt Amendment to Constitution May Go To Voters Next Year

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON -- Sometimes the decisions of the legislature cause the professional state-house gallery watcher to rub his eyes. An example was the swift and almost routine approval the other day in the nominally conservative state senate of an amendment in ended to wipe out the century-old constitutional prohibition against state debt and to acknowledge the fact that the state has been borrowing on long-term bonds for a long time without literal sanction of constitutional law.

Perhaps there is no more important example in current Wisconsin politics of the maturing character of state political opinion and the willingness of the legislature to accommodate itself to changing tastes, conditions and requirements.

Sometimes it must be admitted the long-time legislature watcher tends to assume that issues often ignored and propositions repeatedly defeated represent immutable rules about politics and human nature. There is a tendency to minimize the familiar and to react skeptically to such evidence of changing viewpoints that is available. This may be the case in this reporter's reaction to the overwhelming approval by the lawmakers of the debt amendment after a couple of decades of what seemed to be fruitless discussion of the topic.

CHALLENGE DRAWN

Notwithstanding the challenge has now been drawn and the issue is in effect presented to the people for their approval. The constitution requires that two successive legislatures endorse a proposed constitutional change in precisely the same terms. The purpose was to put the amendment question in effect to the test of popular support in an intervening election. Thus the issue will be involved theoretically at least in the selection of senators and assemblymen next fall.

More important and perhaps more difficult will be the referendum on the issue about 10 months hence if it is assumed that the 1967 legislature when it convenes will approve the proposition again. Sometimes legislatures change their minds and especially if there is evidence of popular reserve on such a question in the interim legislative elections. Yet it must be supposed that the heavy vote of approval among the lawmakers this year shows their confidence in the merits of the issue, that it will be approved again in the 1967 legislative session and thereupon submitted to the final test -- the vote of the people on a separate ballot next April.

The outlook? It cannot be forecast with any degree of certainty. Indeed there will probably be difficulties, and the issue may be resolved according to the fullness of public understanding of the questions involved.

The heart of the matter is that the debt question as such is academic. Wisconsin will have a debt, whether it is sanctioned directly in the constitution or not. Thus the normally careful voter in his polling booth won't be able to choose adequately unless he knows that it is a question of method that faces him.

CAN BE SOLD

The careful skeptic in fact may well be persuaded after he examines all the facts that the constitutional debt amendment as written will provide him more assurance of careful borrowing practices than he has today under the informal "dummy" corporation method. Under the amendment as written his legislative representatives would have a direct responsibility to vote on bond issues. They would be limited in number and in size. They would be tied to the wealth base of the state rather than to the alternating judgement of men who happen to hold office. They would be expressly funded rather than casually assessed without direct public knowledge against the budget and the future taxpayers.

A necessary and prudent reform will be achieved next year if the issue is clearly presented and adequately understood. But such effective communication and sufficient public understanding won't be assured without the good faith collaboration of the responsible politician and the public information media.

This optimistic appraisal has solid foundation. In a conversation with us six days before the election, the now defeated presidential candidate of the Left, Juan Bosch, stated unequivocally that he would support Balaguer if Balaguer won the election.

But he added somewhat ominously that his personal support for Balaguer did not mean that his party, the left of center Dominican Revolutionary Party (PRD), would also accept the election results. What Bosch seemed to be predicting was

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, June 7, the 158th day of 1966. There are 207 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1939, King George, the sixth and Queen Elizabeth arrived in the United States—the first reigning British monarchs to ever visit the United States. They were greeted by Secretary of State Cordell Hull at Niagara Falls.

On this date:

In 1942, the Battle of Midway in the Pacific ended in a U.S. victory.

In 1943, French Generals de Gaulle and Feraud formed a Cabinet for the French Committee of National Liberation from the Nazis.

In 1944, bitter fighting raged on the beachheads of Normandy.

In 1945, the Marines on Okinawa made new gains by taking a peninsula in the southwestern part of the island from the Japanese.

In 1946, the Army revealed the arrests of an Army officer, Col. Jack Durant, and his wife, WAC Captain Kathleen Durant, on charges of stealing one and a half million dollars in jewels from the home of the Prince of Hesse near Frankfurt, Germany.

Ten years ago — A series of rockfalls sent two-thirds of a huge power plant tumbling into Niagara River gorge, one-half mile below Niagara Falls. One power company employee was killed and damage ran into the millions of dollars.

Five years ago — A four-nation investigative commission of the Organization of American States arrived in the Dominican Republic to inquire into charges of dictatorship and oppression by the government in the wake of the assassination of Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo.

One year ago — The historic four-day space mission of German astronaut James McDivitt and Edward White ended with a successful splashdown in the Atlantic Ocean.

eliminating the state sales tax. Right now, we're the third highest tax state in the country."

Lucy said the urgency of the statewide Democratic objective "to recapture the governor's office" is underscored by the fact that at least four capable men seek our party's nomination.

"An open primary may invigorate our party and improve our election prospects," he said. "or it may divide our forces, deplete our resources and damage the electability of party's nominee."

"Whether the effect of the primary is constructive or destructive," Lucy said, "depends upon the conduct of the candidates and their supporters. If all concerned conduct themselves with dignity and restraint, if differences on policy matters are stated accurately and with respect for divergent opinions, if candidates who disagree will do so without being disagreeable, the party on the morning of Sept. 14 will stand on the threshold of victory."

Ground Rules
He called for establishment of "mutually acceptable ground rules for the period from now until the primary."

The unity committee, Lucy said, "is necessary because Wisconsin's primary is one of the latest in the country. There are just eight weeks between the primary and the general election. Without long-range planning now, it will be impossible for the party to develop an effective campaign for the home stretch. The party chairman and his staff cannot without risk of criticism confer even informally with any of the candidates about post-primary campaign plans."

He said the committee should include party chairman J. Louis Hansen, treasurer Keith Yellenick and one member to be selected by each candidate for governor. Under Lucy's proposal, it would be a forum for discussion between the candidates and their supporters.

"The state convention," Carly said, "will hear viewpoints on everything from international involvement in Viet Nam to the matter of 65-foot truck trailers on Wisconsin highways. This is as it should be."

He urged Democrats to write a "significant" state platform to "contrast" the Republican document "which was full of vague generalities."

Other state Democratic figures who spoke Sunday were national committeewoman Mrs. Abe Swed, state vice chairman Mrs. Shirley Cherkasky of Appleton, and state Young Democrats chairman Peter Peshek of Manitowoc.

if any—in policing the selection of a constitutional assembly in South Viet Nam.

This month's Security Council president, Frank H. Corner of New Zealand, has been canvassing council members after Secretary General U Thant made it known he does not believe he has authority to send observers.

Special Session
If council action is blocked, as appears likely, the United States may try to gain as special session of the General Assembly to put the matter before it.

The assembly is not scheduled to meet in regular session until September, the same month in which the elections tentatively have been set by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has suggested reconvening the Geneva conference to take up the question of election observers. But he received no reply.

Great Britain, France and Russia are co-chairmen of the 1954 conference which divided Viet Nam and ordered subsequent reunification elections which were never held.

Nevada Residents To Vote on Lottery

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Nevada voters will decide whether to start the state's first official lottery next November, says Secretary of State John Koontz.

A firm, Silver State Sweepstakes, filed a petition containing more than twice the 13,738 signatures required to place a proposition on the ballot, Koontz said.

Silver State Sweepstakes hopes to acquire an exclusive 10-year franchise on the lottery.

Gemini 9 Astronauts Safe After Splashdown Junta Drafts List of Civilians To Aid Ruling

Large Banner
A large banner on the deck read: "Welcome Stafford (again) and Cernan."

The Wasp also retrieved Stafford and Walter M. Schirra Jr. after the Gemini 6 flight in December.

Capt. Gordon E. Hartley, the Wasp's commanding officer, said he put the ship a little short of target just in case Stafford carried out his threat to fly "right down the smoke stack."

Stafford, making his second flight into space in six months, was aided in the textbook landing by Cernan, who used the spacecraft computer to help calculate the maneuvers as Gemini 9 sped back through the atmosphere.

Wind Assist

He had an assist from an easterly wind that helped blow the craft back toward the carrier.

A helicopter was overhead within seconds and Navy frogmen leaped into the water to attach a flotation collar to the bobbing craft.

The divers reported Stafford and Cernan gave the "thumbs up" signal through their spacecraft window as it bobbed in the four- to five-foot waves.

They appeared in excellent condition, the divers reported. The astronauts elected to stay in the spacecraft until the Wasp came alongside.

The spacecraft hatch was opened nine minutes after touchdown and Stafford and Cernan stood up. Stafford shook hands with the swimmers.

It was a successful and dramatic end to a flight which had its ups and downs, with one problem after another plaguing the mission before and after the launching.

45 Orbits

During 72 hours and 21 minutes in orbit, Cernan and Stafford circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

Their fiery return to earth started 160 miles above the Pacific Ocean near the international dateline when the craft's four retro-rockets fired with a jolt at 9:26 a.m. EDT.

The braking action slowed Gemini 9's 17,460-mile-an-hour speed by 300 miles and the craft, caught in the grip of earth's gravity, began the meteoric plunge back through the heat barrier of the earth's atmosphere.

Mission Control Center reported after the landing that the communications through the 34-minute re-entry period were better than on any of 12 previous U.S. man-in-space flights.

Contact Lost

Only during a four-minute period when 3,000-degree heat shrouded the spacecraft in an ionization curtain was contact lost with the pilots.

"Have you got us in sight?" Stafford asked as Gemini 9 drifted down on its 64-foot chute. The aircraft carrier Wasp advised that it did and added: "The whole world has you in sight."

The sailors of the Wasp crowded the deck as the big carrier turned to approach the spacecraft in the water and haul it aboard. They were cheering the astronauts riding in the mild seas.

Over-all allied losses were light but there were heavier casualties in the early stages, a U.S. spokesman said.

A Communist ambush wiped out a six-man U.S. Air Force survey team in a truck about 15 miles south of the 17th Parallel frontier with North Viet Nam. There was no trace of the attackers, who staged the ambush in an area where political turmoil has diverted Vietnamese troops from action against the Communists.

Jungle Factory

Vietnamese troops destroyed a Viet Cong jungle ammunition factory in the Mekong Delta's Phong Dinh Province after four skirmishes with the guerrillas in Cai Rang district 60 miles southwest of Saigon. A government spokesman said 10 Viet Cong were killed.

The Buddhist Institute's initial negative reaction to the reported civilian nominees to the junta underlined that the political crisis which began in mid-March was far from over.

er Sunday in a Chippewa County accident.

The collision on Highway 53 north of Chippewa Falls took the lives of David M. Setzer, 19, of Eau Claire, and Duane Mitchell, 18, of Chippewa Falls.

Both were riding in separate cars.

Three other youths, including both drivers, were injured.

Harry Schreiber, 67, of rural Shawano was killed early Sunday when struck by a car on Highway 29 in the village of Thornton, authorities said.

They said the driver of the death car did not stop. Schreiber was dragged about 200 feet.

In Milwaukee County Sunday, Robert Haudinger, 18, of West Allis was killed when his sports car failed to make a sharp curve on a freeway entrance ramp and went out of control.

Sheriff's deputies said the car slammed into a utility pole after rolling over several times.

Richard J. Alholm, 24, of Kenosha was dead on arrival at a hospital Sunday night after a two-car accident at the intersection of County Truck K and Highway 192, Kenosha County authorities said.

Three others were injured in the accident.

Eight persons were killed in the first half of the weekend, five of them in a single crash.

Worst Ever

The five-fatality accident was described by authorities as the worst ever in Winnebago County.

The victims died in a two-car head-on collision on a straight stretch of U.S. 45 about six miles north of Oshkosh. Four other persons were injured.

One of those killed was Anthony W. Ehm, 22, Greenville, who had been graduated earlier in the day from Oshkosh State University.

He was returning home with his family after attending the commencement exercises of a relative that night at Hortonville High School.

Also killed were Ehm's aunt, Mrs. Sarah G. Ehm, 57, Oshkosh; DiAnn L. Qyzlic, 20, Lake Tomahawk, another passenger in the car he was driving; Orlando Raatz, 22, of rural Fremont, the other driver, and his passenger James Estabrooks, 18, Oshkosh.

Another young person, Alta Mae Culver, 16, of Alvin, died Saturday night in a two-car crash in Alvin, near the Wisconsin-Michigan line, 32 miles north of Crandon.

A Wausau motorist, Wilfred Aspinwall, 65, died Saturday evening in the collision of his car and a tank truck on Highway 151 one mile north of Belmont in Southwestern Wisconsin. The truck driver, Paul Foley, 52, Belmont, was seriously injured.

Larry E. Dahl, 19, of rural Arcadia, was injured fatally Saturday night when his car struck a utility pole after jumping a curb on Highway 95 east of Arcadia in Trempealeau County, authorities said.

Robert Jagger, 48, of Fox Point was injured fatally Sunday night in a collision at Glendale. Both communities are Milwaukee suburbs.

Students Seek Aid To Attend College

State Provides Funds for Those Attending Private Institutions

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The school year help more students to attend college. Another purpose is to help alleviate pressing enrollment problems at state-supported universities. And it will help many smaller, quality colleges to meet required enrollment levels in this age of mushrooming educational costs.

That new office, created by the 1965 Legislature, is fast becoming the college student's best friend.

And one of the friendliest of its services for the next school year will be distributing more than $2 million of state funds to freshmen and sophomore students at 22 private colleges and universities throughout Wisconsin who meet certain minimal academic and need qualifications.

During the past school year the commission granted about $300,000 under that program.

The program, which was allocated funds to cover applications totaling up to $24 million for the 1965-67 biennium, allows tuition grants to students at private colleges in the state providing that the students have proven college performance at the C grade level or higher and come from families whose gross income after dependent deductions is less than $10,000.

Aid Available
Up to $500 in two semesters can be given to any successful applicant — and that includes most of them — in their freshman and sophomore years.

A class a year will be added to the program until two years from now and the staff still has not had sufficient experience to determine exactly how long they can receive applications and process them in time to make the grants.

For an entering freshman this coming fall the program means that he may be awarded a grant to aid in covering the cost of his first semester's work if he earns a C average or above.

Grants for such students will be awarded at the end of the semester after the grades are in. The check will be mailed to the private college or university the student attends along with a grant for the second semester's work if it has been applied for.

Expected to Continue
Now one year old the program for the first time will cover sophomores as well. Many of the students aided under the program last year are expected to continue in its ranks — at no cost to them.

Purpose of the program is to help more students to attend college. Another purpose is to help alleviate pressing enrollment problems at state-supported universities. And it will help many smaller, quality colleges to meet required enrollment levels in this age of mushrooming educational costs.

Knowles Plans Trip Down Wolf River

Gov. Warren P. Knowles and members of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission will attain firsthand information on the scenic Upper Wolf River Friday during a rubber raft trip.

The raft trip will cover about two miles of the Wolf river beginning at a point just below Hollister. The raft trip on the Wolf River, which will take about two hours, is part of an all-day inspection tour of the Upper Wolf.

The governor and members of the conservation commission plan to view those portions of the Wolf River which are being considered for acquisition by the state as a means of preserving this segment of the Wolf River.

Old City Agreement

Packard Street Ravine Debris Clean Up Asked

The battle of the debris cluttered Packard Street ravine a thorn in the city's side for years — has been revived by Aid Al Storgbauer (4th) and a group of property owners.

Years ago the city entered into an agreement to fill in the ravine and residents now claim part of the arrangement was to level off and put on top soil.

Storgbauer recently submitted a resolution in the Appleton council to have the city grade clean the area and cover it with topsoil at no expense to the property owners.

Recommend Denial
However, the council's street sanitation committee recommended denial of the request contending the city was being asked to do the work on private property — a precedent setting move which might create further headaches.

Storgbauer claimed the area between Packard and Frank streets used as a disposal of city rubbish was left in a deplorable and unsightly condition with large rocks and other debris.

Storgbauer claimed the condition of the ravine was an eyesore to the public and meant had requested $15 million for the program.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

DO PARENTS EXPECT TO BE SUPPORTED BY THEIR GROWN CHILDREN? YES ☐ NO ☐

No. Numerous studies show that few parents want to be dependent upon their grown children. They would rather not live with their married children's families. What they do expect from their adult children is continuing affection, attention and respect. It is the sense of being accepted for what one is, and respected as a person that older persons mention as more important than anything else in their relationships with their grown children. The only thing we add are occasional letters visits home and phone calls.

Can people be influenced by logical arguments? Yes — No — Yes provided you use their logic rather than yours. People who have no scientific understanding of human behavior are not likely to be swayed by appeals to research. People who lack moral and spiritual values will not likely respond to a logical or even emotional appeal on such bases. But when you can know how other people think, and what they really care about, you are in a position to influence them, sometimes profoundly.

I am self-employed and must do considerable entertaining in expensive restaurants. To keep things straight with Uncle Sugar I use credit cards almost exclusively. If the Internal Revenue boys want to take a second or third look at my expenses, it's all right there — neatly recorded. I also add the tip to the tab rather than customer lays the cash down by laying out cold hard cash the plate or presses it into their they ever got it so far as the tax man is concerned. In other words they resent the loss of an opportunity to steal. I'd like your comments on this — The Bazz

Dear Bazz: The chiseler will always be with us. But it's getting tougher all the time to pull tax shonnikers. How dumb do you think the IRS boys are? They check the fancy places regularly and they have a fairly good idea of what a waiter or waitress should average in the way of tips. If the waiter is too far out of line when he files he gets questioned and has to come up with what Uncle Sugar thinks he ought to pay. I'm not saying nobody gets away with anything, but more people are getting away with less all the time — and it's about time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have been married 26 years and my husband has never given me any reason to distrust him. About three weeks ago I found orange lipstick on his handkerchief. I do not wear that shade. It baffled me, but I put it out of my mind after a few minutes.

This morning I noticed lipstick (orange again) on his white shirt — just below the collar. He is at home for dinner every evening promptly at six o'clock. He never goes anywhere without me. So when does he find time for the orange lipstick? Lunch hour? On his way to work? On his way home? I cannot figure it out. I've said nothing to him and don't know if I should. Right now I feel insecure and confused. Please advise me in your column. I read it faithfully and I have confidence in you — Ashamed To Sign Initials

Dear Ashamed: By all means speak to your husband. It would be unfair not to. His record is too good.

Perhaps someone gave him an innocent kiss on the cheek and he wiped it off with his handkerchief. The shirt imprint could have occurred when a gal humped into him in an elevator.

Most cheating husbands are too clever to bring lipstick hankies home. My guess is that he is all yours.

Do you feel all at ease — out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Hospital Volunteers Honored

Volunteer service to Outagamie County Hospital was recognized at a tea Wednesday afternoon in the hospital's occupational therapy room. Patients who are members of various cooking groups prepared refreshments — sandwiches, nut breads and desserts — and served them. All the workers were given leather key cases inscribed with the words "Outagamie County Hospital Volunteers" inside.

The hospital superintendent, John Engle, and members of the board of trustees greeted guests.

Nine Groups

Organizations whose members were recognized for their work are the American Red Cross, members of the Church of Christ, the Appleton Junior Woman's Club, the Outagamie County Mental Health Association, the Jayettes, volunteers from St. Pius Church, members of the ministerial association, student volunteers from Appleton High School, and women from the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

Pins were presented to members of the Red Cross who have reached the 250-hour, 500-hour and 1,000-hour marks of volunteer service. The four women receiving pins for the top amount of service are Mrs. Michael Fose, Mrs. Raymond LeVee, Mrs. Clifford Williams and Mrs. Leigh Wolfe.

Lining Up for punch at the volunteer recognition tea Wednesday at Outagamie County Hospital, above, are Mrs. Alfred Ducommun, Neenah; Mrs. Clifford Williams, Appleton; Mrs. Frank Lehman, Appleton, and Mrs. Kathryn Perry, Appleton. John Engle, hospital superintendent, presents awards, at right, to Mrs. Richard national therapist; Mrs. Henry Grosek, of the C.C.D.; Miss Sally Klap-pleton High School, and Mrs. Ted O'Keefe, from the Red Cross. ## Simple or Sumptuous: Sarmi Shows Best of Both

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON NEW YORK (AP) — There are two ways to look like a million next season. Be as jewel-encrusted and fur-enveloped as a ruling czar, or settle for simplicity in line and pure beauty of fabric. Either way it will cost plenty, especially if you pick your wardrobe from the opulent and nonopulent collection introduced by Count Sarmi Monday.

But you would think he was giving those spectacular clothes again, a slick leopard coat but away, the way socialites toned over a matching leopard jammed into the little show-dress, and a tiny tie belt closed

Coeds to Follow Huckleberry Finn

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Sixteen girls from Hollins College at Roanoke, Va., will follow in the footsteps, more or less, of Huckleberry Finn. They plan to leave Thursday sleep on it, tying up at night on a voyage of more than 900 miles by rail down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans.

The girls, some of them recent graduates, and Cooper will make the journey on a 40 by-16-foot wooden raft built on 52 oil room to choose from floor-length white ermines, gem-studded gowns or just little black nothing dresses.

Fur overblouses or sable collars and cuffs on jackets worn over matching skimmers set a luxurious pace for daytime living. In contrast were slithery little wool jerseys with colored insets and wide collars but not a hair of fur anywhere.

Matching Fur

Swiftly, opulence switched on giving those spectacular clothes again, a slick leopard coat but away, the way socialites toned over a matching leopard jammed into the little show-dress, and a tiny tie belt closed a champagne broadtail coatdipped in silver and with plastic discs added; or coat and ball-mink at the neck and wrists.

Oil went the switch to darkness and simplicity. Models emerged in black cocktail dresses bare at the shoulders.

On their heads were all the fun — a cascade of ebony cockleathers; or huge pompons attached to tiny beanies by satin cords; or a satin saucer so wide it just managed to make it through double doors.

From then on were faille or satin gowns with tiny bosoms and skirts that widened gracefully to the floor, or yards and yards of fluttering chiffon gathered to ribbons wide enough to be the bodice, or narrow ones that uplifted or flattened the chest, depending on their placement.

On the side of lavishness were chenille leers sparkling with silver sequins; ribbon lace

C. E. Wussow Takes Papers For Assembly

Appleton Supervisor Seeks GOP Nod Over Froehlich

Charles E. Wussow, 44, 1532 W. Franklin St., Outagamie County Board member since April, Monday afternoon took out nomination papers for Outagamie County's First Assembly District.

Harold V. Froehlich incumbent assemblyman, took out papers for the district last month. Both Froehlich and Wussow will seek the post on the Republican ticket.

Wussow, a free lance writer, is making his first bid for an assembly post. He survived a field of four candidates in the primary election for the county board and in the November election defeated Robert Schmieder in the Sixth Supervisory District.

Kenosha Native
The Kenosha native is secretary of the county board's law enforcement committee.

He received a bachelor of arts degree in 1943 from Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., and in 1949 received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from the University of Wisconsin.

He graduated from a Moline, Ill., high school. Wussow, who is single, took part in the Invasion of Normandy while in the Navy during World War II. He now is a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve.

Wussow was in partnership with his father for several years in the operation of a farm near Seymour. He has lived in Outagamie County about 25 years.

Various Posts

His jobs have included that of farm editor for the Shawano Evening Leader, announcer and salesman for radio station WITC in Clintonville, advertising salesman for station WOKY in Milwaukee, fireman for the Chicago and North Western Railway Co., sales engineer for Kaukauna Machine Corp. (now Giddings and Lewis) and brakeman for the now-defunct North Shore Railroad, a commuter line between Milwaukee and Chicago.

Fire Causes $500 Damage to Paper At Thilmany Mill

KAUKAUNA — Fire of undetermined origin caused an estimated $500 damage at the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. about 4:50 p.m. Monday.

Approximately 2 tons of paper were damaged by water and 12 rolls of paper were charred by the fire, according to a company spokesman.

Most of the water damage resulted from the automatic sprinkler system, set off by the fire. The fire was in the warehouse of the asphalt department of the upper mill and city firemen spent approximately 30 minutes at the scene.

State Fire Marshal Earl Schabe, Green Bay, is investigating the fire today along with William Haupt, Kaukauna fire chief, and mill personnel.

Commission Okays 5 Police Promotions

2 Fill Vacancies in Detective Bureau; 3 Named Cruiser Drivers

Five promotions, including the resignation late last week of two detective appointments, were confirmed Monday night by the Appleton Fire and Police Commission.

Named to fill long-standing vacancies in the detective bureau were George (Bill) Weaver, 33, a policeman for eight years, and Ronald J. Soper, 30, a nine and a half year police veteran. Their promotions are effective June 18, according to Police Chief Earl O. Wolff.

Promoted from patrolman to cruiser drivers, also effective June 18, were Carl W. Dittmar, 27, 1347 W. Second St., a policeman since September, 1960; Leo J. Bosch, 32, 1822 S. Walden Ave., who started on the department with Dittmar; and William C. Steward, 825 E. J St., who joined the department in April, 1963.

Saved Boy's Life

Their appointments fill vacancies created by the advancement of Weaver and Soper and Robert Beyer. Weaver, a native of Pelican Lake in Oneida County, was appointed to the police force June 7, 1958 and was promoted to squad car driver in 1963.

A graduate of Elcho High School, he was in the Air Force from February 1953 to May 1957 and during that time saw two years duty in Germany.

In November 1962, Weaver was awarded the certificate of merit of the American Red Cross for saving the life of a six-year-old boy who a doctor said could have bled to death after he severed a neck artery when he ran into a glass door. At the time, Weaver was only the 62nd Wisconsin resident to receive the certificate of merit award since it was established in 1913.

Great Lakes Seaman
Weaver, his wife, Shirley, and three children live at 1124 S. Walden Ave.

Soper, who began his police career Nov. 1, 1956, previously worked for the Riess Steamship Co., Cleveland, Ohio, as a Great Lakes seaman.

He is a native of Bayfield, where he attended high school. Soper has worked in the traffic bureau of the police department.

He and his wife, Joyce, live at 1120 1/2 W. Loran St.

Weaver and Soper will be the seventh and eighth members of the detective bureau.

Police Blame Newsmen For 'Outlaws' Trouble

Ozaukee County, Cedarburg Officials Claim Near Riot by Motorcyclists Fault of Press

BY TIM WYNGAARD Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The near riot of a motorcycle gang which followed the cancellation of motorcycle and stock car races in Cedarburg during the Memorial Day weekend was the result of sensation-seeking journalists and not police action, two local police officials said today.

A special conference in the Statehouse Executive Office, called by Gov. Warren P. Knowles to discuss means of meeting such threats in the future, heard Ozaukee County Edenberger said that the stories, which recounted the criminal records of the groups, portrayed the Outlaws as "heroes" in readers' minds.

The police officials said that the approximately 125 motorcyclists drew crowds of up to 300 people wherever they traveled. Firmer action could not be taken to stop disturbances because of the threat of riots in which bystanders might have been injured, they said.

Radio accounts of the travels of the gang aided spectators in following the action, the police said.

Crimes "Never Reported"
They said that the alleged crimes never were reported to them or that those that were could not be substantiated by evidence.

Arleratt Paper Box Co., Los Angeles, submitted a series of classroom teaching aids called "Learning Through Seeing" and won a first place award in the miscellaneous box category.

Thilmany cover papers were used in the inner containers of this teaching device.

An excellence award was granted in the personal accessories box classification to Phillip Morris, using a Thilmany paper for covering their rigid box of Benson & Hedges cigarettes.

club told project temporary solution; lake Michigan goal

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It's a matter of economics — not politics — that Appleton is going to Lake Winnebago as an interim solution to a thorny water problem.

The observation, supported by research and statistical data, was made Monday by Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), Appleton Council president, in a talk before the Appleton Noon Optimist Club.

Pointer conveyed optimism to the service club members that the city was embarking on capital improvement projects which have been well planned and can be afforded by the community.

"There have been many technical problems with regard to the search for a new water supply," Pointer said, "and they have been handled by the professionals."

Clarifies Ultimate Goal

Pointer made it clear a pipeline to Lake Michigan was the city's ultimate goal but for

New Outagamie Equalized Values Expected in July

First Reassessment Since 1958 Indicates Large Value Increase

New equalized values for Outagamie County municipalities should be completed within another month according to Donald G. Sherman, supervisor of assessment, Fond du Lac district of the State Tax Department.

The adjusted equalized values will be ready for recommendation to the Outagamie County Board by September, Sherman said. "We are meeting with each town, village and city government prior to that time to show them the results of our mass real estate appraisal," said Sherman. The totals will then be presented to the board.

The studies began last fall with 14 men assigned to Outagamie County. There are presently eight representatives completing the appraisal.

First since 1958

Sherman said this is the first study since 1958. He indicated that property values have increased considerably since that time. Kaukauna has shown an increase in equalized value of approximately 6 per cent over last year's base.

Many municipalities in the county are not completely appraised, Sherman said the figures have to be checked before they can be released.

Areas still under study are Appleton, Seymour, Grand Chute, Kimberly, and Combined Locks.

The equalized valuation is used as a basis for setting state, county, and school district taxes. Schools aids given by the state are also based on the survey.

Sherman said that there are 96 different statutory uses for the totals, approximately 60 of which are concerned with school districts.

The reassessment by the state was anticipated by Outagamie County officials since last year. The state has the right to conduct the study without sanction of local governing bodies. However, final reports may be contested by the county.

Bids to Open For Roadwork In Outagamie

Outagamie County is one of 22 counties expecting development, improvement and wayside construction projects following the opening of bids next Tuesday by the State Highway Commission.

The Outagamie work will be done by producing, hauling and stockpiling surfacing for 3,325 miles on County Trunk E between County Trunks EE and U near the community of Oneida, the commission announced. The local plan includes 3,000 tons of base course, 390 tons of surface course and 6,500 tons of aggregate.

Two Milwaukee County developments head the list including general construction on more than three miles of U.S. 41.

Statewide bids call for approximately 50 miles of grading, 35 miles of base course, 15 miles of bituminous paving and five miles of concrete.

Justin Wells, Son of Former Edison School Teacher, Dies in N. Y.

Justin A. Wells, son of Mrs. Mary Wells, and long time Appleton teacher at Edison School, died Monday in Brooklyn, N.Y., following a heart attack.

Wells was a graduate of Appleton High School and Lawrence University. He is survived by his widow.

75 Units Prepare

Appleton Plans Flag Day Parade

More than 75 units, consisting of 10 bands, 20 floats, 20 marching units and individual cars carrying dignitaries and guests will parade through downtown Appleton in Flag Day observance Saturday afternoon.

The parade will leave from St. Therese Catholic School at 2 p.m., proceed west on Wisconsin Avenue to State Street, then south to College Avenue where it will travel east to Park Avenue, then pass the reviewing stand on the southeast corner of College and Drew Street.

The hour long parade will be led by Appleton Mayor George Buckley, Sen. William Proxmire, Assemblymen Harold Froehlich and Erwin Conradt, Sen. Gerald Lorge and Uncle Sam.

Dignitaries and guests in the reviewing stand will be Mayor Buckley, Sen. Proxmire, Froehlich, Conradt, Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon, Kaukauna: Mayor Kenneth Holmes, Menasha: Edward Spierings, village president, Little Chute, and William Spears, superintendent of schools.

Floats have been entered by organizations, lodges, religious groups and businesses. Motor units are from the various organizations including veterans groups. Drum and bugle corps and bands will be represented by Appleton, Kaukauna and Kimberly.

Marching units are coming from as far as Sheboygan, Elcho and Belle City.

Appleton has many things it is shooting for to meet the growing needs of the community and its people, Council President Roy Pointer (14th) said Monday.

In giving members of the Noon Optimist Club a rundown of what is needed to match the future, Pointer declared that:

—Reconstruction of College Avenue next year will be a boon to the city and region.

—Soldiers Square is "an excellent location" for a pedestrian mall recommended in the comprehensive plan of the central business district prepared by a St. Louis consulting firm.

To Complement Structure
—The mall represents "a natural" that would complement the 450-car parking structure to be built immediately south of the Soldiers Square landmark.

—Organizations such as the Optimist Club should make it a state organization; Dr. Helen Young, assistant Milwaukee County medical examiner; and E. J. Reichert, Jefferson County coroner and president of the state group. Also attending from Outagamie County were Coroner Bernard H. Kemps and C. J. Schink, deputy coroner.

Courts to Set Price If Parking Structure Negotiations Fail

Mayor Says No Agreement Made With Ramp Area Property Owners

City officials are moving to themselves in a time bind. The give top priority to land acquisition for the Soldiers Square reconstruction of College Avenue jurisdictional offers on property owners in the near future.

Mayor George Buckley re-potted today the council's land acquisition committee has met with three parties holding interests in the area bounded by Oneida, Lawrence, Morrison streets and Soldiers Square.

"We haven't been able to agree on terms," Buckley said. "At a meeting with one property owner this week we were not even relatively close."

The city owns about 60 per cent of the property needed for the four-level, 450-car ramp which is expected to get the go-signal from the city council this summer.

However, after some delays — city officials now find

3 Violations Cost Fines Totaling $175

Edward V. Eiden Jr., 18, route 2, Hortonville, appearing in county court this morning on three separate traffic charges, drew fines totaling $175 and costs or 84 days in jail following his guilty pleas.

In addition County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered Eiden's drivers license revoked for three months.

Eiden was fined $75 and costs or 36 days in jail on each of two reckless driving charges, one brought May 22 by Outagamie County traffic police, and the other brought by state police last Sunday.

The three months license revocation came on the state charge. State police arrested Eiden about 6 p.m. in the Village of Hortonville, on U.S. 45. The youth was arrested by county police, May 22, at 2:30 a.m. on State 76 in the Town of Greenville.

The third traffic charge was brought by state police May 29 in Hortonville for having improper mufflers on his car. A guilty plea on the charge brought a $25 fine or 12 days in jail.

Signs With Jets for '67?

Paper Claims Hornung Will Play Out Option

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The back John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers, reportedly threatening to play out his option in 1966 and sign with Houston Oilers, has been signed by the American Football League, has ton of the AFL for 1967-69.

Also Negotiating

An AFL official told the news-paper that one other NFL quarterback of top rank is negotiating with an AFL team.

The Times Herald said the paid a bonus of $150,000 to play out his option in 1966 and then sign with the Jets for three years.

Additionally, the Times Herald continued, AFL negotiators are going all the way in demands for settlement of the dispute with the NFL over signing of veterans.

A timetable asked by the AFL in return for full and everlasting peace is as follows:

NFL-AFL All-Star game in January, 1967.

Championship game matching the league's two winners at the end of the 1967 season.

Full Merger

Full merger of a 28-team circuit in 1968, to be composed of two 14-team leagues of seven team divisions each, mixing in the AFL members on a geographical and indiscriminate basis.

To get the 28-team line-up, four new teams would be granted franchises in the new combined National Football League. Three of these teams would be in New Orleans, Cincinnati and Seattle, the Times Herald said.

Hornung's name is added to a list which now includes Pete Gogalak, who played out his option with Buffalo and signed with the New York Giants; Ro-man Gabriel of Los Angeles who reportedly signed a contract with the Rams through 1968 and was arrested following a minor auto with Oakland; and Quarterbacking the final plans, advertising for bids and arranging financing are next in that order.

Welfare depart- ment officials dissented, prefer- ring that the point, which juts into the lake and presently is better developed for park pur- poses than the land to the south, remain primarily for use by patients.

Of secondary importance for those desiring to keep the present picnic area intact for patients' use, were a cemetery and orchard to the west, both of which would be best left un- touched, it was felt.

A proposal was made by Bubolz that Picnic Point be divided, with the county getting at least a third of it for its park and the remainder being fenced off for hospital use.

It was decided, however, that it would be best not to "set apart" the patients from the public by constructing a fence in as conspicuous a place as the middle of the point.

Youngest Brother Still Critical

Marine Family: All the Way

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — He was a handsome, athletic young man. And he was "all the way" for the Marines, according to his stepfather, Nathan Miller, 517 Fifth St.

Now, Sgt. Norbert J. Olbrantz, 24, lies gravely wounded, with both legs, his left arm and right hand missing — the work of a Viet Cong mine.

The family received a telegram Monday night stating his condition is still critical but slightly improved. Prognosis was listed as "fair," rather than "guarded" as initially reported.

He remains at the station hospital at Da Nang where he was flown Saturday by helicopter from the scene of the explosion. He is the fifth and youngest Olbrantz brother to see military service. At his bedside is one of his four brothers, Mgy. Sgt. Julius Olbrantz.

Julius had been reunited with his younger brother slightly more than two months ago. The older brother, a motor transport officer, had greeted Norbert March 26 when the young sergeant arrived for duty in Viet Nam. Julius has been there since last September. The brothers had been separated for some time.

Before leaving from Camp Pendleton, Calif. for Viet Nam, Norbert had visited the families of Julius and another brother, Marine Sgt. Norman Olbrantz, who is stationed at the El Toro, Calif., missile base. A fourth brother, Charles, De Pere, has retired after eight years with the Marines. Gerald, the fifth brother, saw action with the Coast Guard during World War I. Their mother, Mrs. Hilda Miller, at one time had four sons in the service at the same time.

The brothers were always close, said their stepfather. They kept in touch with each other by mail, and whenever they could they would arrange to meet.

Norbert visited his parents while he was on leave in February, and saw his two sisters in De Pere before returning to California and then Viet Nam.

Norbert liked the Marine Corps, his stepfather said. He signed up for an additional hitch after completing his first four years. He has served seven years. He quit school at St. Norbert's High School in De Pere to follow in his brothers' footsteps and join the corps.

A mine planted by the Communist Viet Cong put an ugly end to his military career Saturday. From the Da Nang hospital, he is to be flown in about a week to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines. A large military hospital is located there. Depending on his medical progress, he should eventually be transferred to a Maryland military hospital later.

Racine Site Toured Milwaukee Developer Interested in Park

MENASHA — A Milwaukee developer has stated he is "definitely interested" in buying the Racine Street Park site for commercial development, and has spelled out for the city seven steps toward making the sale.

It was revealed at Monday night's council meeting that the developer contacted Mayor Kenneth Holmes and Public Works Director Robert Poss last Thursday and expressed keen interest in the site which the council has repeatedly earmarked for sale and commercial development.

Poss, in a letter to the council, spelled out the reac- tions of James Callan, of James L. Callan Co., Milwaukee developer and broker, during a tour of potential sites with Poss and the mayor said the developer had been reticent. The developer had rejected about his plans, but had indicated property on the southeast side of a food store with adjoining Main Street and, while smaller shops and a soft goods "favorable impressed with the establishment might be consid- ering the parcel" including the tract. "It was, he said, a police and fire stations and speculative venture — though it, adjoining parking lot and rest- was one that could be develop- mental properties, according to ed Poss said.

Water Meter Reading System To be Studied

The possibility of converting water meters so that readings can be taken on the outside of houses will be studied by a committee appointed Monday by the Appleton Water Commis- sion.

Commissioner George Peotter was appointed committee chair- man to investigate the feasibil- ity of changing the system for outside readings.

In other action, the commis- sion:

Filed a letter from the Outagamie County Democratic Party urging that Appleton go to Lake Michigan for its future water source rather than Lake Winnebago.

Approved the appointment of Gary Stegeman as a sanitary engineer in the Water Depart- ment for $750 per month.

8 of 10 Legion Posts In Outagamie Show Gains in Membership

Following a statewide trend, eight of 10 American Legion Posts in Outagamie County have increased membership during the past year. This is the first time in seven years the Wisconsin picture has shown an increase.

The state has a membership of 74,170, an increase of 21 over the preceding period.

County posts showing in- creases were at Bear Creek, Black Creek, Fox Valley Women's Post, Hortonville, Kimber- ly, Little Chute, Seymour and Shiocton.

Appleton Post 38 and Kaukau- na have not shown an increase.

Some Union Members Honor Red Owl Pickets

NEENAH - MENASHA — Red Owl stores are, however, open and functioning. Three Local 214 members have cross- ed picket lines at both stores, and reported to work this morning.

Meatcutters in the Menasha Red Owl are non-union and also have crossed picket lines. Two meatcutters at the Neenah store, members of Local 73 of Amalgamated Meatcutters of North America are working also.

The picketing of Twin City stores and those in Oshkosh began Monday morning when the strikebound Green Bay Local 1652 could not reach an agreement with Red Owl officials on a new contract.

Local 214 here recently agreed upon a 42 month con- tract with company officials. The Green Bay local asked for a similar contract.

When an agreement between Local 1652 and Red Owl officials could not be reached, the Green Bay union membership voted to strike in Green Bay midnight June 1. The extension of picket- ing to Neenah-Menasha and Oshkosh stores was then initiat- ed.

Village Attorney Addresses League On Reassessment

LITTLE CHUTE — Gerard Van Hoof, Little Chute attorney and legal counsel for Combined Locks village, spoke to the attorney's section of the League of Municipalities convention on "Problems of Tax Reassess- ment" at Manitowish Waters Friday.

Van Hoof explained the me- chanics involved in making a reassessment of real estate and personal properties in a village and the problems of village boards or city councils in authorizing a reassessment.

The talk was given at the request of Julian Bradbury, legal counsel for the League of Municipalities, who felt many village and city attorneys could ing reassessment from city fathers in coming years. Van Hoof helped to guide a reassess- ment program to completion in Combined Locks recently.

Idea of Full-Time Legislature Gains Strength Among Members

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The idea of a full-time legislature during as they know it is in Wisconsin political terms, is steadily gaining strength among the more thoughtful and productive of the present group of legislators holding office in Madison.

The goal is gaining strength equally, as far as observers can see, in both political parties. But the seasoned men in them know that it will require a good deal of demonstration and promotion to make the theme acceptable to the general public.

One of the most thoughtful of the advocates of professional legislative service, and of upgrading legislative responsibility in state government is Sen. Robert P. Knowles, the Republican majority leader in the state Senate. Knowles plans to unfold a number of his own ideas in the 1967 session depending on the outcome of the fall election and his own rank in the next session after the election.

Knowles makes the interesting point that the money spent by the U.S. government to support the U.S. Congress is several times the total available to all the legislatures of the country combined. The national government makes more careful provision for the support of the legislative process than do the states, he concludes.

Sen. Frank Christofferson of Superior, one of the popular members of the Democratic legislative caucus, has told colleagues that he may retire from legislative service because of the financial impediments on a representative who lives a long distance from the state capitol. If he decides to retire, a likely aspirant for the Democratic nomination in the big northwestern district is Martin Hanson of Mellen, brother of Louis Hanson, the Democratic state chairman.

Republicans will probably try to persuade Arthur Cullin, the well known Superior lawyer, to run for nomination on their ticket.

Careful surveys of the Republican legislative election outlook have persuaded GOP headquarters that the state Senate Republican majority will probably be held in the fall elections, although there may be some changes in the primary election. A problem for the Republicans in assessing their prospects is the fact that so many of their incumbent senators are aging and may fall before the competition of younger men in nomination contests.

For the first time since the legislative reapportionment dispute started more than a decade ago, Milwaukee County legislators are visibly and effectively working on behalf of the fiscal desires of the Milwaukee city and county administrations. This may relate to the fact that the city has beefed up its lobbying representation lately and has one new officer whose express duty is to pry more money out of state and federal treasuries for the succor of the city.

In the maneuvering on the highway bill and the Medicare bill and in several other instances during the last fortnight, the Milwaukee County legislative delegation worked as a disciplined unit to transfer some local expenditures to the state treasury.

Joseph Fagan, the chairman of the State Industrial Commission who has become the most energetic spokesman of the Republican state administration in the field of civil rights and related subjects is telling Democrats that the Republicans will cut into the Negro vote in Milwaukee in the fall.

One of the reasons, as he puts it, is the fact that the Republican state administration sponsored an open housing bill this year. Democrats agree that the issue may gain some support for the Republicans. But they also know from their own experience that vast numbers of Negroes in Milwaukee have declined to register, in spite of repeated registration drives. They won't be eligible to vote whatever their partisan inclinations.

When Democratic Speaker Robert Huber of the Wisconsin Assembly left the speaker's dais for a rest period during a long day's session, Republican minority members smiled appreciatively as he invited Assemblyman Harold Clemens of Waukesha County to take the gavel in his absence.

Clemens is the man the Republicans expect to elect speaker in the 1967 legislative session — if they elect at least 51 members of the house, and if Clemens is returned to his seat in the fall, as the veteran politicians expect he will.

Summer Schedule Of WAPL-FM Set

When the University of Wisconsin and state university administrations pushed for another round of faculty pay increases in the legislature last week, they carried the appropriation roll calls with comparative ease. But there were some awkward and critical comments from minority members nevertheless, including a demand from one senator for more information on the sideline earnings of some of the professors.

The idea of general and profitable moonlighting among the academicians is one of the most persistent in state politics. It turns up so often that a year ago the legislature adopted a resolution asking for a study of the subject. The data is being collected by the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, according to questionnaires sent to each of the instructors in the big higher education system. It will be a widely read document when published. It also should be useful in dispelling the idea that the typical professor is busy enriching himself through extracurricular employment.

Wednesday's Accident Reported Friday by Driver Involved

Appleton police said today that they have received a report from the driver of a car involved in an accident Wednesday in which a girl received a broken ankle.

Collette Sauve, 17, 1204 Nawada Court, told police about 4:15 p.m. Wednesday that she was crossing in the 200 block of E. College Avenue when she was struck by a red Plymouth station wagon. She told police the driver stopped to get her name

Radio Station WAPL-FM has announced a summer schedule of educational and cultural events, broadcasting effective June 13.

Pro Grid Peace Imminent, Writers Say

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Despite continued small arms fire in pro football's hot and cold war, editorial observers anticipate an imminent truce — and eventual accord — between the rival American and National leagues.

Reports persist that the AFL, in taking retaliatory measures for the signing of Buffalo place kicker Pete Gogolak by the NFL's New York Giants last month, but the nation's sports editors and writers see peace ahead.

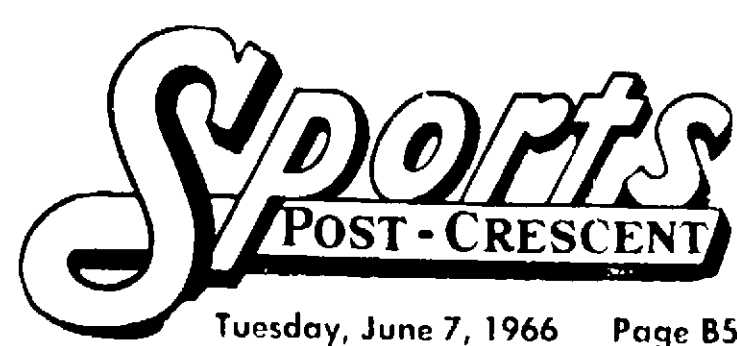

Joe McGuff, sports editor of the Kansas City Star, said the American League has gone on Gogolak with knifed and the offensive against the more legally free to sign with a club. He quoted an unidentified AFL commissioner as saying the NFL, for the first time in the other league, has generally refused to sign Gogolak by the NFL's New York Giants marked the beginning of the feud or its possible termination.

The New York Times said the rival leagues are holding secret peace talks, and that there were hopes for an agreement, probably in the form of a common draft within a week.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
By John Behnke
Do you know when the first Indianapolis 500-mile race was run? It all started in 1911. The winner of that first Indianapolis race averaged just over 74 miles per hour. Winners today average over 140 miles per hour for the 500 miles.
Did you know that the famous Indianapolis 500-mile Memorial Day race was not always a 500 mile event? Back in 1916, five years after the '500' was started, the president of the Indianapolis Speedway cut the distance to 300 miles because he felt a 500 mile race was too long to hold spectator interest!
Pitchers aren't known for their home run hitting, so this is a tough question. Can you name the pitcher who holds the all-time record for hitting the most homers in one year? Answer is Wes Farrell, who slammed out nine homers in 1931. No other pitcher ever hit that many in one season.

Future With Yankees Uncertain

Ford Placed on Disabled List

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitey Ford's pitching future is as uncertain today as the New York Yankees' prospects in the American League pennant race.

Ford, who was 2-0 with a 0.00 ERA, was kept out of a game Monday night by a strained right arm. He is unable to throw without pain.

The Yankees' club physician, Dr. Thomas J. McDevitt, said Ford's arm is strained and is unable to throw without pain.

No Pressure for Peace

United States officials have emphasized that our involvement in the Vietnamese war is to prevent all of Southeast Asia from falling under Communist domination because of the Chinese aggressive tendencies and its massive population. But right now North Viet Nam is firmly resisting Chinese domination whatever are its own Communist controls.

There is a major practical reason for the North Vietnamese intransigence to Chinese demands. The Russians are able to provide Hanoi with more and better weapons of war than can the Chinese as well as other sorts of aid. Every demand from Peking that Hanoi break off with the Russian whom the Chinese regard as deviants is met with a stony silence. The North Vietnamese want and need the Russian help in the conduct of the war.

But there is probably a deeper, more emotional reason as well and one that helped to bring on the revolt in Indonesia against the increasing influence of the Communist party in that country and its Chinese advisors. For centuries the Chinese have infiltrated other Asian countries and have retained their national exclusiveness, refusing political amalgamation with other peoples as well as opposing intermarriage.

A Republican Anti-Poverty Plan

Frequent headlines of mismanagement in anti-poverty projects and more frequent headlines of political squabbling resulting in lack of progress toward anti-poverty goals in many cities have left little doubt that the anti-poverty portion of President Johnson's Great Society will be a minor issue for Republicans in the congressional election this fall. The Republican minority of the House Education and Labor Committee has now made it official.

One course for Republican strategy would have been to keep reaping the benefits from anti-poverty troubles without offering a substitute program. The minority report of the House committee takes a more responsible course of proposing changes.

The Republican report advances a program called an Opportunity Crusade which would ask for increased financial sharing of costs by state and local governments. It would authorize $14 billion in federal money for programs which would total about $2 billion if state and local matching funds were provided. This would compare with the $1.75 billion Democratic appropriation bill for anti-poverty programs for the coming fiscal year.

What will attract the most attention is the proposal of the Republican minority report to all but dismantle the Office of Economic Opportunity by assigning anti-poverty programs to more historic administrative branches of the government.

Adult education programs and Operation Head Start would be assigned to the federal Office of Education, which now operates related programs for school-age

The Chinese communities in other Asian nations have wielded strong economic and political influence. And they are feared and often hated by the natives.

Ho Chi Minh certainly does not care to become merely a puppet of any other nation and the chances he must think are greater with too much reliance upon China. His friendship with the Russians then is based upon both practical and idealistic reasons. And meanwhile the Chinese must fume denouncing the Russians as equally cold as the Americans but supporting the war. In a way they seem to be stuck with the war as much as in the United States except that there are no Chinese troops doing any of the fighting and dying.

If the Soviet Union sincerely wants peace in the area as it apparently did earlier in Laos, it obviously can exert pressure upon Ho for negotiations. But at present the Russians appear to be less interested in avoiding further warfare than some months ago. Unless the South Vietnamese solve their current internal squabbles, neither North Viet Nam nor Russia is likely to press for negotiations, especially when the United States is bearing the brunt of the war both economically and militarily.

children. The Job Corps program to educate and train young men and women for the labor market would be assigned to the Department of Labor. This department also would be assigned the Neighborhood Youth Corps which provides jobs to aid community improvements.

The Office of Economic Opportunity which administers the anti-poverty law would continue to administer only community action programs which have been the most controversial and produced the most political bickering at the local level and the VISTA program of volunteers serving in areas of poverty.

From the start, foundation of the anti-poverty administration has been a belief by its planners that a new approach was needed because the existing welfare and education establishment did not have the trust of the poor. But there is no question that anti-poverty programs have left the public confused because of their close relationship to previous programs of other federal agencies and that the anti-poverty act has produced scandals which can be traced to the free-wheeling rules of administration.

It is to be expected that the Democratic majorities in the Congress will mean that the appropriation requested by the President will pass and that the program will be kept within the Office of Economic Opportunity. But the alternative plan being advanced by the Republicans is deserving of close examination both during the congressional debate and this fall when the voters will have the opportunity to cast their opinion on the best way to administer the war against poverty.

Britain Talks to Rhodesia

Last week the British government sent its minister for commonwealth affairs, Mrs. Judith Hart to Zambia. The purpose was to court that country against cutting off the railroad it operates jointly with Great Britain and which carries goods to and from Rhodesia. Observers now say that Prime Minister Wilson has completely changed his views at least from his public statements about how to change the white supremacist government of Ian Smith.

Informal talks have been going on between Rhodesia and Great Britain and there are now signs that the talks will lead to formal negotiations. Apparently there is now over a growing feeling among British government officials that Ian Smith, rather than being the great hindrance to an amiable settlement of their difference, may be the key.

The changes have come about for several reasons. The sanctions against Rhodesia have not brought down the rebellious government and have in fact more firmly welded Rhodesian backing for Smith. The sanctions have not been absolute for the simple reason that Great Britain cannot control all trade to Rhodesia, a particular ally of the Republic of South Africa which is in sympathy with Smith and his government. Prime Minister Wilson said in January that the sanctions would force a change in Rhodesian leadership within a matter of weeks rather than months. But now Wilson reportedly is hoping to talk off another meeting of the commonwealth prime ministers until late fall because any such conference must upset the hoped for negotiations with Rhodesia.

But even deeper than the practical failure to sanction is England's reluctance to use troops to bring back the rebellious colony. The old idea of colonialism is dead.

and Rhodesia of course would have had independence in any case had not Smith and his backers declared it unilaterally in order to maintain white rule. But further than that there is a conflicting sense of values. Great Britain wanted a more liberal extension of voting rights to Rhodesian blacks than Smith was willing to allow. But in the majority of African nations now run by their black populations, there is economic misery, sagging standards of living and military coup. We have criticized Belgium for giving independence to the Congo without adequate preparation and the new leaders, but even in Nigeria where England had been working for years to help the black people to govern themselves, there was a military revolt and the success of the opposition. There is some merit to the argument that it is not exactly humane to walk out and wash one's hands of the tribal warfare and temptations for demagogues if not tyrants that seem destined to occur in much of Africa.

Ian Smith has invited all along that Rhodesian blacks will be given the vote when they are ready for it although the Rhodesian restrictions now mean that only a handful of blacks in the government represent the millions in the nation. Obviously in great part because of the jingoism and repression of colonialism, the blacks of Africa, except for a small minority, do not have the education or tradition to govern themselves wisely. It can be argued that they must struggle along until they learn how. But it does not seem sensible for Great Britain to go to war to force the white in Rhodesia to permit the blacks freedom for the kind of misery that has resulted in much of Africa. Under the circumstances, the talks between the governments ought to continue toward a program of education and gradual responsibility in Rhodesia.

Race Denies Opposition to FAA Funds for Outagamie Co. Airport

Editor Post-Crescent

Your editorial of Thursday, May 26 in which you charge that I am attempting to put a snag into a Federal Aviation Agency grant for Outagamie County airport is a serious distortion of fact.

I assume that your editorial writer was relying on a news story of a meeting which was held in my office with FAA officials to determine what yet must be done to qualify

Winnebago County for such funds. The news story which appeared in your paper reporting this meeting was grossly superficial and I was disappointed that your Washington correspondent could not find time to spend more than ten minutes at the 1 1/2 hour meeting. Let me point out a few facts about the meeting which your reporter's schedule did not permit gathering.

The meeting held with FAA officials was not a protest meeting as you suggest. It was called because promises made by key FAA officials some months earlier had not yet been carried out. These same officials questioned exactly when jet service would be initiated at the Winnebago County Airport and were not fully aware of the great impact that such service will have on the Fox Valley.

Man Accepts Offer Of Aid From Paserby; Finds He's a Burglar

WOKINGHAM, England (AP) — Joseph Darroch, an accountant, saw a bedroom light on when he returned home from work. He suspected a burglar was in his house. A passerby offered to guard the back door while Darroch watched the front door and Mrs. Darroch went to phone the police. The passerby was a burglar. He made off with eight pounds ($22.40).

The most important purpose for the meeting however was to impress upon FAA officials that the Winnebago funds must come from the 1966 appropriations rather than the 1967 budget if jet service is to begin on schedule and what yet must be done to qualify the county for such funds.

It is ridiculous to suggest that the meeting was intended to put a snag into Outagamie plans. The only point at which Outagamie entered into the discussion was to point out that lower priority projects were receiving consideration while Winnebago's grant was being delayed through unnecessary red tape.

Economist Hits Byrnes' Statistical Conclusions

Open letter to Representative John Byrnes.

I wish to register a very strong criticism of your inappropriate use of statistics to demonstrate inflation in your Memo of May 24. Your data implies that inflation has been the sole cause for the very slight decline in real spendable earnings from $88.16 per week in March of 1965 to $87.99 per week in March of 1966. This is simply not true. Your data indicates that gross earnings have increased by 4.2 per cent from $106.71 per week to $111.22 per week. Prices have increased by 2.8 per cent during the same period. Thus real earnings have risen by more than 1 per cent. The absolute decline in spendable earnings resulted from an increase in social security contributions by workers and increased income taxes withheld. Neither of these changes are the result of inflation.

Particularly disturbing to me viewing your claim both as an economist and voter from your Congressional district is that the correct data demonstrated clearly the point you were trying to make, i.e., that prices are rising. However, to claim as you did that the data in your Memo dramatically demonstrated the effects of inflation is both statistically and intellectually dishonest.

Independent Study of Legislative Process Would be Timely Now

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Recent observations about the risks involved in the informality, confusion and haste which characterize the segmented legislative deliberations in Wisconsin have brought a response which has startled and gratified this reporter.

Wyngaard

It is evident that many of the professional observers of the legislature seasoned lobbyists included share this correspondent's concern about the deterioration of the law-making process which earlier generations was one of the proudest adornments of the Wisconsin political system. But more important is the evidence that thoughtful legislators are worried also and are searching for ways and means to restore the rules of careful deliberation, accurate public information and carefully prescribed procedure that are safeguards of responsible law-making.

Perhaps as important as any other consideration in the clumsy operation of the legislature in more recent times has been the frustration of dozens of individual legislators resulting from an increase in responsibilities that has outdistanced legislative staff and emoluments.

Almost to a man legislators are unhappy about their salary arrangements and uncertain about what to do because of a fear that public opinion will disapprove any act to improve them.

There is a tendency to denounce the legislature for any motion to expand legislative pay while there are nearly uniform cheers for the proposals to increase regularly and generously the financial rewards of all other state officers and employees. Professional legislative critics scornfully denounce what they call actions feathering the legislative nest. Yet there is no other way to change legislative salaries than through an act of the legislature itself.

Now is it quite enough to report as so many critics do, that legislators volunteered for their office and can withdraw from them if they are not content with the pay they knew they would get when they stood for election?

GETTING CANDIDATES
The issue then needs to be faced is whether the system is recruiting truly representative men and women and whether they are able to perform as effectively and responsibly as the constitutional system contemplated. There is reason for some doubt at the least.

The most useful suggestion yet heard in the view of this observer of nearly three decades of statewide exposure is a fact-finding survey by an independent and bipartisan commission of respected private citizens, recently endorsed by Gov. Warren Knowles himself, an expert in the subject after his own two decades of earlier legislative service. In some American state jurisdictions legislative service continues to be regarded as an honorary civic responsibility with only nominal pay. Elsewhere it is recognized as a full-time political office with corresponding salary.

Wisconsin has not faced the matter squarely and stands some where between "sooner or later the time must be faced, in a state which takes pride in a progressive outlook.

MORE THAN POLITICS

Yet the partisan animosity and competition is not the whole story. The habit of recessing rather than working to a final conclusion of the session started when there was one-party control of the state government under the Republicans more than 20 years ago.

It reflected at that time an uneasiness and suspicion in the relations between the legislature and the regime of the late Gov. Walter S. Goodland.

Commercial TV Has Education Obligation

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
Someone involved in educational television in my city recently asked me why I have not given editorial support to the educational television station we have had for 10 years.

And their argument that the great mass of viewers does not care for informative programs is shabby and irrelevant. Newspapers publish many lines that the majority of readers are not interested in. Shipping news, stock market reports, drama and book reviews to name but a few, as a service to the considerable minority who do care. This is the only way they can honestly discharge their obligation in the field of public communication.

I replied that while the project was a worthy one and was performing a useful function I did not approve of the idea of separating commercial from educational television.

Harris

For one thing, having such a station takes the commercial channel off the hook. Why should the public pay for a special station to do what the highly profitable commercial stations should be doing with a share of their profits?

The programming on national television is a disgrace. Not only in the entertainment part largely mediocre but the public service segment is scrappy, skulduggery, superficial and mostly tucked away in time slots that reach a minimum of viewers.

Running a television station like operating a radio station is a public trust as well as a private venture. But despite their saccharine protestations the owners of TV channels pay only the most perfunctory lip service to the public trust aspect of their stewardship. They put on just barely enough informative programs to keep their franchise.

And their argument that the great mass of viewers does not care for informative programs is shabby and irrelevant. Newspapers publish many lines that the majority of readers are not interested in. Shipping news, stock market reports, drama and book reviews to name but a few, as a service to the considerable minority who do care. This is the only way they can honestly discharge their obligation in the field of public communication.

If the educational part of television is separated from the commercial, then the owners of commercial channels are being relieved of their rightful responsibility to offer well-balanced programming that appeals to the curious and the cultivated and not merely to those who want to be entertained by music, comedy and chatter.

There is certainly a place for an educational station that can do a specialized job for the classroom or in handling topics with more depth and sophistication than the commercial channels. But just as newspapers give much free space for worthy and non-commercial cause, I can't see why the commercial channels should be permitted to shirk their obligation to provide much more time, talent and funds to serving this need.

Commercial TV should learn from other groups in society that the best way to avoid federal control of your activities is to do your self what needs to be done before the government steps in and does it for you.

Moonlighting Becomes Way of Life for Some

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The number of moonlighters in the U. S. is now climbing to the highest totals ever. At least 4 million, approximately 5 1/2 per cent of all employed persons are holding more than one job today.

Porter

Multiple jobholding has become a way of life among a large segment of our professional service workers and farmers.

In 1966 the overwhelming reason for moonlighting is not just the worker's need or desire to supplement his income. With growing labor shortages, another key reason is the community's need or desire for his skills. Still another factor is the moonlighter's eagerness to obtain extra training and experience to prepare himself for a higher paying, more satisfying job.

When the 1966 statistics are analyzed they should forever shatter the myth that the moonlighter is a greedy individual stealing work from an unemployed person who could fill the job.

Special Labor Report

If the accusation ever had any validity it has none now, according to a special labor force report on multiple jobholding compiled by Forrest A. Bogan and Thomas E. Swansstrom of the U. S. Labor Department. The evidence is convincing, they say, that most of the second jobs of multiple jobholders are unsuited for persons seeking full-time work.

Most of the jobless today simply couldn't do the work moonlighters are doing. Most would not settle as so many moonlighters do for part-time work in off hours when they earn relatively low sums. Most certainly do not in responsibilities which compel him to seek a second income.

words possess the degree of capital inclination or skills to become self-employed. The Bogan-Swansstrom analysis provides fascinating insights into the characteristics of the moonlighters. Specifically, the typical moonlighter is a family man between 25 and 44 years old. Almost half of today's moonlighters are men in this age group, three out of four are married, nine out of 10 are white. The fact that the typical moonlighter is a young husband underlines his vital need to supplement his income. Here is a man most likely to have a non working wife and a growing family.

Do Different Work

The typical moonlighter also is likely to average less than half a week's work on a second job in an industry or occupation different from that of his primary job. Only three out of 10 do the same kind of work on both jobs, half work less than 13 hours a week on the second job, one fourth have second jobs in service industries.

The fact that so many moonlighters work in different occupations and in service industries on their second jobs suggests they may want to gain training leading to a more remunerative primary job. It also reflects the availability of part-time work in service businesses.

An impressive number of multiple jobholders work for themselves at the second job. While only one eighth of all employed persons are self-employed, a full one third of multiple jobholders work for themselves when they moonlight. This testifies to the special skills and ambitions from the moonlighter.

A final point, one in five teachers is a moonlighter. There is no disputing the income factor here.

Every part of the report emphasizes the special needs, skills or ambitions of the moonlighter, and de-emphasizes the myth that he is a job raider.

So let's kill the myth at last. Let's replace it with a realistic appraisal of the person, a hard working man with skills in demand with ambitions to upgrade himself, and with responsibilities which compel him to seek a second income.

Generations of Past Didn't Need Calisthenics to Stay Fit

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Many doctors today place a major blame for heart attacks on simple lack of exercise.

The suspicion arises that the machines we have created to make our existence easier actually are robbing us of the greatest boon of all — life itself.

Two generations have changed the pattern of our ways more than did all the hundreds of centuries before. A generation is usually reckoned at 30 years.

Back in 1906 — just two generations ago — people lived in a manner modern children find it hard to believe. When grandpa yammers about it, his grandsons think the old man is spinning fables.

Too Many Chores

But anyone who remembers those times knows there was no problem then in keeping the house circulating. There was always a lot of work at home or at work, at least one more chore that needed to be done than there was time to do it in.

You didn't need calisthenics or rowing machines to keep fit. Everyday living was itself an exercise, and kept the heart from rusting.

Just how has life changed for the average persons since 1906?

Well, way back then you had to harness a horse before going for a buggy ride. If you were rich enough to own a new automobile, you cranked it up by hand to start the engine. If you punctured a tire, you fixed it yourself.

No Push Buttons

Latent families often kept a cow. It was milked by hand, too. Mother got enough exercise bending over a washboard on Monday to last her all week.

Millions of families still churned their own butter, raised their own chickens. Did junior want some ice cream? Okay, but he had to turn the handle on the home freezer.

You didn't push a button or pull out a plug to thaw out a refrigerator. But every morning or night someone had to empty the pail of water under the ice box.

Someone had to chop kindling for the kitchen stove and fetch it.

Was the house too cold in winter? Well, someone had to clump down to the basement and shovel more coal in the furnace. There was no air conditioning in summer. To cool off you either used a hand fan — often given away as an advertisement by the local funeral home — or tug open a stuck window by brute strength.

Muscle Required

People carried home their groceries from the store on foot. There were no shopping carts to push.

Few rugs were sent to the cleaners. They were beaten on a wire line in the back yard. Mother fought dirt in the home and on the front porch with a broom. It seemed to be in her hand half the day.

If you opened a can of peas, you did it with a tool that required muscle.

You had to push a lawnmower. You couldn't ride on it while lapping up a gin fizz.

Neither children nor men thought themselves imposed on if they had to walk two or three miles to get to school or work. There was no meat tenderizer. If the round steak or boiled beef was tough, you chewed.

Expected Discomfort

Comfort is the American god today. It wasn't then. Being uncomfortable wasn't a calamity you expected to put up with a lot of it — and you did. A traveling man today whines if his push airplane is 10 minutes late. But show me a fellow who spent years on the road when he had to climb up and undress in an old fashioned Pullman upper berth, and I'll show you a hero.

Everything is easier now. They've got machines to scratch your back or brush your teeth for you automatically, and soon they'll probably have one that will burp a baby.

Probably we'd all live longer, healthier and happier lives by going back to the patterns of 1906, when people did more for themselves and savored less.

But who really wants to live like that? Nobody. Particularly me.
